Trudeau, left, Chartrand provide lively dialogue in Commons corridor —CP

'Liar' . . . 'Fanatic' . . . 'Prostitutes'

Trudeau, Labor Chief Stop at Brink of War

OTTAWA (CP) — A confrontation between Prime Minister Trudeau and labor leader Michel Chartrand of Montreal appeared to stop just short of blows Monday in a parliamentary corridor.

Trudeau was moving away after a heated conversation when Chartrand shouted that the prime minister was leaving with his "goons."

Trudeau wheeled and said:

"I don't need anyone to protect myself against you."

A crowd was in the corridor and men stepped between the two.

* * *

The exchange followed a meeting of Trudeau with Chartrand and other members of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions.

The confrontation, almost all of it in French, came after an acrid meeting between the Quebec labor leaders and the government in a room off the corridor.

During the meeting, Chartrand said Postmaster-General Eric Kierans should be jailed. Kierans just grinned.

As the meeting ended and participants left the room, Chartrand said a youth was imprisoned because he insulted Trudeau. He did not elaborate:

Trudeau denied this and said Chartrand was inventing things. Chartrand replied with a fusillade of accusation.

* * *

"You are raping the population," he said.

"I don't lie. You, you are a Christ of a liar.

"You are a slave of the United States . . . too slack to discuss your true problems.

Chartrand evidently referred to the Montreal postal dispute.

"There are 500,000 men out of work," he went on.

"You are a gang of prostitutes. The prostitutes are more respectable than you."

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Trudeau and Canadian Labor Congress president Donald MacDonald Monday had a two-hour, face-to-face confrontation on inflation. It was a standoff.

Neither convinced the other nor did either seem to budge from dug-in positions.

In three times now rejecting the government's national appeal for voluntary wage and salary curbs, organized labor was "doing nothing" to help beat inflation, Trudeau charged.

MacDonald fired back that as far as labor was concerned with the call for wage restraints, "we couldn't do it if we wanted to and we wouldn't do it anyway."

* * *

In the overheated railway committee room of the Centre Block, packed to its doors with the crowd overflowing back into the hallways, there was irritation on both sides, with the prime minister and the congress president agreeing only on the broad proposition that somehow somebody had to halt inflation.

They parted over who was to do it and how.

The prime minister was "disappointed," as he put it, that labor for the third time was rejecting wage restraint.

The labor leader told him that if the congress was "naive enough" to go for wage restraint, "we know at

LONDON (UPI) — Cambodian Premier Lon Nol said Monday he would not return the U.S. munitions ship which mutineers hijacked to Cambodia March 14.

Gen. Nol told Fred Emery, the Times of London correspondent in Phnom Penh, that although the Americans had asked to be allowed to recover the ship, the Columbia Eagle, there was "a risk of misunderstanding."

"We are just going to leave it there," he said, chuckling.

TOT FALLS TO DEATH FROM SKY

BEAVER, Utah (UPI) — A 2-year-old boy playing in the back of a small airplane fell 2,000 feet to his death when the baggage compartment door opened.

The body of Jeffery Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Myers of Beaver, was found Saturday night south of town. He had plunged from a small plane during the afternoon while flying with his father.

U.S. Soldiers Tackle Mountain of Letters

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon declared the five-day-old United States postal strike a national emergency Monday and sent the first of 2,500 unarmed federal troops heading into New York City to help move a mountain of mail.

Even though troops are being sent now only to New York City, Nixon said he will not hesitate to use them elsewhere if necessary.

The crucial issue in the illegal strike, he said, is "the survival of government based on law."

In addition to ordering the 2,500 air force and army troops into New York City, the Pentagon called 15,000 members of the New York National Guard to standby status. They were ordered to report to their armories this morning for possible roles helping non-striking postal employees.

* * *

It was also understood the Pentagon planned to call up a large number of individual army, navy and air force reservists to strengthen the postal staffs.

It was not immediately clear whether these would be postal specialists.

The government emphasized that the troops would be used in supplemental services only — sorting and hauling.

* * *

So the return to normal service in the areas worst affected still hinged on the return to work of regular employees — under strong pressure from Nixon and their own leaders to abandon the strike so negotiations for a pay raise can start.

Postmaster-General Winton Blount stressed that "we're not talking about delivering mail in New York City — now or in the near future."

As Nixon took his unprece-

A Socred MLA who is a physician said Monday night he is "uneasy" about a bill before the Legislature which would allow the government to take over all B.C. hospitals.

Dr. Scott Wallace of Oak Bay said he is concerned the government "might well use (this power) in a subtle way over a period of time to take over every hospital in the province."

NDP and Liberal members condemned a proposed amendment to the Hospital Act which would allow the government to appoint a public administrator to run

'Sick-Out' Air Threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization Monday warned that a massive "sick-out" may shut down U.S. airways Wednesday.

In a letter to Defence Secretary Melvin Laird, the 7,500-man union said the slowdown would go into effect at 8 a.m. Wednesday in a protest over working conditions.

Robert Sturgill, spokesman for the union, said the controllers will report sick or ask for leave on the grounds of fatigue.

The controllers' new threat follows suspension of three controllers by the Federal Aviation Administration at Baton Rouge, La. The controllers have also made repeated requests to the FAA for better equipment and less overtime work.

Trinidad Takes Over Part-Canadian Bank

PORT OF SPAIN (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eric Williams announced Monday night the Trinidad government would take over the Bank of London and Montreal Ltd. here and use it as the headquarters of the country's proposed National Bank of Trinidad and Tobago.

* * *

In a countrywide television and radio broadcast apparently designed to answer Black Power demands for more economic independence in this Caribbean country, Williams announced a number of measures which observers interpreted as a step toward placating the extremists.

He announced a special 5-per-cent employment tax to begin from Jan. 1 this year and said all companies paying corporation tax and all banks and insurance companies, which are mainly foreign, would pay the special 5-per-cent levy.

Williams

Pioneer companies and partnerships which paid no corporation tax would also pay the levy on their tax-exempt profits, Williams said.

* * *

Williams said the fundamental feature of the demonstrations "was the insistence on black dignity, the manifestation of black consciousness and the demand for black economic power."

He added:

"The entire population must understand those demands are perfectly legitimate and are entirely in the interest of the community as a whole. If this is Black Power, then I am for Black Power."

However, he added: "Let there be no misunderstandings about this. It is a horse of a different color if what is involved is arson and Molotov cocktails.

"In that case the law will have to take its course."

In Montreal, Leonard Walker, president of the Bank of Montreal, said the takeover is "not unexpected."

Too Much for MPs—Knowles

Sweetened Pensions Pass

Those benefitting include former members of Parliament. Their maximum increases of up to 100 per cent outstrip other retired former public servants who receive increases ranging from two to 42 per cent.

Stanley Knowles (NDP-Winnipeg North Centre) in a final dissent said Parliament went too far on MPs' pensions in the bill, which later received a voice-vote third reading. It must get Senate approval.

* * *

The government now is obligated to open up for review all other federal pension legislation, including the Public Service Superannuation Act, he said. Parliament had opened up its own pension act. The same treatment should be accorded the others.

The current legislation amounts to a guaranteed annual income for any MP who wins two elections, Knowles said. The time had come to look at the old-age pension and to obtain a similar guarantee for others.

Also in need of review was the War Veterans Allowances Act and the Pension Benefits Standards Act. The latter, which lays down standards for many pensioners outside direct government service, needs a cost-of-living escalation clause, Knowles said.

Under the approved legislation, MPs with two or more terms would be eligible for pensions ranging from $6,300 to $13,500, depending on length of office, compared with the existing range of $3,000 to $9,000.

* * *

To receive benefits, MPs will contribute 7½ per cent of their annual $18,000 income. However, M. T. McCutcheon (PC-Lambton-Kent) said the figure really is 12 per cent of a real salary of $12,000. The other $6,000 is tax-free expense money.

Few people outside Parliament "will be called upon to make such a fantastic deposit" on a pension as the MPs, he said. The average MP would have "a helluva hard time" making it.

At the same time, McCutcheon supported the idea of withholding MPs'

Israel 'Disappointed'

● Jets not needed now. Page 13

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban expressed "disappointment and concern" Monday at Washington's decision to withhold for the time being further supplies of warplanes to Israel.

But he stated Israel "attaches importance" to U.S. State Secretary William Rogers' comment that his government is carefully examining the Middle East conflict and the arms buildup in this region.

Eban's statement was broadcast throughout Israel after Rogers ended a news conference in Washington.

The foreign minister warned that the American decision to hold in abeyance the decision on further arms supplies to Isreal might "increase the belligerence" of Egypt.

But he thanked the state secretary for his promise that the United States would give Israel about $100,000,000 in financial aid.

Inflation Match a Tie

best it would have only very marginal impact on the economy."

The prime minister protested that surely this wasn't so — not with labor enjoying 72 per cent of the national income.

In turn, the congress president charged that the government's anti-inflationary policies, failing to limit prices and profits, were succeeding only in fuelling unemployment and inflicting hardship.

He asked in reading the annual congress brief to the cabinet — running 62 pages and 90 minutes — that the prime minister ease off tight money and high interest rates.

The prime minister countered with some indignation the government was "doing our damnest" to halt inflation and that if he backed off, labor — doing nothing to help — would be the first people to complain.

Loosen the government's monetary and fiscal restrictions, he warned, and up would go prices again higher and faster than ever, with labor the big loser.

The two men disagreed even over the economic statistics.

The prime minister pointed out that in the last 20 years, labor's share of the national income had increased from 52 to 72 per cent, while the profits of business and industry were declining from 18 to 13 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Surely, pleaded the prime minister, with that percentage of the national income "labor is in a position to do or even suggest something to halt inflation."

But MacDonald was having none of it.

When the prime minister cited 72 per cent as labor's piece of the income action, he was pooling wages, salaries and supplementary income, protested the congress president.

★ ★ ★

"Your salary, Mr. Prime Minister, and mine."

Showing some impatience, the prime minister at one point threw up his hands in a gesture of frustration and asked:

"Okay, then what?

"We're all in this thing together and we're looking for the best way out.

"We're doing our damnest with the tools available.

"You're rejecting our policies but you're not suggesting any alternatives."

Not really, argued MacDonald, explaiing that the position of the congress was being "unconsciously misinterpreted."

★ ★ ★

For while it was true that labor again was rejecting voluntary wage curbs, there was no rejection of fiscal and monetary restraints — merely objection to the way the restrictions were being applied.

Labor was paying the price with unemployment, he complained.

Labor hadn't caused inflation but the government had — by under spending in the early 1960s and overspending in later years.

Wage restraint, contended the congress president, was already being applied because labor was bargaining on pay rates in the full glare of national publicity in this time of "recession."

At the other side of the bargaining table sat the business and industrial employers, paying lip service to the meaningless price and profit restraint program of the Prices and Incomes Commission.

★ ★ ★

And all the while, he further complained, the government regarded organized labor as the villain in inflation, with the prime minister going on national TV to "put the onus on us."

"You may be the villain," broke in the prime minister, "but we haven't said it."

GUATEMALA (AP)—Troops and police fought a four-hour gun battle in downtown Guatemala Monday with guerrillas believed to be members of a band responsible for kidnappings and the 1968 murder of U.S. Ambassador Gordon Mein. Five persons were killed in the shootout—two guerrillas, a soldier, a policeman and a 60-year-old man.

dented step to call in federal troops, an estimated 167,000 postal workers still were off the job.

The chief of the letter carriers union, which precipitated the first major postal strike in U.S history, pleaded with his men to stop picketing post offices and return to work.

★ ★ ★

Nixon said there can be no negotiations on the strikers' wage demands until normal mail service is restored.

Against the possibility that some strikers will ignore all appeals, Nixon said he is asking the justice department to seek more injunctions against picketing.

Such injunctions already have been issued — and defined — in New York and Detroit but the justice department said it would seek more than a dozen additional writs.

Meanwhile, the post office reported a survey several hours after Nixon's speech showed 232 offices had joined the back-to-work movement. A total of 627 offices were hit by stoppages at the peak of the strike, the post office said.

In what the post office called "a major break" in the strike, Henry Zych, president of the Chicago letter carriers, said his executive committee voted to return to work at 5 a.m. today. Zych said carriers would be asked to man their routes at that time.

A spokesman for six of the seven unions whose members are idle in key U.S. cities said the unions "will co-operate with the president of the United States." The unions represent more than 500,000 clerks, drivers, rural letter carriers, mail handlers, maintenance men and special delivery men.

James Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, said he is "absolutely opposed to anyone replacing professional letter carriers" and reiterated his request to Nixon to hold off the use of troops until midnight Monday night.

"I am now asking — I don't want to demand — I want all picket signs down, I want all picketing to cease in the United States in front of the postal establishment . . . I don't want any more demonstrations," Rademacher said.

"We're ready to negotiate. It will be the finest package ever. I urge you to co-operate with the office of the president of the United States."

★ ★ ★

Nixon addressed the U.S. for about five minutes after meeting at the White House with congressional leaders of both parties. The report was low-key, unemotional.

Nixon said he also has instructed Attorney-General John Mitchell to take whatever steps are necessary against illegal picketing which would interfere with the return of workers willing to go back to their jobs.

The army promptly set up a postal emergency centre in the Pentagon. It ordered the troops involved not to crash picket lines and to keep in mind that the enforcement of law and public order remain a civil responsibility.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, was critical of Nixon's decision to use troops in the post office. But he, too, said the point of the strike had been made and urged workers to return to their jobs.

★ ★ ★

Postmaster-General Blount told reporters at the White House the primary task is to move such mail as social security and welfare cheques and vital business transactions, including the transfer of securities.

★ ★ ★

The letter carriers, who launched the strike last week, are demanding improvement of a pay scale that starts carriers at $6,176 a year and raises them to $8,442 after 21 years. They want a pay schedule that will begin at $8,500 and go up to $11,700 in five years.

pensions until 55 rather than make them payable at any age when the MP qualifies by length of service.

He said it seems ridiculous that it is theoretically possible for an MP elected at 21 to begin drawing a $3,780 annual pension for life at the age of 27. If he lived long enough, he could cost the government $226,800.

★ ★ ★

Knowles said "it's a disgrace" that widows of public servants who also draw war veterans allowances will not enjoy the benefit of the increased pensions. Under the legislation, the allowances will be reduced by the amount the public service pensions are increased.

any hospital it considers is being financially irresponsible, as a club over the heads of local hospital boards.

Wallace told the house he would vote for the principle of the bill on grounds that the autonomy of one hospital out of about a hundred in the province could not overide the greater good and the responsibility of the government to see public funds are wisely spent.

"If in future — and I want to make this very clear — the government proceeds to use this bill in a subtle way to take over all hospitals I will be the first to scream the loudest and longest over the loss of hospital autonomy in this province," the Oak Bay member said.

He added it would be "folly to imperil the whole hospital program because of the irresponsible behavior of one hospital."

Opposition members demanded to know if the bill is directed at Royal Columbian Hospital, New Westminster, which has been wrangling with the government for months over its expansion plans.

Opposition leader David Barrett said the bill as it stands "besmirches the good name of every citizen" in B.C. who pays for hospitals and of those who staff and administer them.

He called it "back door legislation designed to threaten people into line" and said it was an admission of the failure of the government's hospital policies. The NDP leader called on Health Minister Ralph Loffmark to withdraw the bill and to resign.

Dennis Cockrel (NDP—New Westminster) said he was worried the bill could be aimed at Royal Columbian Hospital but he suggested that it might be intended to curb Royal Jubilee Hospital. He did not elaborate.

The amendments to the Hospital Act were given approval in principle by a vote of 36 to 17 with the NDP and Liberal members oppos-

"I'm not a fanatic," Chartrand yelled. "You, you're out of your mind, my friend."

Trudeau began to move away and Chartrand said:

"Go away with your goons. You put guys in prison, you threaten to beat them up and when you are on the stage . . ."

At this point Trudeau wheeled around and said he didn't need anyone to protect himself against Chartrand.

★ ★ ★

There had been a demonstration by CNTU followers on Parliament Hill before the labor body was to present its briefs.

Chartrand met reporters there and told them, in rapid-fire English, the government was trying to kill the union in the Montreal postal dispute.

He unrolled a banner as the group went into the committee room. It carried the symbol of the Parti-Quebecois, a separatist party, and the French words: "Federalisme, mon cul." (Federalism my rear end.)

As Kierans came in, Chartrand shouted: "He should be thrown in jail for delaying the mail."

He called them "glorified slaves of the United States."

Trudeau said: "Speak proper French." Chartrand began speaking in English to Trudeau — a separatist form on insult to French-speaking Canadians who support a federal system — and Trudeau quickly told him to speak French.

★ ★ ★

Pepin started to deliver the CNTU brief but Chartrand kept interrupting him. Mackasey asked him to stop and Chartrand began shouting, "Go to hell," repeatedly at Mackasey.

"If you want him thrown out, we'll do it," Trudeau said to Pepin.

Pepin said Chartrand was his right-hand man, succeeded in quieting him and then read the rest of the brief.

★ ★ ★

Chartrand again began shouting about the unemployed.

Candy Bar Breakfasts Demand High Price

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In your answer to the mother who was concerned about her child's headaches, you overlooked the most common cause.

Through many years of public school nursing, we traced the cause of most school age headaches to hunger; many times it was the kind of food rather than the lack of it — also a problem not to be ignored.

You, like school nurses fresh from hospital situations, would be expected to suggest pathology. You would be appalled at the number of children who buy both breakfast and lunch from the candy vendor in preference to better meals that are available. Their preferences begin at home. With apology but also concerned — M. R. F., Retired School Nurse.

What are you apologizing for? You are making a point that will help a lot of people — if the right ones read it.

We've been hearing depressing estimates about the amount of malnutrition in our "land of plenty," with — as I get it — the implication that this malnutrition is the result of poverty, and the government ought to do something about it.

Well, I can't argue that poverty doesn't have a lot to do with it, but ignorance also does. It's been pointed out to me — children in certain districts line up at the candy stores in the morning before school. Lines extending out onto the sidewalks.

"Buying their breakfasts," I've been told. And by your evidence, many buy breakfast and lunch there.

★ ★ ★

For the price of a couple of candy bars, you can produce (at home a nutritius breakfast. So why do they line up on the sidewalk in front of the candy store? Ignorance? Not caring? Laziness?

Or are there other reasons?

what have income tax returns got to do with the Canada Pension Plan?

Well, both your payments to CPP and the benefits you may receive are based on your income. No record of income, no basis for benefits. Disability pensions became payable for the first time in 1970. Make sure you are covered by making the proper contributions and helping us record them.

Other CPP points to watch at income tax time:

1. Self-employed people earning over $800 a year must contribute to CPP. Benefits are calculated on earnings reported on income tax returns. So to be eligible for CPP benefits, be sure to file an income tax return.
2. Employees have CPP contributions deducted by employers. Be sure your earnings and CPP contributions are correctly reported on the T4 slip you get from the employer. Match your Social Insurance Number with your wallet card. Advise your employer at once if there are any errors.
3. Make sure your return is properly completed and contains all the necessary information. If you didn't earn enough to pay into CPP ($600) but deductions were made, file an income tax return and get your money back.

National Situation Brewing

Mail Drivers Face Deadline

MONTREAL (CP) — About 450 truck drivers who deliver mail in Montreal face the prospect of unemployment next Tuesday as wrangling federal cabinet ministers and labor negotiators seek solutions to a dispute that has slowed city mail service to a trickle.

Postmaster-General Eric Kierans has been criticized both inside and outside the cabinet for his handling of the situation.

A veteran labor mediator, Carl Goldenberg, has been called in by Prime Minister Trudeau to report quickly on the dispute. He held almost continuous meetings with post office and union officials in Montreal during the weekend.

Lurking in the background is the threat of a national mail tie-up later this spring or summer. Letter carriers and inside workers now have gone to conciliation for a new contract to replace one that expired last Sept. 30.

Goldenberg is under pressure to find a solution quickly. He was appointed a week ago following heated cabinet arguments among Kierans, Jean Marchand, regional development minister, and Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey.

Kierans, who engineered the split mail contracts, has taken a tough line by hiring non-union drivers and security guards in an attempt to get the mail moving. His impending resignation has been persistently rumored since the cabinet argument, although Prime Minister Trudeau has said he has not asked for it.

The Canadian Union of Postal Workers and the Letter Carriers Union have each staged one-day study sessions of national contract proposals—the postal workers on Tuesday, March 3, causing a huge backlog of letters and parcels to pile up and the letter carriers the following Saturday when they also refused to work overtime to clear the backlog. The two unions had not agreed to a conciliation board chairman, although the deadline was the "close of business" Monday.

If no chairman is agreed on, he will be chosen by Jacob Finkelman, chairman of the public service staff relations board.

Once the board is set up it has at least 14 days, and possibly more with requested extensions, to prepare a report. Letter carriers and inside workers can strike on the eighth day after the report is made.

A 22-day strike by postal workers was staged across Canada in 1968.

Leader Surprise For Creditistes

QUEBEC (CP) — The Creditistes elected Camil Samson, 35, as leader of their new provincial political party Sunday at a leadership convention that didn't turn out as arranged.

Yvon Dupuis, the man who was supposed to be chosen unanimously — with federal leader Real Caouette's support — did not even appear on the convention floor. The former federal Liberal cabinet minister was promoted by Caouette for the leadership in a last-minute convention manoeuvre.

Royalty Ending In Cambodia?

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI) — Unconfirmed reports indicated Tuesday that Cambodia's new leadership was on the verge of abolishing the power of the monarchy and declaring the kingdom a republic.

Authorities were reported to be removing the last vestiges of the power of the royalty to complete a process begun last Wednesday with the ouster of Prince Norodom Sihanouk as chief of state.

Some residents of the capital said an announcement was imminent. Others, including at least two deputies of the national assembly, said privately that the monarchy was on the way out and that an announcement would be made in a few days.

Who Were They?

Badge Numbers Clue To Deserters' Escort

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Just who were the officials who escorted three young Americans to the Canada-U.S. border at Huntingdon, B.C., on Jan. 25?

John Kreeger, 22, one of the three, testified at a special inquiry monday they were immigration department men—but later said under cross-examination he was not sure if they really were.

He said he asked for, and received, badge numbers from the men. A lawyer for the federal immigration department told the hearing the numbers are those of two RCMP constables.

★ ★ ★

The lawyer, E. M. Russell, did not identify the constables but asked if constables Stade and Thibault—no first names were given—were at the hearing. They were not.

The hearing was to continue today before county judge E. J. C. Stewart, appointed by the federal government after MPs raised the case in the House of Commons in February.

One MP, David Lewis, deputy leader of the NDP, said in the House the three had been "apprehended" by RCMP and returned to the U.S. through "sheer illegal kidnapping."

Rhodesia

Bishops Fight Laws

SALISBURY (Reuters) — A head-on clash with the government loomed Sunday as Rhodesia's Roman Catholic bishops circulated a pastoral letter saying they could not accept new racial legislation.

The message, entitled Crisis of Conscience, declared that the church's future in Rhodesia is at stake and said that "discriminatory laws now have been enacted which are contrary to the Christian faith."

"This we cannot accept."

Under the new Land Tenure Act and the proposed Property Owners' Residential Protection Bill, the government will have powers to prevent people of one race attending churches, schools and hospitals in areas zoned for another race.

There are an estimated 410,000 Catholics in Rhodesia. No figures were available breaking them down by race but the total white population is about 250,000, compared with 4,000,000 blacks.

Practical Appraisal

YOUTHFUL QUEBECERS to whom at one time the idea of separatism had an emotional appeal are now commencing to weigh the practical results of such a move against the purely idealistic. And they have come to the conclusion that they would be idiots to risk a change of status without any prospect of benefit whatever and a good chance of a very much more difficult economic future than is promised under the Canadian federal system.

On the CBC's Weekend program Sunday night these young people made a realistic appraisal of the national scene and they found:

That Quebec with 56 seats in the 274-seat House of Commons has nearly half the voting strength in the cabinet, very obviously dominated by Pierre Elliot Trudeau; and

That the French language and culture have been accepted on a parity with English, as everyone is now adjured to admit.

They were aware, no doubt, that in the preceding 48 hours certain other decisions had been announced indicating a favored status for the people of their racial origins, including the appointment of the distinguished Gerald Fauteux as Chief Justice of Canada.

And on the same day, of course, there was given to Montreal editor Jean-Louis Gagnon the highly sensitive and potentially influential directorship of what is known as Information Canada whose function is not yet entirely clear to Canadians but which obviously could be of large political importance. Mr. Gagnon is currently co-chairman of the commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

As a reminder of the trend in the nation, the famous and battle-honored Goose Squadron (408 of the RCAF) was phased out in Rivers, Man., and its responsibilities turned over to 433e Escadrille Tactique de Combat in Bagotville, Que.

For the record, before it is forgotten, Goose Squadron flew 4,610 sorties during the years of its war service, lost 158 aircraft and 933 casualties, and totalled 210 decorations in the process. The 433e Escadrille has no battle history. But it is French-speaking.

These are small items, perhaps, and individually are not significant. But as a part of the whole picture they are very illuminating indeed. They indicate how deeply the federal government is occupied with the winning of Quebec which, all said and done, is the Liberal power base without which it is doubtful that party could continue to be a major contender in the political stakes.

The story of Quebec's appeasement is a tedious and familiar one. But just as a reminder, the cost for the rest of the country keeps mounting in relation to the contribution of the province to the federal treasury. For example, the Ottawa government's contributions to Quebec in the 1967-68 fiscal year amounted to more than $880 million and to Ontario, for the same period, to $757 million.

In that year Quebec paid $659 million to the dominion government in income taxes compared with Ontario's $2,074 million.

In the 1968-69 fiscal year Quebec collected over $960 million from Ottawa compared with Ontario's $757 million, although it is calculated the latter's income tax has gained substantially in proportion. In the same period, incidentally British Columbia got federal aid totalling $207 million, compared with $159,000,000 the year previous during which B.C. contributed more than half a billion in income taxes to the federal treasury.

It is these little items and the other obvious and continuing tokens of regard with which Ottawa, at the expense of the rest of the country, hopes to prevail upon the Quebec electorate to accept its federal partnership.

At least the young people on the CBC's Sunday program showed that they are appreciative and that separatism, after all, has not the bright green look of the federalism which makes Quebec a favorite.

Danger From Oil Tankers

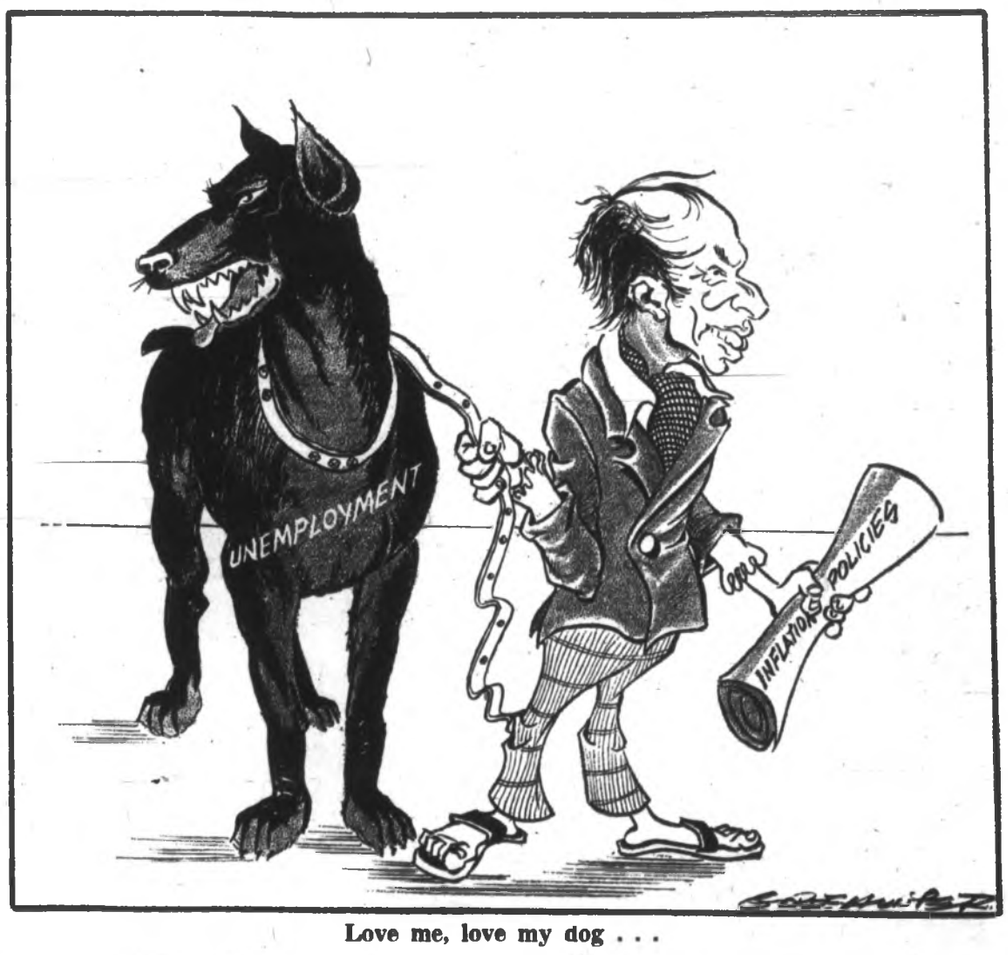

THE CONCERN of Esquimalt-Saanich member of Parliament David Anderson about the possibility that giant tankers will be carrying oil from Alaska to Puget Sound after 1972 will undoubtedly be shared by all West Coast residents, including our neighbors across the border. Mathematically, Mr. Anderson says, "it is a certainty that one day, or one year, one of these ships would get in trouble." The consequences of an enormous oil spill in the waters close to Vancouver Island are, of course, all too clearly imaginable in the light of the disasters that have shocked the world in recent years.

As for the "mathematical certainty," it is timely to note a report by the Society for Pollution and Environment Control as reviewed the other day in the House of Commons by another West Coast member, Harold E. Winch of Vancouver East:

"... As I say, a study was made and a report was published. I hope it was sent to all members of this House, because in the analysis of the problems and dangers of oil pollution to Canada they pointed out a significant, but I think not too well known fact, that in the three years preceding the wreck of the Torrey Canyon 91 tankers were stranded in various parts of the world and 238 tankers were involved in collisions. If we make a breakdown of the record of this society, we find that in the world at large tankers have been involved in potentially serious accidents on an average of twice a week. According to the available information, during the past 10 years 488 tankers of 30,000 tons dead weight or more that are registered with the American Bureau of Shipping were involved in 573 collisions, an average of one a week, and in 43 of these accidents oil pollution was a possibility.

"I think ... we should note the facts which are available to us, especially the knowledge that the largest number of accidents of tankers carrying oil—83 per cent of them in the last 10 years—occurred either close to shore or in ports, areas of the greatest economic, esthetic and nutritional importance to mankind. We also have to keep in mind that the size of tankers is ever on the increase ..."

In the circumstances, it would be difficult not to agree with Mr. Anderson that there will be an urgent need of strong new international regulations on the transport of hazardous products in coastal waters, and of new position-reporting and traffic control systems.

Land of Violence — By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

Blessed by Nature But Cursed by History Cyprus Lives in a Perpetual Crisis

THE island of Cyprus lives in a permanent state of crisis. It is a place that has been blessed by nature and cursed by history. Its achievement of sovereignty in 1960 as an independent republic within the British Commonwealth has not lifted the curse and its continuing crisis is one of the world's anxieties.

Its president is probably the most instantly recognizable statesman in the world since he is also the head of the self-governing Cyprus church and wears the robes and jewels of an Orthodox archbishop. Makarios is a skilful leader who has tried to pursue his country's best interests and yet there was an attempt to shoot down his helicopter with him inside it only a few days ago.

The attempt was followed by the murder of ex-minister Polycarpos-Georgadjis, a hero of the struggle for independence against the British. There had been suspicions that he had been involved in a plot to murder the archbishop and he was under police orders not to leave the island.

The situation arising out of this violence is not simple and it has always been clouded by the fantastically complicated history of the place. Cyprus has always been a victim or a prize. The blood line of most of the nations of the Middle East is represented here. It has been ruled by Egyptians, Greeks, Persians, Romans, Byzantines, Crusaders, Venetians and from 1571 by Muslim Turks.

The Turks ceded it to Britain in 1878 as an inducement to join in an alliance against Russia. Queen Victoria's prime minister, Benjamin Disraeli, wanted it as a sort of vast guard ship for the new Suez Canal and the route to India. He paid rent for it and of course the Cypriots were not consulted. When Turkey allied herself with Germany in the First World War Britain simply annexed the island.

But despite their history the Cypriots are not a docile people. There were moves for independence between the wars and in the 1930s they burned down the residence of the British governor. Real rebellion started in 1954. The Cypriots proved to have a genius for clandestine war and after many of the innocent and the involved had been killed by gun play, bomb and execution, the British had to leave. So far this is the conventional story of almost any British exit under pressure from almost any colony. But the Cypriot revolution, whose figurehead and talisman was Archbishop Makarios, was pledged to take Cyprus into full union with Greece. In fact, with independence, this union has been indefinitely postponed. And this postponement was approved overwhelmingly two years ago when Makarios was re-elected president. Harsh facts compelled this apparent betrayal of the revolution.

Of the 614,000 population of Cyprus, 18 per cent are Muslim Turks and the rest are Orthodox Greeks. Though to a stranger they look exactly alike and there is also a sprinkling of isolated intellectuals, ex-soldiers and civil servants — almost all of them unbelievably British — between the Greeks and the Turks there exists the oldest continuous enmity left in the world.

The hatred and the distrust still flourishes, nourished by the old rivalry between the Cross and the Crescent. It is not safe for the two countries to play football against each other. In the Middle Ages the Turks invaded and captured the ancient chief city of the Greeks, all their holy places, all the ancient seats of the Orthodox patriarchs, all of their countries in Asia Minor, all of Greece, and of course Cyprus. Greece only won its freedom in the 19th century and the ambition of all the Greeks in this part of the world to live under one national roof is still far from fulfilment.

But although Cyprus won its independence in the expectation of union with Greece (enosis) the thought of coming under Greek rule was for the Turks on the island intolerable. At the prospect of union the local Turks began to fight, the Turkish army prepared to invade, the government in Athens sent a garrison, and United Nation troops were stationed on the island to keep the two sides apart.

Today the Turkish minority have withdrawn to their own limited areas and virtually govern themselves. The capital, Nicosia, is divided by ugly, makeshift walls guarded by UN troops, barbed wire is as common as flowering trees on the island. But the Greeks in Cyprus are themselves divided. A very small faction of them refused to accept the impracticability of union and these were largely the men who fought most bravely and bitterly against the British. Many of them were given jobs in the police as a reward so that today a part of the police force is suspect.

It is believed that the attack on the president came from this disappointed faction and that Georgadjis was murdered perhaps because he knew too much, perhaps because he was implicated, perhaps because he was suspected of treachery. No one seems to know. This hard minority will not abandon its old ideal or even consent to its postponement. If they do strike hard — and this is by no means certain — there will be civil war and neither the Greeks in Greece nor the Turks in Turkey will remain spectators. This is the widespreading danger hidden in this apparently random violence. It is a very serious one indeed.

Strength to Say 'No' in Tehran

Iran Preserves Neutrality Despite Nasser's Pressure

WHILE the war between Israel and her neighbors continues at its present level it is difficult for any Middle Eastern country to pursue an independent policy, and the Iranian government finds the problem especially delicate.

In recent months the shah has sought refuge in "active neutrality." An example of this well-tried diplomatic style was his harmless offer in September to repair the damage at the Al Aqsa mosque, which contrasted sharply with King Faisal's call for immediate "jihad," holy war.

At the Rabat conferences, Iran (together with Afghanistan, Turkey, and the West African Moslem nations) was conspicuous in refusing to allow President Nasser and his friends to bulldoze her into joining the Arab political and economic boycott of Israel. This has only increased the Arab belief that Iran is acting in collusion with Israel.

Links between Tehran and Tel Aviv certainly do exist, but they probably do not extend beyond the informal exchange of diplomatic representatives, backed by the presence of Israeli technical advisers in Iran.

The ambiguities of Tehran's position, however, have the Arabs justifiably worried. Persian involvement in any Middle East conflict—unlikely though it is—would have a decisive effect.

Iran's population of 28 million is larger than the combined peoples of Iraq, Syria, Jordan, Lebanon, and Saudi Arabia, and her defence spending, which rose to $600 million last year (and is to be enlarged in the current budget), is correspondingly greater. Her armed forces and economic growth are also backed by a vast annual income from oil revenue, now standing at $1 billion.

★ ★ ★

However, if Iran's pursuit of neutrality has made her few friends in the Middle East, her record outside the area since 1960 has been one of steady success. Since the Soviet Union lessened its hostility in the early 1960s Iran has steadily reduced her military and economic dependence on the United States, which was always more a matter of necessity than of choice. Moscow is beginning to appreciate that, in the long run, warmer feelings in Ankara and Tehran might be more useful than expensive ties to the warring and unstable Arab states of the Middle East.

Special to The Colonist

Iran's interests in the Arab world pivot around the security of the Persian Gulf, which is essential for the safety of the nation's lifeblood—oil. The shah is aware that the quality of gulf oil is not as high as that of Libya and Algeria, and realizes that socialist revolutions in the area would put western companies off the gulf altogether. Apart from this, a tumbling of sheikhs and emirs in the gulf might be an embarrassment for even the enlightened Iranian monarchy.

It is probably the government's preoccupation with the security of its oil interests (and of the imperial throne) that has led the shah, in effect, to renounce his claim to Bahrain, under the reasoning that a stable union of Arab emirates in the gulf after the British withdrawal would be preferable to a state of strife providing an opening for revolution.

Whatever happens after 1971, Iran is determined to be the controlling force in the region, in spite of the rivalry of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia. For this purpose the armed forces are being built up, and a modernization program is being carried out on the naval base at Bandar Abbas opposite Bahrain.

External Affairs Boasts of Budget Cut But New Ivory Towers Spoil the Picture

WHEN it comes to practising the "economy" the federal government has been preaching, try this on for size ...

Cutting and hacking, chopping and slicing, pruning and paring its staff, its diplomatic establishments abroad and its home-based headquarters operation here in the national capital, the department of external affairs recently proudly proclaimed it was all set to save $7,500,000 each and every year from its budget currently running $76,661,000.

(Toss in the cost of foreign aid and of the Canadian end of the International Joint Commission, and both are agencies of the external affairs department, and the budget zooms to $419,875,000, up more than $19,000,000 from last year.)

But even so, a $7,500,000 saving in a budget approaching $420,000,000 is still a $7,500,000 saving.

So let's have, at first glance, three cheers for good, old, reliable, self-sacrificing, money-saving External Affairs.

At first glance, that is.

But take another look.

And you find that, shrinking in size and importance but not in actual cost though it may be, external is planning on moving into a brand new elegant headquarters office building here in the capital, worth an estimated $26,000,000.

Tenders have been called, five bids are in from Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa construction companies and work starts in May.

How elegant is this new diplomatic pad to be?

This may give you a clue or two ... it's to comprise four high-rise towers on the cliffside of the Ottawa River ... and one entire floor is to be occupied exclusively by banquet halls and reception (cocktail party) rooms.

Some economy, what?

Save $7,500,000 ... spend $26,000,000.

The gentlemen at External may argue that they're not building it, the public works department is. But they wanted it, put in for it, pressured for it, offered architectural suggestions (remember those banquet and reception halls) for it, and they'll be occupying, using, enjoying and entertaining in it.

So to argue that "really, old man, it isn't OURS you know," is to indulge in a little diplomatic double-talk.

What's the matter with the offices external has been using, that they should find it necessary now to call in the builders and movers?

★ ★ ★

The gentlemen of external have been sharing some splendid old quarters in the ancient and honorable East Block on Parliament Hill with Prime Minister Trudeau and his staff.

And not to be snide, it's just possible this could be the reason for the move ... mutual disaffection ... the prime minister doesn't think much of external and its diplomats, and the feeling is reciprocal.

Think not?

Well, listen to Mr. Trudeau as he told it the way he thinks it is:

Speaking for the public record, he has gone between quotes with these words ... "I feel the whole concept of diplomacy today is a bit outmoded.

"I believe much of diplomacy goes back to the early days of the telegraph when you needed a cable to know what was happening in Country A, whereas now you can read it in any good nespaper."

The prime minister's dislike and perhaps even distrust of professional diplomats is so real that he has sometimes ignored them and depended for information and advice on his own aides to the point even of sending his senior staffers on special foreign assignments.

Perhaps, too, part of the trouble with the gentlemen of external is that they don't sell a bushel of wheat, a pound of potash, a stick of lumber, a roll of newsprint, an ounce of nickel, copper, steel, uranium or any other mineral, a quart of oil or a holiday in Canada.

The hard-nosed sales-types from industry, trade and commerce do all that.

Then with the prime minister not caring for them, and treasury board sharpening its axe, external was prime candidate for the chop.

Five diplomatic missions abroad are being shuttered, 60 diplomats are being recalled from posts overseas and the total staff of, get this, 2,228, is being trimmed by 168.

Among the 168 being declared "redundant," as government gobbledegook for getting the sack puts it, are some of external's information or press relations officers, three in London, and one each in New York and the United Nations.

It's all being sold as an economy package, gift-wrapped for the taxpayers, as a saving of $7,500,000.

But what kind of economy is it when you save $7,500,000 and spend $26,000,000?

Signs of Preparation For 'Preventive' War

By OTTO VON HABSBURG

SINCE the beginning of 1970 there have been signs that a number of Soviet leaders are seriously thinking of crushing China before it becomes a superpower.

Last autumn, military observers noted a significant reorganization of the Red Army in Siberia. Its order of battle, from defensive, became offensive. The obvious line of the eventual strike is to separate Sinkiang and Kansu from the remainder of China. This would be a relatively easy operation leading to the conquest of large uranium and petroleum deposits.

It is also significant that since last December's Moscow meeting, the Kremlin has tried to establish integrated international forces of the Warsaw Pact under Soviet command. These first-class troops could be used everywhere. They could replace Russian occupation armies in Europe, or make the aggression against China appear like an international operation. Hitherto the project has failed because of Rumanian opposition. Nevertheless it is on the agenda of the Warsaw Pact Sofia meeting in May.

For weeks political preparations have been under way. Neutrals have been informed in Moscow by high-ranking officials, that the Peking negotiations may fail, because of Chinese obstruction. It is also hinted that China is preparing an attack on Russia. Alleged secret documents are used as "proof."

Now preliminary steps for the formation of a Russian-inspired Chinese government in case of war can be noted. There are available Communist politicians, personal rivals of Mao Tse-tung. The most important is 65-year-old Wang Ming, in 1931 secretary general of the Chinese Communist Party, high dignitary of the Komintern in the times of Stalin and, until his flight to Russia in 1963, member of the Politburo. At his side is elderly Marshal Lo Hung, Mao Tse-tung's comrade on the "Long March," who arrived in Russia two years ago. These men are the likely leaders.

Of course nobody would dare to make a firm prediction if and when a preventive war might take place. Nevertheless no long-range policy plan worthy of that name can be made without taking into account this possibility.

North Vietnam Cannot Win without Its Vital Sanctuaries

Cambodia New Crisis Centre

By DENIS WARNER, from Canberra

North Vietnam cannot win the war if it is denied either transit through Laos or sanctuary in Cambodia to concentrate in safety the output of the Ho Chi Minh trail and the supplies that enter through Sihanoukville and other Cambodian ports. That is the real significance of current events in Cambodia.

Beginning in 1952, when the Viet Minh invaded Laos to instal Prince Souphanavong as the head of a government in Laos. The activities of the U.S. Air Force, and, to a lesser extent the Royal Lao Air Force, have hampered but not halted the flow of men and supplies to South Vietnam.

As the war in the South became more demanding, and more sophisticated, however, the Ho Chi Minh trail alone became inadequate for Hanoi's needs in prosecuting the war in South Vietnam.

During the past five years, therefore, Hanoi has been building hospitals, base areas, supply depots and other installations in the Cambodian frontier areas. It was from these bases that many of the North Vietnamese regular forces sprang during the 1968 Tet offensive.

★ ★ ★

In purely military terms, the indigenous Viet Cong came out of that offensive more seriously hurt than any of the other contending forces. By abandoning their purely guerrilla tactics and joining in a general assault, they suffered casualties from which they have not been able to recover. More and more the war in the South has become a North Vietnamese responsibility.

In turn, this meant that Cambodia became ever more important in Hanoi's scheme of things.

For a long time one of the chief tasks of Cambodian diplomats around the globe was to deny the presence of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces on Cambodian territory. Determined to keep the war beyond his borders if he could, Prince Norodom Sihanouk hoped that eventually he would be able to persuade his unwelcome visitors to go away.

Many of his senior cabinet ministers, including General Lon Nol, the prime minister and defence minister, did not share his optimism. To begin with, the presence of thousands of North Vietnamese forces had highly undesirable side effects on the Cambodian economy, already weakened by Sihanouk's earlier rejection of American aid.

Lon Nol

The North Vietnamese bought up large stocks of Cambodian currency at bargain basement rates in Hong Kong and smuggled them into the country, not only to pay for their own local supplies but to provide assistance to the Red Khmers, Cambodia's indigenous communist insurgents.

Substantial areas of Cambodia passed out of Phnom Penh's effective control.

In exasperation, Lon Nol last October used the columns of Sangkum, the official Cambodian government publication, to reproduce a report he had written to Prince Sihanouk on Viet Cong and North Vietnamese activity in Cambodia.

He said that in the second part of September there had been a marked increase in the number of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops in the country. Between them they now had between 34,000 and 40,000 men stationed in Cambodia.

★ ★ ★

This public protest was intended among other things to make the North Vietnamese more discreet, and hopefully, to bring about some reduction in the numbers of troops. It failed to achieve its purpose. The buildup has continued ever since.

With Sihanouk away in France, Lon Nol took matters into his own hands. He introduced currency changes, cracked down on diplomatic currency smuggling, issued the ultimatum to North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops to get out of the country and turned a blind eye to the demonstrations that wrecked the embassies of North Vietnam and the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam.

It may well be that Sihanouk's visit to Moscow and Peking was intended to complement this strong action by Lon Nol at home. If so, it did not offer much hope of success. Moscow's leverage on North Vietnam is limited. It does not dare to go too far in offering in advice in case Hanoi's leaders should turn to Peking.

To a lesser extent, Peking's leaders are in the same dilemma—and, in any event, they have no intention of offering advice that will make North Vietnam's task in South Vietnam more difficult and perhaps impossible.

The Cambodian situation has thus suddenly become extremely serious. The Cambodian army does not have the means to throw out the North Vietnamese. If it were to try, it would certainly fail.

But, almost equally certain, any such action would have the effect of bringing South Vietnamese forces across the border into action against the sanctuaries. There is no secret about their whereabouts. The U.S. Green Berets have been prowling around here for years, and the South Vietnamese know precisely where to go in quest of their quarry.

This would embroil Cambodia directly in the Vietnam war and create at best another Laotian-type situation. It might not end even there.

The problem now is that there does not seem to be any acceptable way out either for Cambodia or for North Vietnam. The situation arising from this can only be regarded as highly explosive and potentially dangerous to the security of much of the rest of Southeast Asia.

West Bengal in Turmoil

By C. P. RAMACHANDRAN, from New Delhi

Widespread violence may follow the central government's assumption of power in West Bengal after the collapse of the state's rickety 14-party coalition just under a year after it was formed.

The Marxist, or left Communists, who were the dominant partners in the united front coalition, may now disown the parliamentary process. If they do, violence will follow, fuelled by arms caches in Calcutta's rat-infested alleyways and in villages all over the Gengal rural areas.

The state government fell because the Marxists insisted on keeping the police under their control. While police were kept in check, Marxist activities were encouraged to take the law into their own hands in dealing summarily with their political enemies.

There have been hundreds of political murders, forcible seizure of land, illegal harvesting, and trials at people's courts. Strikes, lockouts and physical assault on industrial managers have compelled the removal of factories to areas outside West Bengal.

Squabbles among the elements of the united front reached a bizarre climax when the chief minister, Ajoy Mukherjee, an old-style Gandhian, called the Marxists "barbarous and uncivilized." The deputy chief minister, Marxist Jyoti Basu, took vigorous exception to the charge and battle was joined.

Of the 14 parties in the united front, 10 — including the orthodox pro-Moscow communist party — backed Mukherjee, while four small parties supported the Marxists. State governor S. S. Dhawan then recommended central rule because no party or group of parties had the strength to form a government.

The assumption of power by New Delhi has been welcomed by all except the Marxists, who claim there is a plot to form a government without them.

The Marxists split from the parent communist party four years ago, on the ground that Russia was exerting undue pressure on communist policies in India. The Marxists initially supported the Chinese communist line in international affairs. But when the Chinese insisted on immediate revolutionary tactics, the Marxists balked.

But the Marxists now are under pressure from their own pro-Peking breakaway group that took command of oppressed tribes people in the remote Naxalbari district of West Bengal — close to Chinese Tibet — and began killing landlords and looting and burning property.

Led by an ex-schoolmaster, Charu Mazumdar, these Naxalities, as they are called, are now attracting young people, notably in Calcutta and particularly university students. In a recent article in their ideological journal, Liberation, Mazumdar extolled political assassination and gave detailed explanations on how these were to be conducted

The central home minister, Y. B. Chavan, has said in parliament that the Naxalities are getting arms from Pakistan and China — not directly, but by way of the resistance fighters against Indian rule in Nagaland.

Indian army units in West Bengal have been in a state of alert for the past week.

More Power, More Garbage

By GEORGE GETZE
From San Antonio, Texas

The real object of the vast increase in electrical power said to be needed by the year 2000 is only "the production of more garbage," says biophysicist Dr. Arthur Tamplin, of the bio-medical research division of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory.

He said here Americans are being told that electrical power must be increased 10 per cent a year between now and the end of the century.

★ ★ ★

Instead of docilely accepting these figures, the public should ask why so much additional power, with its accompanying pollution, is necessary.

Tamplin said the new power plants projected for the Pacific Northwest, for just one example, are to be built to provide power for new aluminum plants.

"And the new aluminum production is for the manufacture of more beer cans and TV dinner trays," he said.

These relatively frivolous things won't come cheap, according to him, though they won't cost much money.

He said even if such pollutants of fossil fuel and nuclear power plants as the oxides of nitrogen, sulphur dioxide and radioactivity are entirely controlled, a still worse pollutant will remain.

That pollutant, potentially more dangerous and hard to control than any other, is waste heat.

Dr. Tamplin believes it is inconceivable that all the waste heat that will be given off by the power plants that are said to be needed will not damage the ecology, perhaps fatally, for mankind.

A pollutant the danger of which is still seriously underestimated is radioactivity, he said.

According to Tamplin, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission wants to release more radioactivity into the atmosphere than is safe.

★ ★ ★

The maximum "safe" exposure set by the Federal Radiation Council is .17 rads a year, but this is enough to cause 16,000 additional cases of cancer in the United States each year, it has been reported.

Dr. Tamplin said that the reasonable limit of safe radioactivity ough to be zero if unnecessary tumors are to be prevented.

"If any company wants to be permitted to release any radioactivity at all, it should have to prove conclusively that the danger to the public is outweighed by the benefits," he said.

He also thinks that the practice of giving free tuberculosis X-ray on street corners should be abolished at once.

Tamplin thinks, too, that it is ridiculous and dangerous to do dental X-ray routinely, and that most often full mouth X-rays are performed "to protect the dentist from malpractice suits" instead of for the patient's benefit.

★ ★ ★

Medical X-ray and fluoroscopy are dangerous and should bever be done unless they are truly necessary, Dr. Tamplin said.

The most potent enemy of the development of atomic energy is not these truths, but the false optimism and ostrich-like refusal to examine the possible risks, according to the biophysicist.

Nixon May Order New 'Witch-Hunt'

By RAY McHUGH, from Washington

President Nixon is weighing an executive order that would authorize the Subversive Activities Control Board to open hearings on all violent action organizations in the United States.

The order, recommended by Attorney-General John Mitchell and strongly endorsed by SACB chairman John Mahan, would permit investigation of groups, whether or not they are suspected of communist connections. SACB inquiries in the past have been confined to the communist party and suspected front groups.

The SACB is a five-man quasi-judicial body. It does not have authority to prosecute suspected subversive organizations, but it does have power to identify their motives and connection for the public.

First Coal Arrives at Roberts Bank Port

By DON GAIN

B.C.'s future largest port — Roberts Bank superport — received its first load of coal Monday and the Esquimalt-based provision ship HMCS Provider paid a visit to the port the same day.

Provider, the biggest ship ever built in Canada for the navy, was only the second vessel to dock there. The Swedish ship Columbialand practised berthing at the port recently.

Officers and crew of Provider, as well as a group of staff officers from HMC Dockyard and some dependants who came along for the cruise, saw the first coal being unloaded from the railway gondolas which had transported it from Fernie in the Kootenays.

A long line of railway cars full of coal is emptied automatically, one by one. The coal gondolas are positioned automatically over a pit and then emptied by being rotated.

When empty, the gondola is righted and the whole line is moved ahead. This automatic operation is repeated until all the coal cars are emptied.

★ ★ ★

Much more complicated is the machinery for stockpiling, reclaiming and shiploading. It looks like a Rube Goldberg construction or a giant Meccano set.

Actually the various contraptions are called a twin boom non-slewing stacker and trailer tripper; a bucketwheel reclaimer, a surge bin and a dual quadrant shiploader.

—Don Gain

It looks like Rube Goldberg construction or giant Meccano set

It all adds up to a continuous flow of coal into a ship while it is docked, taking into account the need to keep it in correct trim and list.

The coal facilities at Roberts Bank have been installed by Westshore Terminals Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Kaiser Resources Ltd.

Kaiser has agreed to supply Japan with 5,500,000 tons of its Fernie coal annually for 15 years. The coal will be worth more than $1 billion.

In addition to the Fernie coal, 3,000,000 tons a year from Fording River Coal Co. will also pass through the port.

Two trains a day will arrive from Fernie at the terminal. Dumping time for each car is only 100 seconds and the train can be unloaded in four hours. This means that a train of coal cars can make a round trip from Fernie to Roberts Bank and back in 72 hours.

Ships will be loaded at the rate of 6,000 long tons an hour.

Round trips for these giant ships have been projected at 30 days. This would allow one day for loading, 12 days sailing to Japan, three days unloading in Japan and 11 days sailing back to Roberts Bank. This allows for a three-day contingency for port congestion and unforeseen happenings.

The coal facilities are the first stage of the superport. They are installed on a 50-acre handling terminal joined the the mainland by a three-mile causeway.

Installations have been estimated to cost $9,000,000.

The master plan calls for reclamation of about 5,000 acres with up to 50 deepsea berths, each having a minimum water depth of 65 feet.

The reclaimed land will be subdivided into two classes — harbor sites and port-oriented industrial land containing 1,360 and 3,630 acres respectively.

In addition, the provincial government has expropriated between 2,000 and 3,000 acres of hinterland to provide a total area of upward of 8,000 acres to be dedicated to port and industrial development.

★ ★ ★

Two deep-water channels will indent the development to provide about eight miles of potential berthing face.

The first coal shipments are expected to start within the next few weeks in ships up to 70,000 deadweight tons.

Dolphins and moorings are currently strong enough for ships of up to 100,000 deadweight tons. With the coming of larger ships, the berthing structures will be easily strengthened as provided for in their design.

★ ★ ★

Westshore Terminals' wharf structure is very simple and narrow in design, because its function is merely to provide a berth face for ships, access for stores and personnel to the vessel and maintenance access to the shiploaders.

Some of the services personnel found this out Monday. They had brought their cars aboard Provider but couldn't unload them.

Indians Hear Importance of Their Own Heritage

OTTAWA (CP) — It is essential for Indians to retain their cultural heritage, Dr. Ahab Spence, head of the cultural development division for the Indian affairs department, said Monday.

About 25 Indians from across Canada are attending the three-day national Indian cultural conference, sponsored by the Indian affairs department and the state secretary's department.

Dr. Spence, a treaty Indian, asked the conference to advise the departments of necessary steps to stop the decay of Indian culture and help rebuild it.

"No people can take its proper place in society and indeed in the world without a strong sense of pride in its roots," he said.

He said that factors affecting the development of Indian culture included the cultural diversity among Canadian Indian groups. There were 10 major linguistic families and more than 50 dialects.

Indians in urban areas had to follow the contemporary way of life, especially in professional work, while others in comparatively isolated areas could follow, to some extent, the traditional Indian way of life. Perhaps these Indians found it easier to maintain their culture, he said.

The government had started a cultural affairs program in 1965 designed to preserve and promote Indian culture. Since then, more than $300,000 had been given in grants to Indian groups and individuals for the preservation and promotion of traditional and contemporary Indian culture.

"It is our feeling that this present policy can help to develop a greater self-confidence and a sense of pride in Indian origin and history," Dr. Spence said.

Sex Therapy Could Stop Suicides

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Psychiatrists fail so dramatically in keeping their patients from suicide, new kinds of treatment are needed—perhaps sex therapy.

For instance, most college suicides have had psychiatric care, many up to the hours they killed themselves, the third annual conference of the American Suicidology Association was told Sunday.

★ ★ ★

"Maybe we ought to think of other modes of treatment," said Dr. Richard Seiden, a behavioral science professor at the University of California at Berkeley.

"Maybe what they need is sexual therapy," he said. "Sex is an affirmation of life over death."

Seiden's remarks were made after hearing the report of Dr. Michael Peck, of the Los Angeles suicide prevention centre about the first large study so far concerning the distressing number of collegians who destroy themselves.

★ ★ ★

Peck said these suicides typically come from rather normal middle-class families in which parents pressure their children from high achievement.

"The pattern of withdrawal begins in early childhood and the distinguishing feature is the victim's social isolation." He said the young self-murderers date less and few have experienced sexual intercourse.

"We haven't thought much about sexual therapy as a way of easing isolation, and of course it is very difficult to implement."

However, he said, some practitioners quietly arrange sex as medicine.

B.C. Mining Firms Arrange Financing

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Major financing for two British Columbia mining companies is being arranged through Northgate Exploration Ltd., a Toronto mining firm with its chief interest in a producing property in Ireland.

Nadina Mines Ltd. and Frontier Exploration Ltd., two Vancouver companies with properties in the Owen Lake area of the Omenica mining division, are involved in the deal.

Nadina will sell Northgate 200,000 treasury shares for $700,000 and give options on an extra 649,995 treasury shares at $5 each for 100,000 on a three-month term, and at $6 each for the remainder within 12 months.

OPTION THERE

In addition, Northgate will have an option on a further 200,000 privately owned Nadina shares at $6 each. If all options are taken up, Northgate will own 35 per cent of Nadina.

Frontier will sell 200,000 treasury shares to Northgate for $150,000 plus options on 2,300,000 shares over the next three years at prices ranging from $1 to $3 each.

If all are taken up Northgate will own 55 per cent of Frontier.

BANK TREND TURNS

According to the Canadian Bankers Association yardstick, bank business in the Victoria area is down 4.5 per cent in January and February from a year ago.

The drop is considered a fairly modest one, but coming after five years of steady climbing, it indicates the measures against inflation are beginning to take hold, particularly in the consumer purchase sector.

The total debits to individual accounts with the local chartered banks were $477,000,000 in February against $486,800,000 a year ago.

"With a steady growth in the local population an annual increase in the local banking business is logical and expected," said one local bank manager. "The figures for the first two months therefore represent a turn of some significance, although it is to be noted that the total is still higher than in any previous year except 1969.

"The slowdown appears to be in the area of general spending rather than any particularly swing in earnings," he added. "This may be partly due to the tightening of credit and partly to a patriotically induced buyer resistance to increased prices."

UTAH GETS READY

Utah Construction Co. says it expects its Island Copper Mine on Rupert Inlet near Port Hardy to be shipping concentrates early in 1972.

Actual mining operations are due to begin early next year on a property which will involve the expenditure of about $70,000,000.

A number of contracts worth about $4,000,000 has been awarded to various Canadian construction and camp service companies for preparation of the site, road and docks.

The mine-mill operation will eventually employ 500 persons, for whom a new community at Port Hardy is to be developed.

□

INCREASED EARNINGS

Increased earnings for Bethlehem Copper in the fourth quarter and the fiscal year ended Feb. 28 are reported.

The Highland Valley copper producer made a net profit of $9,300,216 ($1.46 a share) for the year, compared with $6,799,844 ($1.27) in the previous year, and in the fourth quarter, $2,864,908 (45 cents) against $2,159,396 (40 cents) when a fewer number of shares were outstanding.

TAX PLAN TOO STIFF

Westsea Construction Ltd., a large privately-owned western Canadian company in the construction and development field, has submitted a brief on tax reform that suggests the capital gains tax proposals should be drastically modified.

It opposes the plan to charge capital gains at the income tax rate, and says that if the capital gains tax provisions are tougher than those in the United States, then a great deal of the capital for Canada which comes from that source will be diverted.

The company's proposals for an amended capital gains tax are:

- A flat rate less than that of the U.S.
- Rollover provisions if reinvested within one year.
- Nil tax if held over five years
- No tax on homes, provided they are held more than five years, with rollover provisions on change of job or reinvestment within one year.

□

UNION TAX URGED

The Canadian Council for Fair Taxation, one of the leading groups in the battle against the government's white paper on tax reform, is preparing a brief setting out 45 specific amendments to the proposals.

While these cover a wide range of taxation manifestations, one particular suggestion is that a non-resident tax should be imposed on union dues sent out of Canada. If that is not acceptable, the council proposes that union funds collected from Canadian union members must be invested in Canada.

OIL RESERVES RISE

Reserves of Canada's liquid hydrocarbons reserves rose more than 498,000,000 barrels to a new high of 10,516,000,000 barrels at the end of 1969.

The Canadian Petroleum Association reports that the increase in crude oil reserves was 238,192,000 barrels and of natural gas liquids 260,008,000 barrels.

Natural gas reserves also rose by 4,284,000,000,000 cubic feet to a record level of 51,951,000,000,000 cubic feet.

Tax Adviser Seeks Help

By JAMES NELSON

MONTREAL (CP) — J. R. Brown, top federal tax adviser, asked the Canadian Tax Foundation Monday to help draw the line between investor-owned and private companies for tax purposes.

Under the white paper proposals for sweeping revision of the Income Tax Act, companies that are widely-held and whose shares are easily bought and sold will be able to pass on to their owners a credit for half their federal taxes on profits.

Closely-held or private firms will be able to pass on tax credit for all their taxes.

Brown said that drawing the line between the two is difficult, and there has been argument about it — and even about whether there should be any distinction.

He spoke at the opening of the foundation's three-day annual meeting and said revision of tax law is necessary to remove many inconsistancies and to meet modern investment trends. There now is a mutual fund in the U.S. whose assets are entirely in art works.

For the individual tax payer, the white paper proposals mean higher rates of tax in the middle income brackets but larger deductions and exemptions. A single person will pay no tax on his first $1,545 of income, and a married person will have exemptions totalling $2,990, he said.

The convention opened with Robert Dale-Harris of Toronto, foundation chairman, declaring that Canada's tax law should contribute to "a socially-stable Canada, not socially-static."

He said the tax plan should encourage Canadians to invest in their own country and not move abroad. But he said there are insufficient incentives to save money and pass property from one generation to the next.

Arthur Pattillo, president of the Canadian Bar Association, said the white paper appears to introduce an entirely-new philosophy, rather than merely to reform existing tax law. He said he would like his son to have at least the same chance to be successful as he had.

New Dairy Policies Penalize Surpluses

OTTAWA (CP) — A dairy policy penalizing surplus production but holding the line on existing returns for farmers who stick within their quotas was announced in the Commons Monday by Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson.

In the 1970-71 dairy year beginning April 1, Olson said, producers of industrial milk will get a subsidy of $1.25 a hundredweight on milk with a 3.5-per-cent butterfat content, or 35.71 cents a pound of butterfat for cream, the same as the expiring year.

EXPORT PRICES

The holdback from subsidy to support export prices also remains the same, 26 cents a hundredweight for milk and one cent a pound for cream.

But the holdback from subsidy for shipments in excess of quota jumps to $1.25 a hundredweight from 52 cents on milk and goes up to eight cents a pound for cream. This year cream shippers were not docked extra for over-quota cream shipments.

NEW POLICY

Olson said the major consideration in the new policy is the continued dairy production in excess of the quantity that can be sold at Canadian price support levels.

The surplus of skim milk powder—now at 210,600,000 pounds—is expected to be cut to 153,700,000 during 1970-71.

WORLD MARKET

Formerly it sold on the world market at about six cents a pound and the Canadian dairy commission had to make up the difference to guarantee the factories 20 cents a pound.

A new minimum price negotiated under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade has increased the price to 10 cents a pound for powder for human consumption.

But a surplus of butter has developed. Production this year of 347,300,000 pounds of butter would leave about 30,000,000 pounds unsold.

Denison Move

Mine Closure Called Threat In Elliot Lake

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Two little girls on Roman Avenue, inaugurating the spring with bright red skipping ropes, offered an Elliot Lake comment on the threat of anothr plunge in the rollercoaster career of this 16-year-old uranium community.

Sparkling in the weekend sunshine, Roman Avenue looks like a cleaner version of an urban subdivision. Almost all its pastel-colored houses are freshly painted and the occasional snowmobile sits ready for action on a front lawn.

HOUSES EMPTY

Stephen Roman — the man for whom the street was named — raised the possibility Friday that the houses may soon be emptied, as many of them were five years ago.

Roman is chairman of Denison Mines Ltd., one of two producers that survived the slump of the early 1960s when nine mines closed following cancellation of United States uranium orders. Denison employs 900 of the 1,600 miners in the community.

He says he may be forced to close the mine for three or four years if the federal government prevents him from obtaining the additional financial resources he needs.

SALE HALTED

A planned sale of a 25-per-cent interest in Denison to a U.S.-controlled corporation was halted last week by government restrictions on foreign ownership in the industry.

For Elliot Lake — rebounding vigorously with the revival of the uranium market — the prospect was totally unexpected.

Its population, down from a high of 20,000 to 6,200 in 1965 was back up to 9,500 and expansion plans of Rio Algom Mines Ltd. promised to add at least 1,000 more.

BLUFF HOPE

Reeve Roger Taylor, who called a series of emergency meetings with businessmen and union officials, expressed the hope that Roman was bluffing.

"In view of this desire by him to dispose of stock, I feel he is possibly using this threat as a means to obtain his desires," he said.

The reeve called on the government to act swiftly taking over the mines if necessary, if the threat of closure was carried out.

INITIAL SHOCK

Businessmen and union officials joined Taylor in expressing resentment at Roman's tactics — which one mine worker described as blackmail.

But after the initial shock, Elliot Lake behaved like a community enjoying a weekend of spring weather. The streets were thronged with participants in the district minor hockey league playoffs.

At crowded lunch counters and supermarkets the conversation was about everything except the crisis.

Kitchen Mistake Costs Jobs of Nurses

GLASGOW (CP) — Four nurses in a Jewish old people's home here were fired Sunday after an empty can of pork luncheon meat was found in the kitchen garbage can. All crockery and cutlery were destroyed.

Jets for Jews Not Needed Now—U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has put off an Israeli request for additional warplanes because "in our judgment Israel's air capacity is sufficient to meet its needs for the time being."

In announcing the decision Monday, State Secretary William P. Rogers told a news conference that President Nixon decided to hold the request for 25 additional F-4 Phantom sand 100 A-4 Skyhawks "in abeyance for now."

★ ★ ★

On the other hand, the U.S. responded favorably to Israel's request for economic assistance. Rogers announced an expanded program of surplus food deliveries to be paid in local currency and credits to help Israel comply with its obligations on earlier military contracts.

The amount involved approximates $100,000,000, Rogers said.

In Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Abba Eban asked the United States to reconsider its decision against sending further warplanes to Israel now, or face the prospect of "an expanded conflict" in the Middle East.

Rogers said of developments in Southeast Asia:

● President Nixon has sent another letter to Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin calling on the Soviet Union as co-chairman of the 1962 Geneva conference on Laos to restore peace in that country.

● The U.S. would stop bombing the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos if North Vietnam withdrew its troops from that country.

● The U.S. had "nothing to do either directly or indirectly" with the ouster of Prince Norodom Sihanouk as Cambodian head of state. It recognizes and respects that country's neutrality.

Progress Shows

Cancer's Cure Longer Step

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Man soon will have a "Complete understanding" of cancer and the viruses that cause it, but a cure for the disease will take longer, a Nobel Prize winning scientist said Monday.

"We'll have to be patient," said Dr. Wendell Stanley. "Between the discovery of the polio virus and an effective vaccine against polio there were 58 years."

★ ★ ★

Stanley, a virologist, said scientists are close to the positive proof that many human cancers are caused by viruses. Such proof would lead to preventative vaccines.

A human cancer virus has not yet been discovered. The first of 82 viruses which cause the disease in laboratory animals was discovered 62 years ago.

Stanley spoke at the annual science writers seminar of the American Cancer Society. He was followed by Dr. Frank Rauscher, head of viral research at the National Cancer Institute.

Rauscher said there is evidence that human cancer viruses may be transmitted from one generation to the next in the germ cells. He said they could cause cancer only if activated by "helper" viruses.

More Needing Summer Jobs

OTTAWA (CP) — An estimated 640,000 high school and university students will be temporary members of the labor force this summer, 10 per cent more than last summer, the Commons was told Monday.

Manpower Minister Allan MacEachen said in a statement that 93 per cent of the college and university students who sought work last summer found it.

Weddings Bill Introduced

WINNIPEG (CP) — A bill which would give magistrates the power to perform civil marriage ceremonies has been given first reading in the Manitoba legislature. At present, the power rests only with judges.

'Super-School Costs Foisted on Taxpayer'

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

The government was accused in the Legislature Monday of creating "super high schools" rather than regional colleges and of loading extra costs upon local taxpayers.

Liberal leader Patrick McGeer told the House during debate on the principle of amendments to the Public Schools Act dealing mainly with regional colleges, that the government is misleading the public.

"All we are doing is making grades 13 and 14, which is not my concept of a college at all," McGeer said. "The government is misleading the people into believing that these super high schools constitute new colleges, which they don't in any way. And local taxpayers are being made to pay through the nose."

McGeer said the government is "introducing educational discrimination as a deliberate policy" by creating regional inequalities in the standards of education offered by regional colleges.

He was called "an educational snob" by Education Minister Donald Brothers, who pointed out that regional colleges aren't intended simply as stepping stones to universities. He said the government's policy calls for roughly equal sharing of students following academic and technical studies in the colleges.

NINTH DISCUSSED

The minister said in the past few years the government has established six colleges and two more — in the Fraser Valley and Kamloops — are due to open this fall. A ninth regional college to serve southern Vancouver Island, Brothers said, now is being discussed with local school boards.

The Liberals and the NDP opposed approval in principle of the bill but it passed into committee by a vote of 35 to 16.

The NDP objections, first outlined by Mrs. Eileen Dailly (NDP-Burnaby North), are based upon opposition to principle of local taxation at the regional college level.

'WRONG CONCEPT'

Robert Strachan (NDP—Cowichan Malahat) said it is "a wrong concept" to make colleges part of the public school system with costs loaded onto local taxpayers.

Dennis Cocke (NDP—New Westminster) said the government's attitude toward education as a whole can be summed up as "paying as little as possible but still calling the shots."

Burt Campbell (SC—Revelstoke—Slocan) said local taxpayers in the Kootenays only bear 22 per cent of the cost of operating Selkirk College. The provincial government pays 60 per cent, he said, and student fees and other sources of money account for the remaining 18 per cent.

SPECIAL NEEDS

He said 22 per cent is small price to pay for the privilege of local authorities having a say in the selection of courses to meet special needs in the area.

Dave Brousson (L—North Vancouver—Capilano) said the regional college system should be covered by a separate act.

"The college system is growing up,' he said, "and trying to lock more closely than ever to elementary and secondary schools, with a different set of objectives, is purely a matter of administrative convenience."

New Formula In Financing 'New Burden'

The B.C. government's proposed municipal financing authority will force municipalities on to the open money market with its high interest rates, the Legislature was told Monday night.

Alan Williams (L — West Vancouver-Howe Sound) said the planned move is part of a long history of pushing more and more burdens onto the municipalities while withholding measures that would help the local governments in their finances.

BOTH OPPOSED

Both NDP and Liberal opposition parties voted against second reading of the bill that sets up the authority, but it passed by a vote of 35 to 17.

The bill is designed to mobilize finances for construction of sewers, pollution abatement and water supply facilities.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said the bill will be the first of its kind in North America and said that every time a municipality wants to borrow, it will have the backing of all other municipalities.

Opposition Leader Dave Barrett said the bill means the government does not regard pollution as a priority issue. He called for a complete pooling of all government borrowing to be done in lump sums every five years to pay for five-year plans.

Liberal leader Patrick McGeer said the local government should be equally entitled, along with B.C. Hydro and the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, to borrowing out of pension funds held in trust by the B.C. government.

'PLANNING FAVORITES'

The government, he said, "is playing favorites with its own monuments." The only worthwhile kind of financing authority is one that is "unconditionally guaranteed" by the province.

McGeer said the bill will be no guarantee that the municipalities' borrowing power will be increased.

Campbell is acting as a "whipping boy" for the B.C. finance minister, he said. The bill is a favor not to the municipalities, but to Premier Bennett, said McGeer.

LATER REPLY

Campbell replied later that McGeer's statements were irresponsible and he said McGeer was against the principle of equalization. Opposition criticisms, he said, indicate the opposition parties want a complete abdication of local autonomy and local fiscal responsibility.

Alex Fraser (SC—Caribou), a former Mayor of Quesnel, said the bill would enable the municipalities to increase their borrowing ability.

Actual Contact

Bill Assures Legal Aid

The Legislature Monday night approved in principle a bill that will ensure arrested parties a contact with legal counsel.

The measure, included in a bill to amend the Summary Convictions Act, will not only guarantee a phone call for prisoner but will ensure a prisoner actually talks to counsel, Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Democracy Urged At Hospital

The British Columbia government was urged Monday to ensure "democratic control" on the board of trustees at Vancouver General Hospital.

Speaking during second reading of a bill to revise the Vancouver General Hospital Act, Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby-Edmonds) said representation by the city of Vancouver and the regional hospital district board should be ensured under the new act.

The hospital, he said, is used by the whole province and should no longer be the responsibility of a small narrow group.

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark told the House the government will keep a close eye on "the anomalies" that he agreed had grown up in the institution's administration.

$60,000 Goal

Cancer Drive Opens

The Canadian Cancer Society announced Monday it hopes to raise $60,000 during its annual fund-raising campaign in the Greater Victoria area next month.

Most of the donations are expected by mail and gifts may be sent to Post Office Box 202, Victoria, said a spokesman.

The money is needed for research, treatment and education programs. B.C.'s share of a national objective of $6,392,000 is $525,000.

Although most cancer treatments are a benefit of B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, one of the local benefactors of the fund drive is the cancer clinic at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Campbell's Prediction for B.C.:

Cleanest on Earth by '75

By CLEMENT CHAPPLE

B.C.'s pollution control efforts will make the province "the cleanest place on earth" by 1975, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Monday in the Legislature.

In a high-volume denunciation of critics of the government's pollution control policies, Campbell also warned the eastern Canadian E. B. Eddy Co. to "stay home" if it thinks it can pollute in B.C. and get away with it.

The minister took issue as well with teachers who do "zilch" in the pollution battle by painting depressing pictures of the future for their pupils.

SECOND READING

Campbell's speech came during second reading of the government's new air pollution legislation. Campbell's fiery oration came despite the announced intention of at least the New Democrats to support the bill.

Campbell called "unethical and completely intolerable" the "teaching performance" which he said is widespread in B.C., in which "university professors in their ivory towers and teachers in their teaching cubicle classrooms" have done damage which will take a long time to correct.

MORE TIME

Any teacher "spending more time on problems than on solutions," said Campbell, "is doing absolutely zilch."

He said in one instance a teacher had led his class to believe there would be nothing but a pall of smoke overhead in the future.

Campbell said that before the "foolish rumor" that B.C. will accept polluting industries "goes one inch," he wanted to warn the E. B. Eddy firm if the company has "any doubt" about control measures in B.C.

'NOT EASIER'

The rules will not be easier, but tougher than anywhere else. "Eddy Match Co., go home, stay home, if you have any idea that B.C. is softer than anywhere else," said Campbell.

He made the warning, Campbell said, because MLAs had been relating a story that the Hull, Que., company was looking for softer pollution controls and might be planning to relocate in B.C. The story arose from the statement by an NDP member in the Ontario legislature, who said Eddy was asking its employees if they would be sympathetic to moving to this province.

'THE CLEANEST'

Campbell added that "in 1975, British Columbia is going to be in terms of water, of soil and of air the cleanest place on earth."

Ernie Hall (NDP—Surrey) said the NDP would support the bill but he warned that the government's pollution permit system invites people with permits to violate its terms and then use the permit as a complete defence of the action.

FROM OCEAN

Hall also said that an oil company has ordered six electrically powered "undersea boats," which shows that the oil industry is interested in getting oil from the ocean bed.

He criticized mines Minister Frank Richter for saying there is no decision to be made about oil drilling in Georgia Strait because no one is planning to drill.

BILL WELCOMED

David Brousson (L—North Vancouver-Capilano) said he welcomed the bill, which will bring air pollution under the control of the Pollution Control Board, but he said it emphasizes "how much pollution can I get away with" instead of saying what may not be done.

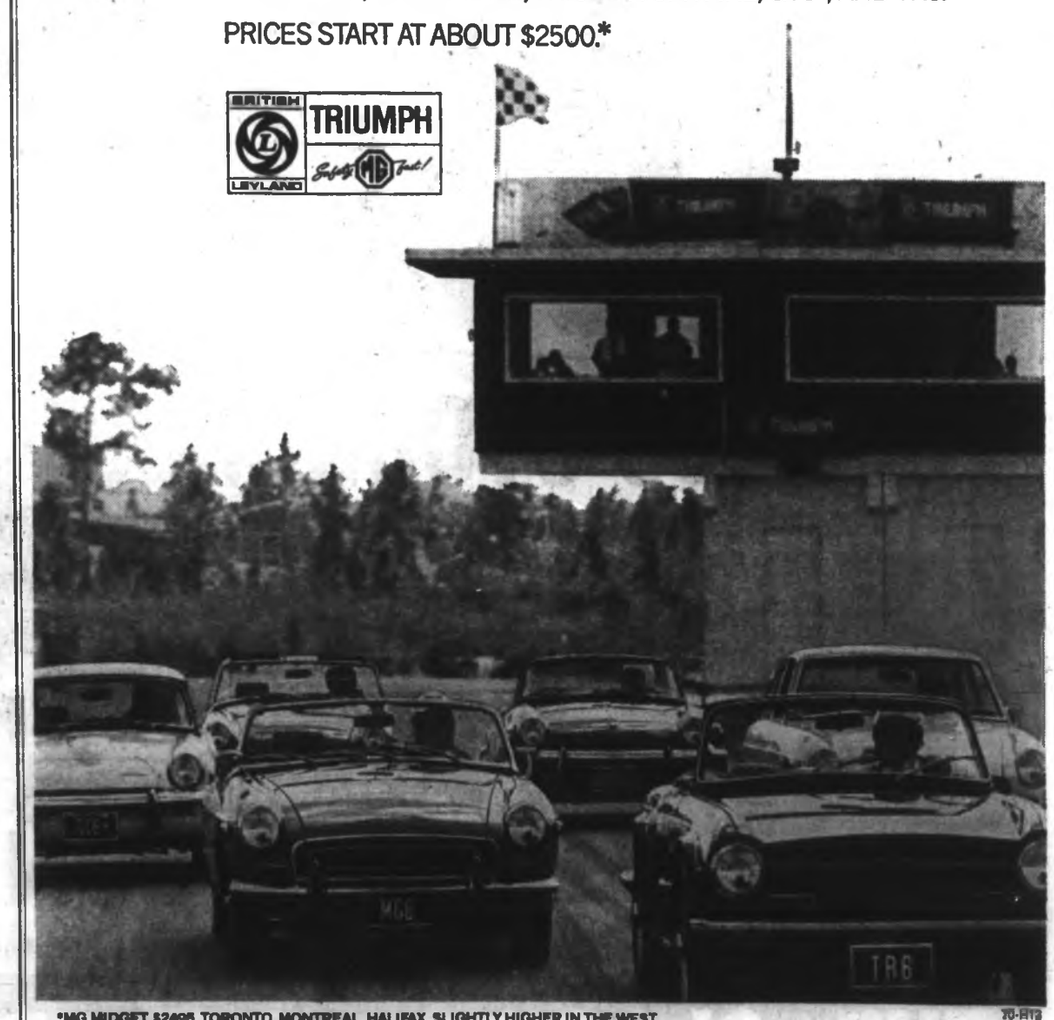

Robert Strachen (NDP—Cowichan-Malahat) said "we must pay up" where pollution is concerned, instead of working on the premise that nature can withstand pollution under controlled circumstances.

Car Tale Likened to Novel

A 21-year-old Victoria man who told a lie to police Jan. 20 so he might get on welfare pleaded guilty Monday in Victoria Provincial Court to a charge of public mischief.

David Henry Chibry, 731 Vancouver, was remanded by Judge William Ostler to April 1 for sentence after a pre-sentence report.

Police testified Chibry admitted he lent his car to a juvenile girl when he was in Tampa, Fla., last fall. After he returned to Victoria, he told police Jan. 20 the car had been stolen four days before from the parking lot of a downtown hotel.

Court was told the car was found Feb. 21 in Albuquerque, N.M., still in possession of the girl, who gave police the real story. Police said Chibry, arrested Monday, admitted thinking up the story "to make it easier for him to obtain welfare."

"This man should be a novelist," the judge said.

Thomas R. Mills, 22, no fixed address, was sentenced to 14 months definite and 18 months indeterminate at Oakalla prison farm after pleading guilty Saturday and Monday to three false-pretences charges involving six bad cheques.

Mills obtained almost $225 in cash and goods from four stores through the cheques, cashed in December and this month. He asked court for a "last chance," adding: "I've had an awful long time in jail. I don't want to spend the rest of my life there."

The judge pointed to bad-cheque convictions for Mills in 1965 and 1967 plus two attempts to escape from jail, but gave Mills a definite-indeterminate sentence as a chance at parole if he behaves in jail.

Daniel Clayton Richmond, 28, of Williams Lake, was sentenced to a total of 18 months in jail and the judge agreed with Richmond's request that the time be served in a prison unit for alcoholics.

Richmond pleaded guilty March 5 to four charges involving five counts of bad cheques or obtaining lodgings by fraud in Victoria and Saanich from last Nov. 29 to Feb. 25. He also pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of stealing a car Feb. 5 at Williams Lake.

Richmond told court he wanted treatment for alcoholism because his wife had told him this was his last chance and "I don't want to lose my family."

Mrs. Isabel McBurney, 57, of 2230 Cadboro Bay, who pleaded guilty to two charges of theft under $50, was fined a total of $300 — $150 on each count. Court was told she shoplifted $20.99 worth of groceries from the Safeway store at 1950 Foul Bay Road and several items worth a total of $1.80 from a nearby drugstore, both on Dec. 12.

□

April 10 was chosen as the trial date for Robert James Smith, 19, of 123 Cambridge, who pleaded not guilty to two charges. He is accused of breaking into a Fairfield-area TV shop March 6 and of possessing a stolen color TV set March 6.

Accident Seminar:

Let's Hear All Factors

A specialist in the cause of accidents should be a part of every coroner's jury inquiring into traffic fatalities, according to members of a traffic safety seminar held Sunday at the Red Lion Motor Inn.

Sparked by the fact that there have been 12 road deaths already this year in Greater Victoria, the Capital Region Safety Council's youth section urged that the specialist, who could be a municipal official, probe deeply enough to uncover the specific and exact cause of the fatal accident.

He would then report to the executive committee of the safety council which would pass the information on to the general public via the news media.

SEVERAL FACTORS

Dennis Wagner, general manager of the safety council, stressed Monday that there were usually several factors involved in a traffic death. There was the early cause, the contributory cause and the direct cause.

The first two could involve liquor, drugs, emotional disturbance or something which happened before the accident.

These factors were often not brought out at an inquiry and were rarely aired in the press although they might be very important in the whole picture.

IT'S EDUCATIONAL

Wagner said that the safety council had no desire to cause further anguish to any of the people close to the person killed in the accident and would use discretion in the information it released.

The whole motive was educational, he said.

"People killed in automobile accidents should not die in vain and, if the exact and specific cause of crashes were uncovered, other motorists would benefit," he said.

The safety council would like to hear the views of others in this matter, Wagner said. Letters are to be addressed to the General Manager, Capital Region Safety Council, 6-671 Fort Street, Victoria.

Stove Fire Scorches Kitchen

Damage was estimated at $2,000 Monday by Oak Bay firemen after a Saturday fire in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Moreau, 2028 Runnymede.

Firemen said the blaze began in the area of the kitchen stove while no one was home. The stove was ruined, light fixtures and a clock melted, a refrigerator was damaged and a wall was scorched.

Penticton Made It Work

About 200 persons attending the Greater Victoria Visitors' Bureau's annual meeting luncheon at the Empress Hotel were told Monday that "total community involvement" was needed to assure the building of a convention centre in Victoria.

Addressing the group was F. D. Stuart, mayor of Penticton, a city of 16,000 which built a convention centre five years ago.

"If Penticton can do it, you would have to prove to me that a city like Victoria can't," he said.

Stuart told the luncheon that Penticton employed a full-time convention promotion manager whose job it was to sell the city's convention facilities to companies across Canada and the U.S.

Although the convention bureau operated with an annual net loss of about $50,000, the business it attracted to Penticton ran into millions of dollars, Stuart said.

"In 1970, we anticipate that convention delegates will spend approximately $2,000,000 for accommodation and another $3,000,000 on food and various other items," he said.

"Conventions are big business, and Penticton is getting its share," Stuart said.

Thief Takes Jewels, Cash

Oak Bay police said Monday they are investigating a break-in and theft involving items worth more than $200. A gold watch, an engagement ring and $100 in cash were taken from the home of Dr. J. M. Sinclair, 555 Monterey.

Another weekend theft, reported by the RCMP, saw $65 worth of cigarettes and chocolate bars taken from the Home service station at Craigflower and Admirals.

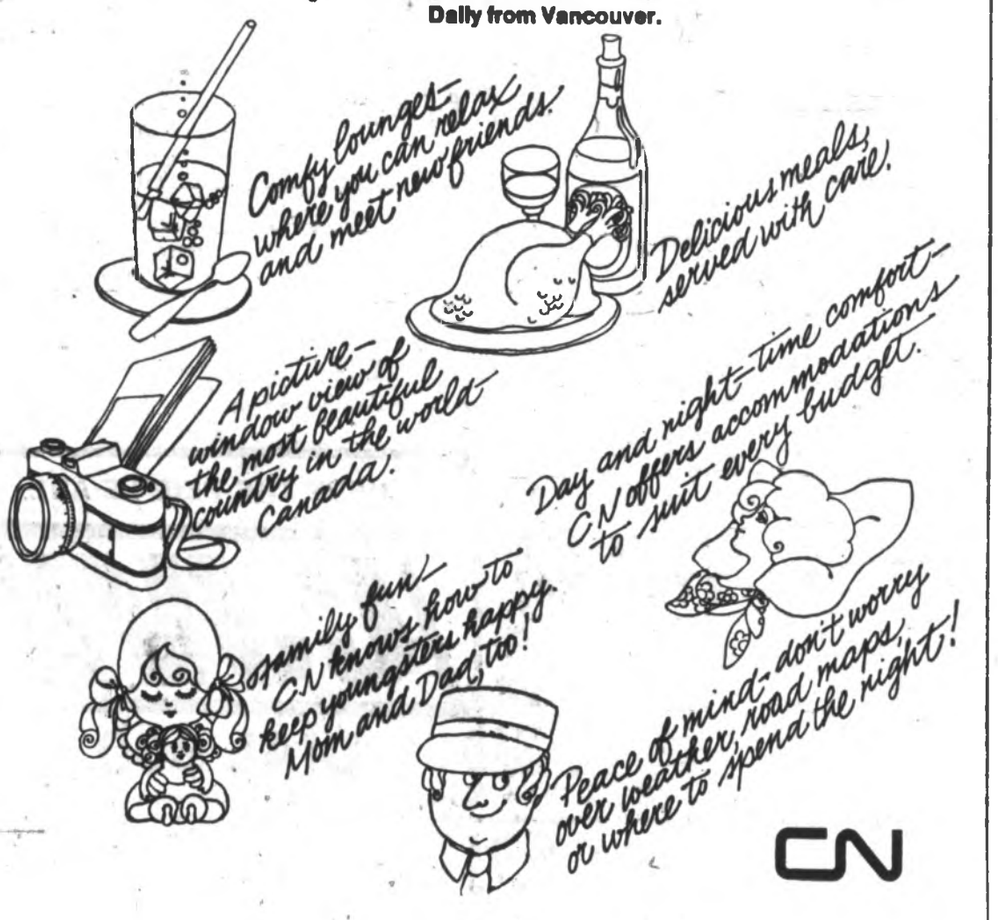

Levesque Runs In Own Riding

MONTREAL (UPI)—Parti Quebecois leader Rene Levesque surprised Quebec political observers Saturday with his announcement that he would run for re-election in the Laurier riding of Montreal.

Levesque had been rumored looking for a constituency that would be easier to run in than Laurier, which has a high ethnic population that was expected to question Levesque's credentials as leader of a party that seeks secession from Canada.

Vietnam Killings Retold at Trials

LONG BINH, South Vietnam (UPI) — Courts martial opened Monday for two American soldiers accused of killing Vietnamese. Both pleaded not guilty.

One of the trials, involves Lieut. James Duffy, a 22-year-old officer from Claremont, Calif., who is accused of ordering the execution of a Vietnamese named Do Van Man after Man and other Vietnamese were rounded up during a patrol last September.

The other case involves Pte. Russell Armstrong, 20, of Erie, Pa., accused of shooting a 15-year-old Vietnamese boy named Le Ngoi Anh after a poisonous snake was thrown into the cab of an American truck in which Armstrong was riding.

The prosecution at Duffy's trial charged that the patrol under Duffy's command, found Man, a Vietnamese woman, two children and an elderly Vietnamese man in a house.

Man, according to the prosecution lawyer, Capt. Robert Bogan, 27, of New York City, was taken outside, tied to a stake, beaten, left tied up all night and executed in the morning.

★ ★ ★

At Armstrong's trial, the prosecuting attorney, Capt. David Hayes, 27, of Boston, said he would prove "by purely circumstantial evidence" that Armstrong killed the youth named Anh after "someone threw a snake into the cab of the truck" in which Armstrong was riding shotgun as it drove through the countryside near Pleiku on Nov. 1, 1969.

★ ★ ★

One of the witnesses called Monday was Anh's father, Le Yen, who said his son was shot to death by an American soldier but that he was unable to identify the man who fired the shot.

Dentures Over 2 Years Old?

Dentures—especially older dentures—are harder to keep clean than natural teeth. And hard brushing with abrasive pastes or powders may damage or scratch.

That's why so many dentists now recommend soaking your dentures clean in easy-to-use KLEENITE.

KLEENITE has a 3-way formula—(1) detergent; (2) activated oxygen; (3) solvent—that surges to tiny crevices; penetrates where no brush can reach; helps soak away film and stain. The dingier the dentures, the more spectacular the results with KLEENITE Denture Cleanser.

Prostitution Traffic At Standstill

ROME (AP) — Police Monday raided a house of prostitution which they said hung out a red and green traffic light to regulate the flow of customers.

The light was intended to keep from attracting attention by having groups of men waiting out front.

Base Closures Still in Dark

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet is believed badly stymied over the question of closing down military bases in Canada.

It is now more than six months since Defence Minister Leo Cadieux told a news conference that the shutdowns—second round in a two-phase program designed to save the government money—would be announced "in a few weeks' time."

Recommendations from the defence department are understood to have gone up to the cabinet in time to allow the minister's prediction to come true, if they had been acted upon.

There is still no sign when the announcement will be made. An informed source said Monday it is unlikely to come before the Easter parliamentary recess, due to begin Wednesday.

The defence department insists that it must close more bases if it is to live within budget restraints imposed upon it by the government.

The department's annual budget has been frozen at the current level of $1,815,000,000 for an additional three years.

Abortion Parley Set

Members of the Vancouver Women's Caucus, a feminist organization, will be in Victoria Wednesday to talk to Health Minister Ralph Loffmark about provincial responsibility in allowing abortions.

The provincial action will precede a planned car caravan across Canada which is to culminate in Mother's Day demonstrations in Ottawa, May 10.

Women's caucus member Jean Rands said in Vancouver Monday the group will be asking for an open meeting with Loffmark.

"Although the abortion law is federal, it is as much a responsibility of the provincial government to see that facilities are available to provide medical care for women getting abortions," she said.

"The province will probably need to set up special clinics for the operation."

Miss Rands said the women's movement in Vancouver has been going for about a year. It started at the university level, but moved into the city, where housewives and working women have joined.

The organization was working in all fields where there is discrimination against women — protesting the lack of job opportunities, equal pay and medical services.

The school system, said Miss Rands, is one of the biggest offenders against women's rights.

Girls, she said, are taught to channel their ambitions towards motherhood — or to become teachers or typists. "Little else is offered them."

Miss Rands said the group is working for more day care nurseries.

"This isn't just so that mothers can go out to work — we also believe that it is important for children to mix with others their own age — they shouldn't just spend all their time at home with one adult."

She said there is need for nurseries which are open the entire day.

"We have to cope with the problems of women who work on shifts, and those who have young school-age children who need care after school."

Credit Available

Abortions on credit are being offered by a Washington, D.C., firm, British Services Ltd., in an effort to put the service within the reach of the working girl.

For $1,200 the firm offers a Washington, D.C., to London, England, tour for women who want an abortion. The fee includes the cost of inoculation, photographs, passport, air fare, limousine service to and from airports, medical examinations, private clinic accommodations and the cost of the operation.

The service is offered in all parts of America, with the cost adjusted according to the variance in air fare. Arrangements can also be made for Canadian women.

The abortion business was opened recently by 26-year-old Kelly Stroup, who said she had extended credit because many applicants did not have the necessary cash.

Mrs. Stroup said she strongly supports the movement toward more liberal abortion laws in the United States.

★ ★ ★

In Victoria Melba Harwood, president of a group asking for abortion to be taken out of the Criminal Code, said she did not agree with the services being offered by Mrs. Stroup.

"We are aware, of course, that women with money can get abortions, while those without have to have their babies.

"We do feel, though, that if anything is to be done, then it must be legal. What is needed is a change so that abortion becomes a medical rather than a legal matter."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Harwood said she realized that many women do become desperate and break the law by having illegal abortions.

"I wouldn't support this officially, though," she said. "I really feel that any change must be made legally and our actions should also remain legal.

"I don't see why Canadian women or doctors should have to break the law to get an abortion," she said.

More Than 200 Kites Soar in UVic Festival

The birds over the University of Victoria campus had plenty of competition Sunday as more than 200 kites flew in the second annual UVic Kite Festival.

Brad Mundy, chairman of the festival committee, said 121 kites were registered in the event and there were "at least another 80 that were not taking part in the competition."

Jeff Auchinleck won the prize for the most artistic kite while Richard Giles won the most colorful kite competition with a tetrahedral kite.

The UVic ski club was awarded the prize for the largest kite and the kite with the longest tail. The tail was 300 feet long and the body measured 16½ feet by 13 feet.

Mike Farr, member of the kite festival committee, estimated the crowd of spectators at "more than 3,000" and added that the weather was "perfect. I hope we are as fortunate next year."

Finally, in desperation, the dean asked: "How much are six and six?"

"Thirteen," answered the boy.

Closest Race in NHL History Will Go Down to Last Games

Inter-divisional play ended for the season on Sunday, ensuring that the closest race in National Hockey League history would go down to the last weekend of the schedule.

When Sunday's results were in, Boston Bruins still led the East Division by one point but still had to worry about whether they would be one of the four playoff clubs when the schedule ends on Sunday, April 5.

New York's fifth-place Rangers were only five points behind the second-place Chicago Black Hawks, and the Blueshirts could close within four points of the Boston club by winning on home ice Wednesday.

BEST CHANCE

Although the Bruins have the best chance of being one of the four playoff clubs, their situation is complicated by the fact that they have four of their remaining six games on the road. The Bruins have yet to win in 16 road games against clubs in their own division, and they would be in serious trouble if they should be unable to make a change in that statistic.

Bruins play in Detroit, Montreal and Toronto in addition to their game in New York and entertain Detroit and the eliminated but red-hot Toronto Maple Leafs.

Hawks have completed their schedule with Boston and New York and finish out with home-and-home series against the Wings, Leafs and Montreal's resurgent Canadiens.

Wings, four points out of the lead and with a game in hand on all of the other four playoff contenders, have two games left against Bruins, Hawks and Rangers and one against Leafs.

Canadiens, with four of their six remaining games at home, have home-and-home series with the Rangers and Hawks left on their schedule and are at home to Bruins and Leafs.

Rangers are at Toronto in addition to the home-and-home sets with Wings and Canadiens and Wednesday's game at home against Boston, and the way the schedule is set up there will be positions still to be decided on the last weekend.

Canadiens and Hawks and Wings and Rangers close out with home-and-home series on April 4 and 5 and the Bruins have a similar series with the suddenly-potent Leafs.

LEAFS DUMP RANGERS

Leafs, who have beaten Bruins and tied Canadiens in their late surge, made their record for the last five games 3-1-1 Sunday by dropping the Rangers, 5-2.

With Canadiens scoring their fifth victory of a seven-game unbeaten run by holding on for a 5-4 decision over Pittsburgh Penguins, the Toronto win in New York left Rangers in fifth place.

Canadiens are tied for third place with the Wings, four points out of the lead.

POINT APART

Bruins and Hawks stayed a point apart with shutout victories. Boston bounced back after a Saturday setback in Minnesota for a 5-0 home-ice win over the North Stars and the Hawks handed St. Louis Blues their second straight blanking, 1-0.

Their improved power-play good for three goals, Canadiens had a 5-2 lead early in the third period but the stubborn Penguins later cashed in on two penalties to cause some late worries.

LATE SPLURGE

Pete Mahovlich and Mickey Redmond, two big contributors in recent games, both had a goal and an assist for Canadiens. So did veterans Jean Beliveu and J. C. Tremblay, who have both been showing increasing signs of old-time form.

Defeat extended Penguins' winless streak through 10 games, seven of them losses.

Playing it wide open and getting some good goaling from Bruce Gamble, Leafs scored four times in the third period—three times in the last three minutes and 12 seconds.

Paul Henderson, whose return to form has been a big reason the Leafs are now a formidable opponent, scored the opening goal and then tied the score at 2-2 midway through the final period.

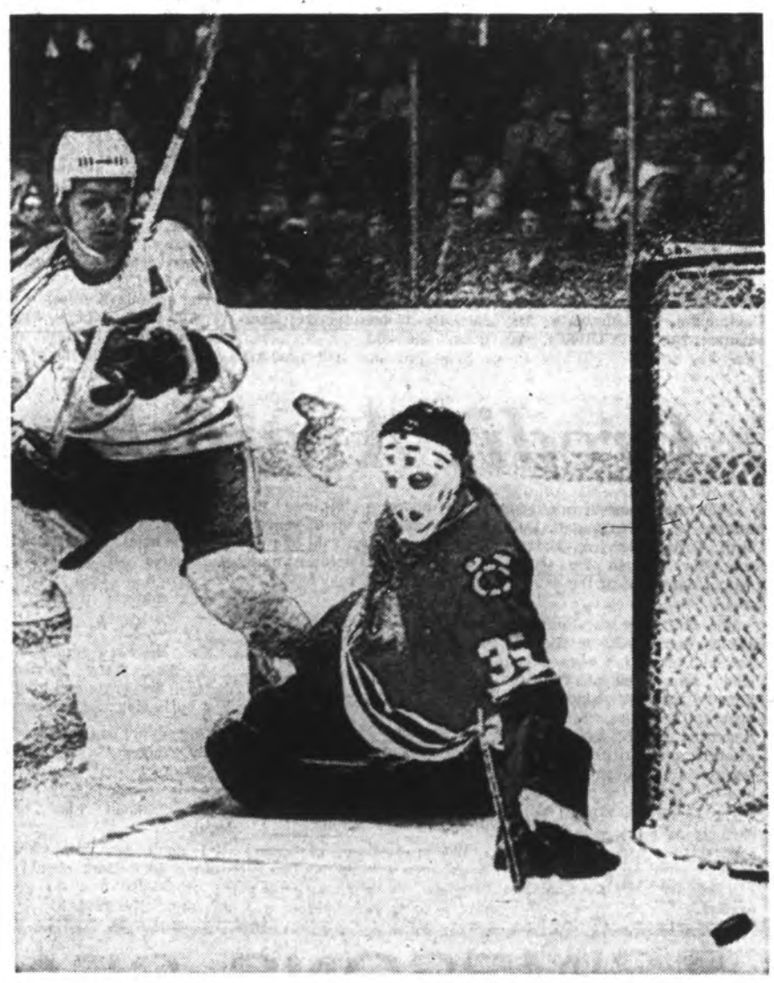

Bob Pulford got what was to be the winning goal at 16:48, then Ron Ellis finished Rangers off with his 32nd and 33rd scoring shots of the season, the last into an open net.

CLUB RECORD

In Chicago, Tony Esposito had to stop only 21 shots to register his 13th shutout and set a club record. No Chicago goalkeeper had ever scored more than 12 shutouts in a season, Charlie Gardiner setting that high in the 1930-31 season.

Esposito's shutout also tied what the NHL refers to as the "modern" record — the 13 blankings marked up by Toronto's Harry Lumley in the 1953-54 season. NHL teams played only 70 games then, the same as played by the Hawks so far this season.

However, the NHL shutout record is 22. It was set in the 1928-29 season in a 44-game schedule by George Hainsworth of Montreal Canadiens.

Chicago's rookie goaltender Tony Esposito knocks away a shot by Jean Guy Talbot of St. Louis en route to his 13th shutout of the season.

Bobby Orr Sets Another Record

Bobby Orr set another NHL record Sunday with a brilliant performance and dispelled the last doubts about becoming the first defenceman to win the Ross Trophy as the league point champion.

The Boston star, who had his 22nd birthday on Friday, scored his 29th and 30th goals and picked up two assists to lead the Bruins to their 5-0 shutout over Minnesota North Stars.

MOST ASSISTS

The assists were the 77th and 78th of the season, erasing the former record of 77 set last season by teammate Phil Esposito.

Orr dominated Sunday's game. He opened the scoring with a power-play goal late in the first period, then tied Esposito's assist record early in the second period when John Bucyk cashed the rebound on a point blast to get his 300th NHL goal.

Eddie Westfall ran the score to 4-0 early in the second period when Orr fed him perfectly on a two-on-one break for the record-breaking assist.

FANS ECSTATIC

Then Orr sent the 14,835 fans home in ecstasy with a tremendous second-effort goal. He took two shots which were blocked by Cesare Maniago and outfought the defencemen for the puck before making good on his third try.

Orr, first defenceman to score more than 20 goals and 50 assists and get as many as 60 points in a single season, is only the fourth player to score as many as 100 points in one season.

Esposito, Bobby Hull and Gordie Howe made it in that order last season. Orr has passed Hull (107) and Howe (103) but Esposito's record of 126 seems safe.

Breaking it would mean getting 19 points in Boston's remaining six games, a task which even for Orr is practically impossible. Similarly, a 19-point edge over Esposito makes Orr's winning of the Ross Trophy as safe as Esposito's record.

Gorge Molsons moved a step closer to the first division championship in the Victoria and District Soccer League by rallying for a 2-2 draw Sunday with University of Victoria Vikings at Heywood Avénue Park.

Dan Lawson and John Tregear, with 30 seconds remaining, scored in the second half for Gorge after Jindy Johl had scored both goals for the defending champions in the first half.

Molsons moved three points ahead of Oak Bay and stayed five points ahead of the Vikings. Each club has three games remaining.

MISS CHANCE

Bays missed a chance to close ground on the leaders when defensive slips enabled Cosmopolitan Royals to score a 3-2 upset at Topaz Park.

Robin Snow, Richie Allen and Owen Richmond all deflected shots in off Oak Bay defenders. Palle Polson and Peter Wheaton scored for Oak Bay.

The battle in the second division for a berth in the first division next season tightened when Coffee House and London Boxing Club closed to within a point of Duncan Village Green.

Each club has three games remaining. Causeway Esso Hotspurs, five points behind Village Green with four games left, is the only other club with a chance to move up.

Leading UVic Norsemen and fifth-place Victoria West are not eligible because they already have clubs in the seven-team first division.

CLINCH BERTH

Saanch Peninsula clinched a second-division berth next year by drawing 2-2 with last-place Labatts. Labatts and Cowichan Saints, beaten 3-2 by London, will meet in a playoff series with third-division champion Lake Hill for the eighth berth in the second division.

South African Ouster Causes Bitterness in Tennis World

LONDON (AP) — South Africa was barred from the 1970 Davis Cup tennis competition Monday because of its racial policies, leaving a note of bitterness in international tennis.

"This is the beginning of the disintegration of the Davis Cup," said Alf Chambers, a member of the South African tennis committee after receiving word that the ban had been voted by a seven-man committee of the Davis Cup countries.

The action was led by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association and came as a direct result of the refusal of South Africa to grant a visa to Arthur Ashe, Jr., American Negro star, for the South African championships.

SIMILAR ACTION

Robert B. Colwell of Seattle, vice-president of the USLTA, made the announcement after a 90-minute meeting of the committee on which he served as chairman.

The action was similar to that taken by the International Olympic Committee in 1968, barring South Africa from the Games in Mexico City. South Africa first was asked to withdraw and then when the delegates refused, was suspended.

DELEGATES ANGRY

The two South African delegates, Chalmers and Blen Franklin, were incensed.

"Our hands are cleaner than those of Romania, Poland and Czechoslovakia who refused to play us and thus refused to honor their Davis Cup commitments," said Franklin.

Chalmers predicted the action would snowball.

"Once you start allowing politics and government policies to interfere with the organization of international sports events other countries will inevitably be drawn in," said Chalmers.

ARABS NEXT?

"The next we shall hear is that Arab countries will refuse to participate because Israel is a member."

The committee also considered the case of Rhodesia, which declared itself an independent republic run by a white minority, but no action was taken.

CALLED BY U.S.

The United States, the cup holder, called the special meeting to review the South African situation. Thirty-four countries responded. A seven-man committee was set up and given the power to suspend any country immediately.

It took a vote of five of the seven members to carry the action. Britain and France were reported to be sympathetic to the South Africans.

STOCKHOLM — Russia, who struggled to a 2-1 victory over Finland in the first game of the World Cup hockey tournament, crushed the Finns, 16-1, Sunday to increase their point-spread lead over Sweden in the six-country tournament.

Sweden kept pace with Russia by defeating East Germany, 6-2, to bring its record to five wins and a loss in six games. However, Russia has scored 42 goals and allowed eight while Sweden's record is 33-12.

Czechoslovakia downed Poland, 10-2, in Sunday's other game to take sole possession of third place, two points behind the leaders.

Future Sites Picked

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Union and Finland will be host nations for the world hockey championships between 1972-74.

The second day of the International Ice Hockey Federation Congress Monday also approved a proposal from its president, Bunny Ahearne, that world championships also will be staged during Olympic years.

According to this decision, Prague will host the 1972 world championships in March, while the Olympic tournament will be played in Sapporo, Japan, in February.

Manchester, Leeds Tie Again

LONDON (Reuters) — Leeds United and Manchester United played to a 0-0 draw Monday night in another epic but undecisive semi-final game. They have to meet again Wednesday and the winner plays Chelsea in the English Football Association Cup final on Saturday, April 11.

Leeds, seeking a European Cup, English Cup and English League treble, and Manchester United, chasing their sixth Football Association Cup final apeparance, now have played 3½ hours of scoreless soccer following a fruitless 30 minutas of overtime in their replay Monday night.

Manchester United's England stars Bobby Charlton and Nobby Stiles maintained a strict control of the midfield as tireless Billy Bremner—named Monday as 1970 British footballer of the year—worked unsuccessfully to give Leeds a major portion of the attack.

Despite tiredness in the closing minutes, both sides came close to scoring near the end and received a noisy salute from the 62,000 fans.

Forslund Joins Vernon Essos Lead Series, 2-0

VERNON — Bob Craig scored his second goal of the game with 14 seconds remaining Sunday to give Vernon Essos a 3-2 victory and 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven junior "A" hockey playoff with Weyburn Red Wings.

Neil Murphy, picked up from Vancouver Centennials, scored the other Vernon goal and assisted on both goals by Craig.

Vernon coach Odie Lowe has added Victoria Cougar goalkeeper Ed Forslund, a Vernon native, for the series, which shifts to the Saskatchewan centre for the third game tonight.

Veale Checks Royals As Mates' Bats Hot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh Pirates slammed five home runs and coasted to a 15-7 exhibition baseball victory Monday over Kansas City behind the three-hit pitching of Bob Veale.

The big left-hander went seven innings, giving up two runs and allowed his first walk of the spring. The Pirate belters were Willie Stargell, Gene Alley, Jerry May, John Jeter and Bill Mazeroski. All the homers were solo shots except Stargell's which was a two-run shot.

INSIDE THE PARK

Cleon Jones's three-run inside-the-park homer keyed a four-run third inning, helping New York Mets to a 4-3 victory over St. Louis Cardinals, but the Mets B squad fell to Philadelphia Phillies, 4-3. The Phils' Chris Short allowed three hits in seven innings and Larry Hisle's run-scoring double proved the winner.

FOURTH WIN IN ROW

Houston Astros rolled to their fourth straight triumph, a 3-2 victory over Boston Red Sox. Rookie John Mayberry's 500-foot homer in the third inning off Sonny Siebert was the difference.

Pinch-hitter Don Anderson's single starting a four-run sixth inning, broke a 3-3 tie, sending Cincinnati Reds to a 7-3 victory over Los Angeles Angels.

Rookie shortstop Frank Baker's three-run homer in the seventh inning pushed New York Yankees past Detroit Tigers, 5-2.

Charlie Manuel drove home the winning run and Minnesota Twins snapped a five-game losing string with a 4-3 victory over Chicago White Sox. The Twins, winners of only two of 16 spring contests, also got five innings of one-hit pitching from Bill Zepp.

Cleveland Indians got seven strong innings of hurling from Sam McDowell and stopped Chicago Cubs, 3-2; San Diego Padres moved to an 8-0 lead and held off Oakland Athletics four shutout innings and Seattle Pilots erupted for four runs in the eighth inning for a 5-3 decision over California Angels. Jim Hicks had a homer for the Angels.

Miller Charges Stalling

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, accused the club owners Sunday of stalling in their negotiations of a new contract with the association. But he said he would not recommend strike action at this time.

Miller said the players on the 24 clubs would be asked to vote within the next 10 days on whether to accept or reject a contract proposal that already has been turned down unanimously by the player representatives.

Two goals each, by Del Topoll and Brian McDonald, and one each by Gord Vejprave and Nick Grierson, all in the second period, gave Spurs the victory. Gary Kilpatrick and Chuck Holmes scored for Seattle, winless in their last four games.

January Too Cool to Suit Scrambling Dale Douglass

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Cool, calm Don January fired a three-under-par 69 Monday and beat scrambling Dale Douglass in their 18-hole playoff for the $20,000 first prize in the Greater Jacksonville open golf tournament.

Douglass, who won the Phoenix Open earlier this year, finished with a par 72 on the 6943-yard Hidden Hills Country Club course and failed by three strokes in his bid to become the first double winner of the season.

January, whose last previous victory had been in the 1968 tournament of champions, reeled off 15 consecutive pars, then closed with birdies on the final three holes.

The playoff was forced when the two finished the regulation 72 holes Sunday in a tie for the top at 279, nine under par.

Most regular tour events are settled in a sudden-death playoff in the event of a tie, but the contract with the sponsors of this one specified an 18-hole affair.

January came from three strokes off the peace Sunday with a brilliant 66 to force the playoff.

Douglass, the third-round leader, had a final-round 69 for 279, the same total amassed by January, a weathered 41-year-old veteran of 15 years on the pro tour.

Douglass twice blew two-stroke leads, but rallied with a birdie four on the 17th hole to regain a share of the top spot.

Tony Jacklin, the British Open champion, rallied with a 67 and took third place at 281, two strokes off the lead. Dave Stockton followed with a 69 for 282.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg shot a 71 for 287 and won $1,300. Al Balding of Toronto fell to 77 and finished with 297, worth $181.82.

Jack Nicklaus managed a 70 and was tied at 283 with host pro Dan Sikes, who had a 71. Lee Trevino took a 71 for 284. Arnold Palmer was far back in the field with 73 for 291.

NHL Scout Eyes Swedes For Future Delivery

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Three of the Scandinavian players in the world hockey championships will be offered professional contracts by Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League after the tournament.

Mike Daski, representing the Red Wings, is in Sweden to watch prospects during the tournament. He said Swedish defencemen Lennart Svedberg and Arne Carlsson and Finnish forward Veli-Pekka Ketola will be offered professional contracts.

Daski said, however, that none of the players at present are good enough to play with the NHL club.

"They will have to start with one of our farm teams, but after a few games I think they will have learned enough to play in the NHL," Daski said.

Cornell Wins

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Defenceman Don Lodboa's three last-period goals broke a 3-3 deadlock to give Cornell University a 6-4 win over Clarkson College and the National Collegiate Athletic Association hockey championship.

Kershaw Romps To Win

YAKIMA, Wash. — Victoria's Gary Kershaw lapped all but runner-up Harry Jefferson of Naches to win the 75-lap Apple Cup super-stock car race which opened the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing season Sunday.

Kershaw claimed fast time of 22:51 seconds and then finished fourth in the trophy dash. Narrowly avoiding a pileup in the fast heat, he finished third and then took control in the main event, finishing three-quarters of a lap ahead of Jefferson, the defending northwest NASCAR champion.

Bulldozers Dethroned

Coquitlam Satellites ended Esquimalt Carson's Bulldozers domination of B.C. women's ice hockey Sunday by scoring a 4-3 overtime victory in the final game of th best-of-three series at Pearkes Arena.

Gwen Brodsky, with two goals, and Sheri Roskelly scored for Esquimalt, which was seeking its fifth straight title and outshot the visitors, 25-10, before Carol Gwyn scored after four minutes of the sudden-death period.

Paulson, Mates Topple U.S.

CALGARY (CP) — Canada defeated the United States, 6-3, in the American zone final of the Thomas Cup badminton matches Saturday, setting off a victory celebration at the Glencoe Club.

Jamie Paulson, Canadian singles champion from Calgary, hugged everyone within reach as 1000 spectators cheered Canada's first victory ever over the U.S.

Paulson, a 21-year-old university student helped Canada end 22 years of frustration with a couple of big singles triumphs; and Yves Fare and Paulson won the series, coming back to defeat Jim Poole and Don Paup, 7-15, 15-9, 15-12.

CHAMPAGNE FLOWS

The champagne flowed to mark Canada's first trip to the Thomas Cup, which will be played in early June in Kuala Lumpur, the home city of defending champion Malaysia.

The Americans had beaten Mexico 7-2 in the American zone semi-final.

Knowing Canada was almost certain to win four of the five singles matches, Poole seeded himself third in a move designed to place the outcome on the four doubles matches. The U.S. has always been strong in doubles.

ACCURATE START

Paulson opened Friday night with 15-3, 15-1 win over Ray Park of Houston. Wayne McDonnell, a six-time Canadian singles champion from Vancouver, made it 2-0 for Canada with a 15-5, 9-15, 15-5 victory over Stan Hales.

As expected, the U.S. won the first doubles, with Poole and Paup disposing of Bruce Rollick of Vancouver and Dave Charron of Toronto, 15-12, 15-4.

Poole got the upset he was looking for in the second doubles, when the second-ranked American pair of Lynch and Tom Carmichael surprised Paulson and Pare, 10-15, 15-11, 15-11.

PUTS CANADA AHEAD

In the first singles Saturday, MacDonnell put Canada ahead 3-2 with an 18-15, 15-5 win over Park but Poole pulled the Americans back with a 15-4, 15-3 verdict over Rollick. Paulson then beat Hales, 15-3, 15-9.

Poole and Paup took the first game 15-7 and appeared to have the Canadians on the ropes, but Paulson and Pare won second game.

The lead changed hands five times in the third game with the Canadians finally pulling even at 9-9.

Then Paup cracked.

Canada moved ahead, 14-9.

Caution was called for. The older master Poole, playing in his fifth zone final, clicked to close the deficit to 14-12.

Finally, Paulson got off a tremendous smash that Poole was unable to return in bounds and the match was over.

In an anti-climax, Rollick and Charron finished things off with a 15-7, 15-7 win over Carmichael and Lynch.

Committal Attempt Failed Before Death

By NANCY BROWN

An unsuccessful attempt was made to get a man admitted to the Eric Martin Institute five days before he was killed by a three-ton truck, a coroner's jury was told Monday night.

It would have been necessary to have set up a bed in the corridor in the Eric Martin Institute of Psychiatry if Bela William Dallos, 42, 1317 Gladstone had been admitted there on March 14, said psychiatrist Dr. Pierre d'Estrube.

He said he had been called out to Royal Jubilee Hospital that day to see Dallos who had been taken to the emergency ward there.

★ ★ ★

"I gather he had made an attempt to leap from the window in the cafeteria where he was having coffee before I got there," said Dr. d'Estrube.

He said Dallos was suffering from schizophrenia of a paranoid type.

★ ★ ★

"I felt he was ill enough to be admitted," said Dr. d'Estrube.

"I phoned the Eric Martin Institute and found it was over-filled and overbrimming.

"To compound matters and troubles a window had been broken and it diminished the bed capacity by yet another bed."

He said he decided that the best way to cope with the emergency situation was to put Dallos, who was already responding to an intramuscular tranquilizer shot, onto a drug program and commit him to the care of his family.

★ ★ ★

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said he was surprised at the bed shortage. "It seems like a huge monolithic structure," he said.

"We fly by the seat of our pants as psychiatrists because there are a tremendous number of people who are disturbed and not admitted," he said. "We have to do the best we can to make arrangements such as I have described in committing a patient to the care of his family."

★ ★ ★

"It is possible to keep these people operating outside of a mental hospital but this is always a gamble," said the psychiatrist.

Dallos' physician, Dr. Andrew Ross said Dallos had been admitted to Riverview mental hospital in New Westminster twice and discharged on both occasions.

He first entered the hospital in December 1968, staying about six weeks, and in that time had tried to take his own life.

Dallos' brother, Sandor Dallos, 1317 Gladstone, said his brother had tried many times to kill himself. He had appeared quite normal on the day of his death, but had disappeared for a time when the two were out together.

Truck driver William Hodgson, 3781 Saanich Road, said he was driving east on Bay Street between 10 and 10:30 a.m. March 19, nearing Government Street.

"It seemed all at once I had a man more or less dive under the front of my truck. I had a look at him diving. I immediately hit my brakes and came to a stop."

He said the man was pinned under the dual rear wheels of the truck.

Dallos was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

The inquest will continue at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Victoria Law Courts.

Construction Cartridges Disappear

Better Check Your Child's Toy Box

By BRUCE LOWTHER

An estimated 400 explosive-type construction cartridges, which could kill if used improperly, were stolen from the partly-built Arbutus high school during the weekend, Saanich police disclosed Monday.

Also stolen were 200 packages of Jet Line, used as a projectile in construction, but police said these were not considered dangerous.

Deputy Chief R. A. Peterson issued a special appeal to parents and other citizens to report any information on the stolen items at once to Saanich police at 388-4321.

★ ★ ★

Prime contractor for the school is W. Campbell Ltd. and the building is rising in the area bounded by Finnerty, Arbutus, Edgelow and Gordon Head. Police said the cartridges, in an unknown number of boxes, and the Jet Line packages disappeared from a storage centre in the building.

Builders use the cartridges in a "gun" to drive nails into concrete. The cartridges look like .22 calibre short blanks and have an exterior shell of brass with the ends colored yellow and red, and possibly brown and blue. The color indicates the explosive charge.

—William A. Boucher

Mates of stolen cartridges, Star boxes

Most of the cartridges are believed to be in cardboard boxes about two and one-quarter inches square and one and one-half inches deep. The boxes are blue and red and some may be marked A-4. Some smaller boxes, marked Star, are two inches square and one and one-quarter inches deep.

Peterson said the danger might be small in using a cartridge as a blank, but was large if children pound cartridges with a rock as is sometimes done with blasting caps.

He said shrapnel and explosion might cause a person "to lose an eye or even his life."

He emphasized police aren't positive the thieves were children but said parents should be warned the possibility exists. Anyone who finds the cartridges should leave them alone and lead police to them for safety's sake, he said.

The Jet Lines are shaped like firecrackers and are shot through conduits so wires can be dragged through. Their detonation requires projectiles which were not stolen and police said the Jet Lines are in packages that are colored red, yellow and white.

Back to Drawing Board

By JOHN MATTERS

Mayor Courtney Haddock asked the city engineering department Monday to have another look at the need for an underpass-overpass road system at the doorstep of St. Joseph's Hospital.

Until it ran into provincial government objections, the city planned to extend Belleville through the existing St. Ann's Academy property to divert James Bay traffic from Douglas and Government Streets.

However, St. Joseph's hospital wants to use the academy property for hospital expansion and B.C. Health Minister Loffmark will not allow such a street through a hospital site.

As a result, the city has said that an overpass-underpass system would be required to handle heavy traffic around the academy grounds. Last estimates are about $2,000,000.

"We can't accept that additional $2,000,000 that would have to be paid by the people of Victoria," said Haddock. "There has been enough of that in the past."

The mayor said that in addition to bothering St. Joseph's, such a road system might injure other unique features of that part of the city.

★ ★ ★

"We have a very lovely church (The Church of Our Lord) near there, too, and I hope our engineers can find some other way around this problem."

St. Joseph's extended care centre — a 150-bed unit — would be south of an extended Belleville while the acute-care portion of the hospital would be north of the street.

Haddock said city engineer James Garnett is out of town this week but as soon as he returns the mayor will see if "there is some other compromise."

At a meeting with capital region hospital authorities Friday, Loffmark reiterated his stand that a major traffic artery could not bisect a hospital site and he made it clear that, in his terms, other alternative would have to be found for the traffic problem.

"He (Loffmark) doesn't want to be at all flexible," said Haddock.

After the meeting, Mayor Hugh Curtis of Saanich, who is chairman of the Capital Regional Board, said he would recommend that the plans for the 150-bed extended care centre at St. Joseph's be shelved for the time being.

He said he wanted the regional district to execute, as fast as possible, the plans for the other 450 extended-care beds that were approved by Greater Victoria ratepayers 17 months ago.

★ ★ ★

Curtis wanted the extension put aside only for the time being — he did not want the proposal abandoned.

Mayor Haddock was asked if it is possible that Loffmark wants the regional board to conform to the recommendations of the Agnew, Peckham report on Greater Victoria's medical needs.

Units of 150-bed extended care centres for both Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's — now planned by the regional district — were not in the Agnew, Peckham priorities.

"I'm not used to this fast political footwork," said Haddock. "I can see only what seems to be a simple solution but our engineering department has been asked to see if there could be a compromise on the street problem."

Feelings, Rules Conflict

Saanich council Monday night reluctantly rejected a rezoning application from a man who wanted to provide a residence for his elderly mother and a sister.

Manfred Liedtke wanted to put them in a second home on his 6.5-acre property at 5843 Old West Saanich Road. However, council decided this would be the equivalent of subdividing the site, which is contrary to municipal bylaw.

Mayor Hugh Curtis subsequently asked municipal planner Tom Loney to help Liedtke resolve the problem. The alternatives are to convert the home to a duplex or make an addition to it.

★ ★ ★

Curtis pointed out that it was a classic case of council having to choose between humanitarian and planning principles.

The mayor added that if Liedtke sold the property with two dwellings on it, the new owner could challenge municipal bylaws.

Sitting as a rezoning hearing, council also approved an application that would allow for expansion of the Cock Pheasant restaurant at 5285 West Saanich Road.

After hearing two other rezoning applications, Ald. Alan Newberry said they appeared to be cases where developers bought mass-produced building plans only to expedite the rezoning applications.

Planning On Agenda

Planning in the Highlands will be discussed at a meeting of the Highland District Ratepayers' Association at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Millstream elementary school.

Boost: No One Knows When

Parking Fines Still Same

Fines for parking meter violations in Victoria, which were supposed to double March 16, still haven't taken the jump and no one seemed sure Monday when they will.

Victoria city council approved a resolution March 12 authorizing Mayor Courtney Haddock to "consult with" Judge William Ostler of Victoria Provincial Court "to provide for the increasing of parking meter violation fines."

The proposed increase was to $2 from $1 and the penalty for late payment of the fines was to go to $5 from $2.50, with both increases effective March 16.

Council acted after the mayor said he had already consulted with the judge and the latter had indicated approval.

★ ★ ★

But Provincial Court sources indicated Monday there had been no Haddock-Ostler meeting since and no directive had been received from city hall.

Haddock said the delay was probably due to the fact that notice of city council's decision hadn't reached Ostler.

"I understand the letter reached the clerk of the court today and as soon as the mechanics of the switchover are completed the new fines will be in effect," he said.

Meanwhile, he said, motorists getting parking tickets would be charged the usual fine of $1.

"They made a buck," he said.

Sisters Asphyxiated

Dancing Pair Dies

Modern civilization and Indian tradition combined early Sunday to cause the deaths of two sisters in a van parked on the East Saanich Indian reserve, and thereby leaving 10 children motherless.

The victims were Mrs. Alex Johnny, 28, of Khenipsen Road near Duncan, the mother of seven children, and her sister Mrs. Joseph Wise, 24, of 1101 Robin Road in Nanaimo, the mother of three children.

★ ★ ★

They were awaiting their turn to take part in a ceremonial designed to ease the spirit of a tribe member when they apparently decided to get some sleep in the van, with the heater on, and were overcome by carbon monoxide poisoning.

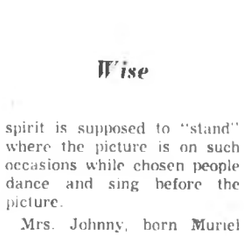

Sidney Coroner D. G. Ashby is expected to hold an inquiry today into the deaths of the two women, members of the Rice family of Crofton.

★ ★ ★

Sidney RCMP and Indian sources in the area told this story:

A woman member of the tribe asked for a ceremonial in honor of her husband, who died about two years ago from a heart attack. The event was to be held in the reserve's big community centre, often called the Smoke House, from 6 p.m. Saturday to 9 a.m. Sunday.

Wise

Mrs. Johnny, born Muriel Rice, had been dancing at such events for about four years while Mrs. Wise, born Patricia Rice and known as Patsy, had just earned her dancer's hat.

While awaiting their part, they apparently decided to rest in the van, one in the front seat and the other in the back, with the engine and heater on. They were found at about 3:30 a.m. by Lena Pelkey, daughter of tribal leader Harold Pelkey, after she went to call them to the ceremonial.

An unidentified girl at the ceremonial, who had taken a first-aid course, tried artificial respiration and a doctor at Rest Haven Hospital worked on the sisters for more than an hour — but to no avail.

The ceremonial was called off at about 6 a.m., shortly after the doctor confirmed the dancing sisters were dead.

Libraries 'Lacking' In Saanich District

Saanich school district has good teachers and good buildings but is lagging badly in the matter of libraries, members of the district board were told monday.

District superintendent Mort Thorsell said the district did not measure up to a requirement survey conducted by the provincial government back in 1961 and 1962, let alone today when needs were far higher and more imperative.

The book count per pupil varies in different schools in the district, Thorsell said, but approaches the standard requirement of 10 books per pupil in only a few cases.

Furthermore, he said, the assessment and book count in the district as submitted included paperbacks and encyclopedias.

Trustee Zachary Hamilton agreed the library situation was far from good and said a policy of improvement would have to be embarked upon.

Sign War: Chapter Two

By HUBERT BEYER

"At times, it's sure difficult to be an alderman," Victoria Ald. Peter Pollen said Monday afternoon and slammed his office door behind him.

The cause of his anger was the lettering on a small sign mounted below a large billboard opposite Town and Country shopping centre which proclaimed: "Peter Pollen advertised here for over four years."

Pollen said he had given the Pacific Neon Sign Company until 5 p.m. to remove the lettering, which he said was put up Monday morning.

"This is the kind of reaction I get for advocating a better and more comprehensive sign bylaw," he said.

Last week, Pollen told Victoria's finance committee that Douglas Street had become "a wasteland of signs and billboards," making the entrance to the city "a disgrace."

He said the city's sign bylaw should be more effective to discourage the multitude of signs on Douglas blocking building entrances and hotel facades.

"The moment someone tries to do something about it, you get this almost primitive response," Pollen said Monday.

"There are a lot of pressure groups in this city which aren't interested in the general public's welfare. They join associations which protect their vested interests, and you can't resolve anything," he said.

"I would like to see an intelligent approach taken to to the establishment of a sign bylaw that protects not only the general public and the city's beauty, but also the sign industry."

Unless such an objective was established, the public would eventually demand complete removal of all signs. That, he said, would be as bad as too many signs.

Now you see it . . .

"I also don't criticize the sign industry. They just play the game according to the rules we (politicians) make."

Pacific Neon's president, C. S. Vickery, said he had ordered the removal of the lettering to which Pollen objected.

"I guess I made a mistake, so I didn't want to call his (Pollen's) bluff," he said.

"But I still feel that anybody who has made use of a service shouldn't try to deprive anybody else of the same service and that's what Mr. Pollen is doing."

ERMA BOMBECK and Her Law

Enough Is Enough

Bombeck's Law is a simple equation, really.

Let M — one tired, frustrated Mother.

Let C—one or more children who are out to drive her crazy.

Let L — the most illogical, unreasonable, inconsistent conclusion possible and you have Bombeck's Law.

★ ★ ★

Case History No. 1: Jenny, age 3, turned on all the taps in the house, making it the only tri-level ark in the block. She then turned on the fire hydrant with her skate key and a rap with her teddy bear, causing four fire trucks and a priest to respond.

Bombeck's Law: Two hours later, Jenny entwined herself around her Mother's leg and whined, "Mama, I wanna drink of wah wah. I can't reach the faucet."

Case History No. 2: Phil, age 14, got up every morning and before breakfast jogged five times around the block. In phys. ed. class, he leaped over horses, did pushups, climbed ropes and bounced around the mats like a tennis ball. Each night he ran cross-country for two hours and came home to lift weights before dinner.

★ ★ ★

Bombeck's Law: When asked to take out the garbage he crumpled and said. "All the way out to the garage?"

Case History No. 3: The children are dancing around a Christmas tree. Under the tree is more than $500 worth of games, bicycles, chemistry sets, sport equipment, musical instruments and clothes. "Gee Mommy," they chant, "this is the best Christmas ever."

★ ★ ★

Bombeck's Law: On Christmas night, a small figure tiptoes into the room where you are sleeping, leans over an pecks you on the shoulder, "Hey Mom, this is Friday. You forgot to give me my allowance."

Case History No. 4: The family has just arrived at a summer cabin by the lake. The sun is shining. The woods beckon. There is a park nearby that looks like Disneyland after dark. Mommy and Daddy unpack 180 of the childrens' "favorite toys" and sit down for 15 minutes of relaxation.

★ ★ ★

Bombeck's Law: "Hey Mom. What can we do?"

M over C plus L—X is by no means an explanation of human behavior. I mention it only so the next time your child recites the words and lyrics to 87 television commercials, but cannot remember his home room teacher's name, you will better understand Bombeck's Law.

Expo 70 Special

B.C. Couple Married Both Ways

OSAKA (CP)—One of the first weddings at Asia's world fair took place Sunday when a young British Columbia couple was married in the heavily-promotional atmosphere of a sewing-machine pavilion at Expo '70.

While television lights and photographers' flash bulbs illuminated the white interior of the Wacoal-Riccar Pavilion, Gerald Foster, 22-year-old Vancouver art student, and Nicola Jane Gould, 21, an office worker, were married in a 20-minute Christian ceremony.

Licence for the marriage, one of 52 to be held on weekends at the disc-topped pavilion during the six months of the fair, was arranged by Canadian consular authorities. A former Philadelphian, Rev. Richard B. Ribble of Kobe Union Church — a Protestant interdenominational church for English-speaking people in the nearby port city — performed the ceremony.

After the Christian ceremony, which was attended by about 30, including newspapermen, nine silver-garbed hostesses from the Wacoal-Riccar Pavilion, two red-coated Mounties and hostesses from the nearby B.C. Pavilion, an ornate Japanese ceremony followed.

About 500 fair-goers, who had waited hours outside in the rain, were admitted for this part of the ceremony.

Then the couple mounted the stage to have their hands bound together by the dancers with silver and gold cloth.

Mrs. Foster told television interviewer they met when Foster's car was stuck in Vancouver one snowy night in January a year ago. She gave him a push and two weeks later they became engaged.

B. C. Pavilion authorities, learning of the Wacoal-Riccar plans to stage Expo weddings, tipped Vancouver newspapers. Foster and Miss Gould read about it, applied and were selected by the sewing-machine company. They had to pay their way to Japan but after that Wacoal-Riccar picks up the cheque for their honeymoon here.

B. C. Commissioner-General John Southworth presented the bride at the ceremony and Mrs. Southworth was her attendant. After the ceremonies, the Mounties and a Canadian girl piper escorted the couple to a reception at the B.C. Pavilion.

The bride wore an ankle-length red woolen gown with monk-like cowl. The groom was colorful in green shirt, tan suede jacket and slacks and cowboy boots.

U.S. Artist Calls Here

Colorado square dance caller Frank Lane will be featured at special square dance arranged for 8 p.m. April 2 at Esquimalt junior high school by Vancouver Island Western Square Dance Association. Dance will be open to spectators.

Thalidomide

Court Gives Award

LONDON (Reuters) — Eighteen deformed children and their parents were awarded an agreed total of £369,709 (961,243) Monday from the company which marketed the drug thalidomide in Britain.

★ ★ ★

The award was made in the High Court against Distillers Co. Biochemicals Ltd., which marketed the tranquillizer under licence from West Germany.

The award was the latest of 62 in which damages are being agreed under terms of a settlement reached with the company.

Thalidomide went on sale in Britain in 1958 and was withdrawn in 1961.

Girl Director At Symphony

NEW YORK (AP) — No one can accuse the American Symphony Orchestra of discriminating against either women or young people. The group has just named Cathy French, 23, to the newly-created post of executive director.

The appointment was announced by Samuel Rubin, president of the orchestra that was founded by Leopold Stokowski, still its music director.

"Talent is the governing factor," Rubin said. "We are fortunate to have found in Miss French a person with all the qualifications her post demands."

Stokowski, 82, said: "I am always in favor of giving opportunity to youth so that they develop responsibility and more understanding about life today."

Miss French joined the New York-based orchestra 1½ years ago on graduation from Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart. She began as a girl Friday and said she doesn't see her rise as particularly astonishing.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am dating a 50-year-old divorced man. Our relationship seems to be one of mutual respect and affection. Recently he startled me with a statement defending couple swapping.

I expressed the opinion that such behavior was a symptom of marital disorder. He claims he knows several couples who engage in wife swapping regularly—that they are charming, intelligent, well adjusted and very much in love. His explanation was that they are "highly sexed and have leftover love to give."

I am puzzled. Is he testing me? Is he reacting to his own unsuccessful marriage? Although I've never been married I'm sure I could forgive an unpremeditated slip. A marriage that permits planned infidelity as part of the package, however, is beyond me.

Am I square, stupid or naive?—E. W. B.

Dear E. W. B.: If you are square, stupid or naive that makes two of us. Those wife-swapping friends may be charming and even intelligent but they are not well adjusted. Married couples who are very much in love don't have anything "left over." Before you marry this man make sure you have a clear understanding of what he expects of you. I think he may be trying to tell you something.

□

Dear Ann Landers: Last night I returned to my office after dinner to clean up some paper work. I finished about 9:30 and headed for the parking lot behind our building. As I approached my car I saw someone sitting in it. I opened the door and there was a woman—bombed out of her mind, either on booze or drugs. She said, "Drive me home or I'll scream and have you arrested for rape." I decided to comply with her request.

Hoodlum with a Pipe

As I drove, she kept mumbling about how rotten life is. When we reached her duplex she said, "Thanks. You're a good guy."

I told my wife about the incident and she was horrified. She said I should not have taken the woman home—that I should have thrown her out of the car and driven off.

What do you say? — Hindsight 20-20.

Dear Hind: Your first mistake was leaving your car unlocked. Last night it was a drunken woman. Next time it could be a hoodlum with an iron pipe.

Your second mistake was opening the car door when you saw someone sitting there. You should have gone for a policeman.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 20-year-old daughter married a no good rat two years ago. We tried to talk sense to her but it was no use. Six months ago he broke her jaw and she sued for divorce. She didn't realize at the time she was pregnant. The baby is due any time. Her father insists on taking her to the hospital when she goes to deliver. She doesn't want him there. I've talked myself hoarse but it's no use. Maybe you can get through to him. He thinks you are a smart lady.—Dumb Wife

Dear Wife: Your daughter's doctor should "get through to him." Often a man thinks a lady is smart until she disagrees with him. Then suddenly she is just another dumbbell. Like his wife.

Playboy Misses Chance

TORONTO (CP) — Playboy's loss may be Toronto's gain.

Nicole Morin, who once turned down an offer to pose as one of the magazine's playmates-of-the-month, now is appearing in Spring Thaw's nude ballet.

But she says her father "would be very upset" if he knew.

"Ours is a very Catholic family and he wouldn't understand that this could be acceptable and in good taste in a large city like Toronto."

Miss Morin was born in Lac Noir, a small village 100 miles north of Montreal where her father still lives, and attended school in her home town and France. She studied at Laval University for a year and then came to Toronto to learn English.

"I love to crochet," she said in a recent interview. She is making ties for male members of the April Thaw cast — all 11 of them.

And she may have developed a new method for studying language.

"If I read English last thing at night, I dream in English — otherwise I dream in French."

She attributes her spectacular figure to much exercise and little eating.

There is a chance that the Spring Thaw revue and Miss Morin may appear in Las Vegas.

But even then Playboy readers in Nevada won't get a look at what they missed. That wide-open gambling centre will accept topless performances, but not total nudity.

Gal Invades Agriculture

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Nancy Denu once told a job interviewer who asked her about her agricultural background: "There are three trees on my block."

Now the petite Ridgewood, N.Y., blonde is about to become the first woman graduate in agricultural education in the history of Kansas State University.

"People are learning more and more that girls can be in every field. A woman can cope as well as a man in agricultural education."

Family Looks for Missing Mother

I have said it before and I say it again — when something arrives in the Colonist newsroom that no one really wants to do anything about but hesitates to throw in the waste-basket, sure as guns it will arrive on my desk, though it might have passed through several hands before arriving here. Such is the following letter from Brockville, Ont., which is self-explanatory.

"We are at our wits' end to have our mother return home. I realize this method of communication is unusual, but all other avenues have been exhausted. We do know our mother is living in Victoria. We also believe this letter will make her understand her actions and make her come home to us."

An Open Letter to a Mother.

"Dear Mom:

"I hope these few lines find you well, as we at home are. As you know, mom, you've run away again.

"It's been a month now, but the anguish and despair haven't subsided. I would like to say the children ask about you constantly, but they don't. That's the real tragedy, they've come to accept the fact that you don't care. You can't blame them, though, they only know what they see, and you've left so many times before.

"As your son I've tried to understand your problems. I've tried to see your fears and frustrations and yes, your loneliness as you do. You've had a hellish life, mom, but don't blame us, we can't change the past.

★ ★ ★

"Jerry, Johnny and I are men now. You raised us, come home now and take care of the other children. Now that dad's gone they need you more than ever. Susan is becoming quite the young lady, she helps us all she can. Sometimes, late at night she cries. I can't console her, I have only words to offer. She needs you, mom, more than ever.

"She'll be 16 April 2. You could make her very happy if you wanted to.

"Dad's been gone a bit more than a year now. You and Jerry and I are all the family the children have.

"Please come home, mom. For the past five years our family hasn't known anything but grief and frustration.

★ ★ ★

"COME HOME, MOM. Let's change these things and build a future. One where children don't cry in their sleep, where mom is at home waiting, and she loves them.

"I beg you, mom, come home. You've been advised by so many other people, who could love a mother more than a son.

God Bless,
Love, Ian.

"Jerry, 21 years; Johnny, 19; Susan, 15; James, 13; Mike, 12; Rene, 10."

Women belonging to 40 different organizations are busy now fashioning creations to be worn at the show.

Three women from each organization will model these hats on Saturday afternoon. That makes 126 hats to be shown.

Judging will be by three men who will remain anonymous until show time. Each hat will be judged on the point system, with 25 as a maximum.

Four Proofs of Spring

Two Little Girls, Two Sad Stories

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Almost three months ago, two little girls went looking for ice cream and never came back.

Peggy Rahn was 9 and had her own room. It stands just as she left it.

"I haven't even dusted," Cecile Rahn apologized when she showed her daughter's room. "I've come in here to clean up several times, but . . .

"I still jump every time the phone rings. I still hope they're alive."

Three blocks away, Kay Stevenson kept the Christmas tree up until the end of January hoping Wendy, 8, would come home.

A middle-aged neighbor took Peggy to the beach and Wendy went with a 25-year-old uncle Dec. 29. The girls met at the beach by accident and wandered away together to buy ice cream.

A reward fund of $3,000 has been established by anonymous donors. The families have put up another $5,000 and say they'll sell their homes to get more money.

Mercury Ring

It's Terribly Chic

By EUGENIA SHEPPARD

NEW YORK—"Look, it's moving," cried a woman who had just picked up Pauline Trigene's hand to study an oversize new ring. Under its high, clear dome a silvery design seemed to be crawling over the black background.

Trigere's ring is that terribly chic new thing, a cross between art and jewelry, and it's all part ofthe u rge felt by both artists and collectors to turn painting and sculpture into something more personal and wearable.

The ring is the work of Ronald Mallory, whose mercury constructions—what else can you call them?—hang in the Whitney Museum, the Museum of Modern Art, the Larry Aldrich Museum, and the Chase Manhattan Bank. Like the constructions, the ring uses mercury mixed with a Monsanto chemical necessary to jet engines to create the sluggisly changing patterns.

"I like it because it's always moving," says Trigere who, day and night, is always on the move herself. She does with a minimum of sleep.

★ ★ ★

A couple of years ago Trigere started buying Mallory's constructions, and they led her gradually to the ring. She now owns four constructions, all framed like pictures in shadow boxes. The one in the country and the two in her apartment are mounted on swivels and the office version is electrified. Their personalities are completely different since Mallory never uses quite the same mixture of mercury twice.

★ ★ ★

Beside the constructions, Trigere owns Mallory's big crystal ball that is nothing less than a soothsayer's dream. When she warms it in her hands, the mercury starts slowly to drift into mysterious patterns.

"I love to sit and watch it. I find it very peaceful and soothing," says Trigere.

Whether they find it soothing, exciting, or just fancy it for being one of the biggest, most spectacular rings in the world, 50 women have already bought the ring at the Galeria

Teens Relieve Hospital Stay

TORONTO (CP) — Two small Ontario Indian girls have had visitors to ease the loneliness of a long stay in hospital because of the enterprise of three teenagers.

Sharon Perks, 14, saw a story in a Toronto paper about the two children last October. Since then she and Patti Miller, 14, and Debbie Kuchner, 16, have made the trek to the city from their suburban homes to visit the girls, who would otherwise have had no company.

★ ★ ★

Sharon, Patti and Debbi are cadets in the South Peel division of the St. John Ambulance. Their friends are Ida, 5, from Sioux Lookout, and Marguerite, 10, of Brantford, both long-term patients at the Hospital for Sick Children.

Marguerite has gone home, but Ida is still in the hospital. Patti Miller says she and the other cadets spend most of their time with her, but also visit other children.

"We go down and play games and read them books, give them their supper, and about 7:30 we get them ready for bed."

Patti says the little girls were shy at first, but soon made friends. Ida has learned some English from her visitors.

It cost about $3 each every time the cadets go the the hospital. They have been subsidized by their families and by the division, but Edna Cleveland, acting superintendant of the 504 C cadet corps, says the financial help cannot go on indefinitely.

Oak Bay Says No

'Character' Of Area Preserved

Oak Bay municipal council decided Monday night that not even a 23-suite condominium development, the units of which would sell for more than $35,000 each, would be worth the problems involved in opening another section of the municipality to apartment development.

Aldermen voted that a proposed application for a development at 1660 Prospect Place not be proceeded with and that no further rezoning applications be considered for the area until an advisory planning commission has been set up and has produced a land-use plan for it.

The move came following a stormy meeting before a packed council hall at which lawyer Cecil Branson, representing W. Jensen Construction, the would-be developers, made a lengthy presentation in favor of the application.

NEAR NEWPORT

The area affected is that bounded by Monterey, Oak Bay Avenue, Newport, Beresford, Beach Drive and an imaginary line running from 1647 Monterey to 1712 Beach.

Branson was opposed by several of the area's homeowners who demanded the right to prepare and file their own petition, opposing the development, to be added to eight letters of opposition already received by council.

Much of Branson's presentation was based on facts and conclusions containined in the Oak Bay Plan, which he told council was "your plan."

"It's not our plan," said Ald. Brian Smith.

WIDER STREET

Ald. Alex Hendry noted that the street in question would have to be widened to accommodate such a development, so that even with the increased property taxes, "It would take the municipality between eight and nine years to amortize that cost."

"This is an excellent building," said Ald. Douglas Watts, "but I just don't think that this area is one we should rezone at this time.

"It has a special character and if we begin to chip away at these areas with a real character, soon we won't have an Oak Bay left," he said.

AREA ALREADY

"I'd like to see it keep its character for a number of years to come."

He pointed out that there is an area already slated for apartment development and that council would be pleased to entertain any applications for the marked area.

The council decision was applauded by those who had appeared to protest the application.

Hendry noted there had been an application for the area last year as well and that more would be forthcoming until a definite plan had been accepted for its land-use.

TWO DISAGREE

Watts and Smith disagreed, saying that positive political decisions were the best way to discourage prospective developers from applying, but were outvoted as council agreed to turn the preparation of a plan over to a commission.

In other business:

- A bylaw was passed that will prevent the future establishment of car-body repair shops anywhere in the municipality;
- A warning was sounded that water rates may have to be increased this year to prevent a deficit from occuring;
- A representation was heard from students protesting school board policy against the use of school facilities for fund-raising dances and employing out-of-town musicians;
- Approval in principle was given to a suggestion by the Architectural Institute of B.C. that the sale of the riding academy grounds be done by means of a design competition;
- A request that the municipality prevent taxi companies who do not have an office in Oak Bay from operating in the municipality was turned over to A Committee for further study.

Blood Drive Falls Short

The Red Cross fell 127 units short of its 300-pint quota in the first of three donor clinics at the University of Victoria Monday. The second clinic will be held today, from 9:30 a.m to 4 p.m. The quota set by the Red Cross for the three days is 900 units.

Responsibility Major Concern

Science 'Police' Needed for Future

Too many scientists are making decisions far beyond the scope of their fields, members of the University of Victoria extension department were told by an internationally-known zoology professor Monday night.

Speaking to a full auditorium, Dr. David Suzuki of the University of British Columbia and president-elect of the Canadian Society for Cell Biology said, "The sicknesses of our society stem from the interests of elite specialists who have control over decisions that effect the whole of society."

"The desire to go ahead without considering the long range implications of his work is the great danger that the scientist presents to his society," he said.

Speaking of his own field, genetics, he said that "like all sciences it is double-edged. Within two decades it will be possible for scientists to regenerate lost limbs and diseased organs."

"But," he continued, "it will also be possible for authorities to create legions of people for specialized functions. Genetics could become the tool of racists and bigots."

In the light of developments such as these he said that scientists can no longer claim that they have no responsibility "to translate their work so that the public can scrutinize it."

Suzuki proposed that the federal government should set up an interdisciplinary body "to correlate scientific knowledge." He said that such a body was needed because "scientists do not always consider the long range consequences of their work."

★ ★ ★

He cited the testing of atomic weapons as an example. The scientific community, he said, "knew the possible consequences of fallout but very few spoke out. We will be paying for this failure for years to come."

He also said that if the centre was established the public would have to learn to trust it. The public, he claimed, ignores what it doesn't like.

"The experiments on the damage of LSD causes to chromosomes was blown all out of proportion," he said. "Those experiments were shoddy and not reliable."

"On the other hand the public ignores what it doesn't want to hear. We have known for 10 years that coffee has disastrous effects on chromosomes but the public pays no attention," he continued.

★ ★ ★

"The evidence of the damage done by tobacco and alcohol is overwhelming but again the public ignores it."

Up to now scientific knowledge has been misused because there was no machinery to deal with it but the proposed centre were built, it would perform this function, he said.

He said the centre would not only consist of scientists but would be "represented with members of the humanities."

He also said that "Canada would be setting a precedent if such a centre is established. The country would also be taking a giant step toward avoiding the ultimate cataclysm."

Cool-Aid Asks $1,160

Cool-Aid representatives will appear before the Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Council today to ask for a grant of $1,160.

The money will be used to finance the expanded summer operation of Cool-Aid, which has been made possible by the generosity of St. John's Anglican Church.

Charles Barber, a spokesmen for Cool-Aid, said Monday the church had offered the use of the basement and kitchen of the church hall to the organization which provides accommodation and food for young transients.

Cool-Aid has a permanent hostel at 953 Balmoral, financed by municipal and government grants.

Barber said Monday the hostel provided beds for 20 young people Sunday night and had 19 for dinner Monday. Space was getting very short, he said, and the accommodation provided by St. John's would fill a great need.

In addition to giving the use of basement and kitchen space in its hall, St. John's church has awarded a grant of $1,000 to Cool-Aid to further the work of helping young people who have nowhere else to turn for beds and food.

'Spectacular' Feared During Queen's Visit

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI) — Police in Auckland, a city paralysed by a bus drivers' strike and shaken by the bombings of four public buildings, said Monday they feared a "spectacular gesture" by an anti-war group during the visit of Queen Elizabeth.

The Queen, her husband Prince Philip and their oldest son and daughter, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, will sail into the capital city today aboard the royal yacht Britannia from Tauranga, 100 miles southeast of Auckland.

Auckland police said they were worried about a left-wing and anti-Vietnam war group called the Revolutionary Activists which claimed responsibility for the bombings of three military buildings. A police source said they had received unverified reports the group had stolen 50 sticks of dynamite and so far has used about seven of them.

SOME ARRESTS

The source said police were particularly worried since part of a timing device was found at the supreme court building which was damaged by a bomb blast Saturday.

Bombs exploded previously at an army magazine office, an air force depot and a navy recruiting office. Some arrests have been made in connection with them.

In Tauranga Monday, a shabbily dressed Lithuanian woman who said she was a survivor of Nazi concentration camps, pushed her way through the crowd and knelt before Queen Elizabeth, begging her to "save my son in Russia." She had a sheaf of newspaper clippings in her hand.

The Queen said nothing and moved past the woman up the gangplank onto the Britannia, but Prince Philip paused beside her and reportedly told her, "I will do my best."

FOUR ISLANDS

Meanwhile in Whitianga Monday, the Queen received as a gift from a Maori tribe four volcanic islands off the east coast of New Zealand.

The islands are uninhabited except for wildlife including "prehistoric" reptiles. They were named the Aldermen by Captain Cook 200 years ago and have been claimed by the Ngati Hei tribe of Maoris for at least the last 750 years.

Work Stoppage Urged To Improve Pensions

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Teachers' Federation committee proposes teachers conduct work stoppages "or other sanctions" unless the provincial government guarantees it will improve teachers' pensions.

The recommendation, from the BCTF pensions committee, will go before the federation's annual meeting here March 30-April 1. Notice is given in a special issue of the BCTF newsletter.

Tom Hutchinson, chairman of the committee, said the government has refused to give any indication of whether it plans changes in pension legislation.

"The world moves, costs rise, inflation contnues, B.C. booms, but the government's support to each teacher pension is a decade old," Hutchinson said.

The government each year contributes $281 a teacher to the teachers' pension fund, he said, a figure unchanged since 1961. Teachers contribute six per cent of salary.

Among proposals the BCTF has made are retirement at 60, or after 35 years service, with full pension and tying pension allowances to the cost of living.

Sudden Fire Costly

STEWART, B.C. (AP) — Three miners remained in hospital Sunday, one with a broken leg and two with minor burns, after a split-second flash of flame in the main tunnel of the Granduc Mines Ltd. copper mine.

The company said it appeared that a train carrying afternoon shift workers out of the mine Saturday picked up a nearly empty bottle of acetylene gas in a wheel, setting off the blast.

One man's leg was jammed under a seat and broken by the sudden jolt as the train stopped. Two others suffered face and hand burns.

Two Friends Joining Haida

Haida, Sealand's killer whale, may be getting more permanent company than he's been expecting.

"There is a very strong possibility," operator Bob Wright told Oak Bay council Monday night, that the young normally-colored killer whale who will be accompanying the albino to Sealand will be kept permanently.

Wright said the move was likely in view of the most recent advice received from animal behavioralists who have been studying the pod of killer whales taken at Pedder Bay recently.

The marina operator appeared before council to request permission to extend the size of the whale pen by 45 feet "for the health and welfare of our whales . . . for maximum comfort and ease of movement."

He said the expansion, as such, would not increase revenues for the attraction and made it clear that the albino whale would be added to the pool whether or not the pool's size was increased.

Council approved the change in size, but not without considerable debate and a sly warning slipped in by Ald. Dr. Alan Hoey.

"If the pool is extended, it is just that number of boat spaces that are lost," he said. "They only have so much lease."

Ald. Norman Pimlott said, "I certainly prefer a white whale to a pulp mill in Oak Bay."

"We giggled just the same, like fools, because we had just smoked a joint in the Buckingham toilets. We were so nervous."

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Newspapers and magazines are changing but not dying, the editors of two leading magazines told a group of communications teachers here Saturday, and that change is for the better.

★ ★ ★

Robert Fulford, editor of Saturday Night, and Peter Gzowski, editor of Maclean's agreed in a panel discussion at Fanshawe College that magazines will survive by seeking out specialty audiences.

"And I never thought in 1950 that newspapers would be as interesting as they've turned out to be in 1970," said Fulford.

He saw personal journalism by newspaper men as a trend already present on large newspapers and giving every indication of spreading to smaller provincial dailies.

Years ago, Fulford said, newspaper writing was like a "choir" with reporters on smaller papers trying to duplicate the style of big-city reporters.

"Now, instead of a choir you have vaudeville, with each writer doing his own act, and it's a much better way.

"This vaudeville approach of personal expression, subjectivity—maybe even Egomania—will become more prevalent and spread to the smaller papers.

★ ★ ★

"As young journalists sense this wave of the future it will be harder and harder for us as editors and teachers to deal with them."

Outlook on Death Wish

Zabriskie: Banal Epic

By BILL THOMAS

Italian film director Michelangelo Antonioni is a man successfully preoccupied with visual effect even if it means sacrificing validity of cinematic content.

Blow-up was an example of this facet of his personality and Zabriskie Point, his first film made in America, now playing at the Fox Cinema, is another example.

It seems reasonable to assume that Antonioni could focus 17 cameras on the drab concrete monolith of the Saanich Municipal Hall and somehow end up making it an artistic event. It might not have much meaning, but it would be an artistic event.

Zabriskie Point is an outlook over Death Valley, but when Antonioni stands there, it becomes an outlook, or rather his outlook, on the death wish of alienated American youth.

The story line and script are fundamentally simple, so much so that they have an almost Dick and Jane naivete, and the viewer is left wondering why it took five script writers to produce it.

A boy stole a light airplane from a Los Angeles airport and went for a joy ride. When he returned it he was shot to death by waiting policemen. That much is fact, and it is around this that Antonioni has built Zabriskie Point.

Zabriskie Point is as full of cliche characters and cartoon images as early morning television. Only Antonioni's incredible ability to transform ordinary things into objects of beauty saves Zabriskie Point.

He is fortunate in having Alfio Contini as his director of photography. Contini is able to capture and hold for an instant the stark beauty of the desert, a ramshackle building, or a clump of trees with a magic realism quality that would do credit to the painters Wyeth or Colville.

Antonioni sees only the facade of unrest and alienation in North America's young people. He sees the crudity and agressiveness of advertising and big business, but he apparently is unable to grasp the profundity of the nihilistic frame of mind that holds the American picture.

Antonioni

The cynically inclined might conjure up their own dream sequence, Antonioni-style, of a group of executives at MGM saying, "Look, those guys made Easy Rider, Medium-Cool, and Alice's Restaurant; on small-to-medium budgets, and they sold to the kids.

"What we need is a film that uses university unrest, Black Power, the drug question, boy-meets-girl, psychedelic sex, lots of dream sequences and as many other contemporary hangups as we can cram into about 90 minutes screen time. We need a name director, and we'll make the bread."

It probably didn't happen this way, but it sure looks like it. Antonioni saw Zabriskie, but he misses the point. Death Valley is the lowest point in the United States and the nadir of Antonioni's brilliant career as a director.

★ ★ ★

It just seems impossible to believe that the man who was responsible for the cinematic invention of Blow-up could also have made this epic of banality that is Zabriskie Point. The film is arrid and vacuous. There is a great deal for the eye but nothing for the intellect, or at least nothing that has not been said more powerfully and with greater impact by others. Zabriskie Point is a sucker-trap for young people who have become the film-makers best customers.

Grizzlies Film Today

Film-maker Keith Scott spent four years on two of his productions, Hike to the Hills and Grizzlies, which will be shown today and Thursday at 8 p.m. in the McPherson Playhouse.

Scott, a former New Brunswick resident, now makes his home in the Wells-Barkerville area and is filming another production on the big bears in the Bowron Lake area.

Scott started as an amateur photographer who wanted to make his career filming and at the same time combine his love of the outdoors. He packs enough dehydrated food and camping equipment for a three-month trip and his fishing gear, but never a rifle or gun.

Scott has been very successful in his first two films, capturing excellent footage of bears and also a pair of Royal Elk, which are titled because they have seven points on each branch of horns.

Concerts Offer Pick Of Classics or Youth

By BERT BINNY

There was considerable musical activity in these parts on Sunday afternoon.

But it differed in several important respects from place to place as, for example, in the numbers on the stage and in the auditorium. However, there is a relationship between these numbers; very often the more artists, the greater the attendance.

At the McPherson Playhouse three performers undertook the entire program before an audience of about 200. At the Newcombe Auditorium approximately 100 were onstage and 300 in the audience.

CLASSICAL AFFAIR

The McPherson program, sponsored by the Victoria Musical Art Society, was a mature, quite classical affair, while that at the Newcombe leaned towards the youthful and sprightly. Nevertheless, both were very entertaining.

Soprano Catherine Young with sensitive accompaniment from pianist Winnifred Scott along with classical guitarist Chris Jordan provided the Musical Art program.

Mrs. Young has a very rich voice. She was heard Wednesday night at the conservatory recital, at which time it was noted that she caught the moods of her different items admirably.

FRESH APPROACH

This welcome attribute was noticeable again on Sunday, in her fresh approach to Little Sir William as compared to that used in Salley Gardens. She also sang the aria, E Strano Sempre Libera from La Traviata, which calls for and received much different treatment again.

Such variation is all the more acceptable, because so many of the classical and semi-classical composers seem to have suffered from the obsession that beauty and sadness were virtually synonymous; the greater the misfortune depicted the worthier the depiction.

There appears to be an undercurrent of lament these days to the effect that many young musicians are taking up the guitar in preference to the violin.

Guitarist Chris Jordan did just this. Early in his musical career he was a violinist with the Bedford (England) Symphony. But, in his case anyway, the violin's loss was the guitar's gain.

In his hands it becomes the author and producer of songs without words and every note has its appointed value and duration. It was a delight to hear this instrument at its very best and most melodious.

Chris Jordan played several interesting items culled from five centuries of Spanish guitar literature and pointed out that the guitar was vastly popular there in the 16th century. Then its appeal spread and, in the following century, both Charles II of England and the Sun King of France, Louis XIV, were prominent guitarists.

MODERN VERSION

One of Jordan's items was variations on Luys Narvaez's Guadarme las Vacas, a song which, he remarked, found its way to 16th or 17th century England.

An approximate — if modern — version of the English words presumably uttered by a medieval shepherdess, runs: "Look after my cows while I run downtown with my boyfriend."

Headlining Monterey school's spring concert at the Newcombe Auditorium was the school choir, directed by Lorna Griffiths and accompanied by Margery Littley. There were 74 members, and they are entered in the 1970 Vancouver Music Festival.

EXACT UNITY

Also, they will go to Surrey for performances and workshops in April.

They display excellent enunciation and have the enviable ability to combine to the point of complete and exact unity.

The choir sang 17 items, of which five were Scottish favorites such as Skye Boat Song and Celtic Lullaby. And it travelled further abroad still for such as Stodola Pumpa and The Happy Wanderer.

The lone soloist was pianist Marion Condrashoff, also a member of the choir. A boys' vocal sextet and a recorder ensemble numbered about 20.

WIDE CHOICE

The latter showed a catholic taste in their choice of items to play: all the way from a Mozart sonatina to Poor Little Buttercup from HMS Pinafore, Bury Me Out on the Lone Prairie and that hardy perennial of the music festival, The Ash Grove.

The guest artists from Mount Douglas high school were the woodwind quartet of Gail Gardner, Kathy McAndrews, Ann Mullins and Owen Underhill.

They romped gaily through Alfred Castle's Summer Sketches and clarinettists Gardner and McAndrews played a Canon by Bach.

This was a light but entertaining program and well worthwhile. The attendance by considerably younger brothers and sisters, whose musical sensibilities are not yet aroused, tends to place extra strain on the water fountains and, occasionally, on paternal patience.

But it is still all well worthwhile. There is nothing like interest and encouragement to nourish art in any form and the support of parents and friends is as great encouragement as any.

Sex Club Designed To Float

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Denmark gets her first floating sex club, when a chartered ship with accommodation for 150 members comes into service between Copenhagen and a swedish port May 1, the organizers said Sunday.

Joergen Hallund, a Copenhagen pornography wholesale dealer and the chief organizer said, "I cannot tell which Swedish port the Tabu will call at until permission to sell tax-free goods aboard has been given."

Hallund said the guests, paying 150 kroner ($19) for one-year membership, will enjoy most facets of pornography during the daily six-hour cruise in Oeresund, the narrow strait between Copenhagen and Sweden.

"There will be live sex shows and topless hostesses to see to the passengers' well-being," Hullund said. He said three cabins have been converted into massage clinics.

"It's going to be booming business," Hallund added.

Cranbrook Comedy Takes Award

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Cranbrook Community Theatre Saturday won the award for best presentation in its staging of Harold Pinter's two-act comedy, The Birthday Party, on the final day of the three-day British Columbia regional drama festival.

The trophy for best supporting actor and best director went to Jim Magee, also of Cranbrook.

Adjudicator Roberta Dolby praised members of the group for their success in presenting a difficult play which she termed "a superb piece of modern writing."

North Pacific Players of Prince Rupert walked off with several regional awards for their production Friday night of Sean O'Casey's Irish tragedy Juno and the Paycock. They received the trophy for best visual production.

Paddy McCarriggle and Ann Bell ,both of the Prince Rupert group, won trophies for best actor and best supporting actress.

Chosen best actress was Pam Glass of Vancouver Little Theatre Association for her performance in Brian Friel's "Lovers."

Miss Dolby, who also adjudicated the Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta festivals, now will choose one play to represent the west in Winnipeg May 18-23.

Hearing Problems 'Hamper' Intellect

Certain types of hearing disorders may help to produce mental retardation in children, the director of the neuropsychological laboratory at the University of Iowa Medical School said in Victoria last weekend.

Dr. Arthur Benton mentioned several classes of specific language disabilities in mental retardates, but described in detail the effects of aphasia, a disorder which results in loss or impairment of the victim's power to use words as symbols of ideas.

"From the neuropsychological standpoint," he said, "there is a fair amount of evidence suggesting that a central impairment of hearing which is expressed in defective processing of auditory information . . . is responsible for developmental aphasia of this receptive-expressive type."

The basic impairment is probably caused by cerebral damage involving the ears, he told approximately 200 delegates to the fifth Neuropsychology Workshop at the University of Victoria.

Benton noted that although there are indications that forms of developmental language disabilities occur more frequently in retardates than in children of higher intelligence, "the specific nature of the disability is often overlooked, and there is a tendency to consider it as simply a part-expression of the global intellectual subnormality."

This creates a false impression, he said.

"The fact is that the degree of language disability shown by a retardate is often far more severe than would be expected on the basis of his mental age."

He suggested that the relationship between the disability and the intellectual level "may be simply one of concurrence," but went on to propose an alternative explanation.

"Bearing in mind the close relationship between aphasia and mentation (mental activity) observed in adult patients," he said, "there is the possibility that the specific language disability itself is a significant determinant of the global mental subnormality.

"There is substantial evidence that aphasic disorder hampers conceptual thinking in the adult patient with a history of firmly established intellectual habits and skills.

"It is not unreasonable," he said, "to conclude that the hampering effect of specific language disability on the growth of intellect in a child would be even more severe, and it is conceivable that this effect would be sufficiently powerful to produce a generalized retardation in the mental development of a child rendered susceptible by other factors."

Benton, who is well-known for his work in the field of mental retardation, was one of the key speakers at the two-day meet which attracted psychologists, speech therapists, teachers and members of related professions from many centres in Canada and the United States.

The workshop was planned by the neuropsychology laboratory of the UVic psychology department in affiliation with the B.C. Mental Retardation Institute and the B.C. Psychological Association.

Thousands Join Fight Against Bus Boosts

Some 7,000 people in Victoria and Vancouver have signed a petition protesting increased bus fares for pensioners, says the executive director of the Victoria area Silver Threads.

Catherine Horne said Monday that Oak Bay MLA Dr. Scott Wallace will present the petition to Premier Bennett and the B.C. cabinet today.

The petition asks the government to provide $10-a-year bus passes for people 65 and over and to make them valid between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. and from 7 p.m. on.

Current $5-for-six-months passes are obtained after a means test and are valid only between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., according to Mrs. Horne.

She said a request for $10-a-year passes had already been turned down by B.C. Hydro, while Social Welfare Minister Philip Gaglardi had said any concessions would have to come from the cabinet.

Fare Increase Draws Stones

MANILA (UPI) — More than 1,000 demonstrators stoned buses and jeeploads of police Monday in a protest against increased public transit fares. Police unleashed tear gas and fired over the protesters' heads.

BRUCE LOWTHER
AboutTV

The recession in North America, if there is one, has come to television in this area. Seattle's KTVW, known more familiarly as good old Channel 13, has announced it will cut down to seven hours a day effective April 1.

The only definite program cutback is the end of the 7 a.m.-1 p.m. stock market reports on March 31. But if Channel 13 goes to seven hours a day starting at 1 p.m., that could mean no more Bob Corcoran and the loss of the hundreds of rotten old movies on 13 each month.

There's an economic legend that a recession or depression hits show business first. It did in the late 1920s and, in KTVW's case, station officials say one factor in the cutback was "the economic slowdown." Shame.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Saturday's answer — Last of the Hitchcocks were Michael Wilding as detective Ordinary Smith in Stage Fright, Claude Rains as the man left at the taxi door in Notorious, and Hitchcock himself as his film trademark. In Lifeboat, he was on a floating piece of paper; in Dial M for Murder, he was in a picture on the wall. And he has almost always been great.

Today's question — This week, let's knock off movies and take up geography. All right, let's. So, stoodents, our first question is this: can you name Canada's 10 provincial capitals? Answers Wednesday.

"My special guest this morning is LaNelle Robson who will give us some exercises for the eyes."

Maple Bay

Cadet Quarters Razed by Fire

DUNCAN — Approximately $20,000 damage resulted from an early Monday morning fire which gutted part of the headquarters of the Admiral Mainguy Sea Cadet Corps at Maple Bay.

Maple Bay volunteer Fire Chief Arthur Lequesne said the alarm was sounded at 4:55 a.m. and four and a half minutes later the first firefighters arrived at the scene with equipment.

Lequesne said the fire had already burned through the roof and the entire front part of the building was ablaze.

The chief said his men were able to contain the fire but half an hour later one truck from the North Cowichan, Southend, volunteer fire brigade was called for assistance under the mutual aid program.

Capt. Ken Spencer, commanding officer of the Maple Bay sea cadet unit, stated the loss was covered by insurance. Some of the equipment was saved but some was damaged by smoke.

★ ★ ★

A former Mainguy Sea Cadet Corps commanding officer, Doug Barker, who until a week ago was president of the Cowichan Branch, Navy League of Canada, was able to save a set of drums which had been donated to the corps' band a few years ago.

His wife said, "Although my husband was sick he went down to the barracks as soon as he heard about the fire at 5 a.m. and I and our son went along. It was heartbreaking to see it go up in flames."

The Maple Bay fire chief stated the barracks originally came from Sooke. Lequesne, in the late forties, had helped to dismantle the building for the transport to Maple Bay where, for a number of years, it was used by a boat building firm.

In 1958 the building was given to the local branch of the Navy League which sponsors the sea cadet corps. Since then many parents and corps members put in countless hours to improve the building and a small bore indoor rifle range was added.

The commanding officer stated the headquarters will be rebuilt and Mrs. Barker said, "A number of sea cadets have already indicated they wanted to help rebuild it." There are about 50 youngsters in the corps.

★ ★ ★

One of the neighbors said she noticed a smoldering smell when she went to bed at 11 p.m. Sunday but paid no further attention to it because of several fires people had lit at Maple Bay to clean up their gardens Sunday afternoon. The cause of the fire has not yet been determined.

B.C. Festival Blamed

Bathtub Officials Say Race Stolen

NANAIMO — There will be strong letters of protest sent to Mayor Frank Ney, Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce, Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, British Columbia Chamber of Commerce, B.C. Festival of Sports committee, the Chamber of Commerce of Sicamoose to protest what the Nanaimo Loyal Order of the Bathtub Society alleges is theft of the bathtub race.

When society officers met, Monday to discuss plans for the 1970 race, Glen Galloway, rules committee chairman and originator of the idea, presented two scrolls advertising Moose-Mouse Days from May 16 to 18. At the top of the scrolls, which depicted a treasure map, was the claim "World championship and B.C. champion" in connection with a bathtub race to be held over an approximately 15-mile long route to be run on a round trip.

The claim was made on the scroll that the race was "sanctioned by the B.C. Festival of Sports."

In that the Nanaimo race across Georgia Strait to Vancouver was the first organized race and was the promotional stunt for the 1967 Canadian centennial celebrations, and drew international interest, bathtub society members were immediately angered.

They called for a "letter in the strongest terms possible" to be drafted by legal adviser William Currie and copies sent out to the above mentioned groups.

Also protested during discussion was the advertisement of first, second and third prizes of $100, $50 and $25 respectively.

The members felt cash prizes degraded the original intention of bathtub racing as originated — for the heck of it, an award to have one's name inscribed upon, and the honor of wearing the Golden Bathtub plug.

Later, when delegates of the Greater Vancouver Sea Festival joined the Nanaimo group, those delegates agreed that the action was a presumption on the Nanaimo race.

North Cowichan

Parents Launching Crosswalk Protest

NORTH COWICHAN—Mrs. Patrick Mullins, Mrs. Arthur Roberts, and a North Cowichan council member will meet with the deputy minister of highways, H. T. Miard, at 10:30 Wednesday morning in Victoria to press the necessity of an underpass for the Trans Canada Highway, approximately three miles north of Duncan.

★ ★ ★

The Sprott Road crossing is used by at least 85 children on a school day and local authorities have admitted it is a hazard.

The women said that over a five-day period they took a tally between 2:45 p.m. and 3 p.m. of the cars that passed the crossing at a posted rate of 60 miles an hour. The traffic averaged 195 vehicles.

"A serious accident is inevitable," Mrs. Mullins said. "The Junior Chamber of Commerce had written to the minister of highways," she said, and had been told that the signs posted there provided adequate protection.

As letters from parents brought no replies the parents are determined to rally mass support for the meeting in Victoria and to press for an underpass as the only solution.

★ ★ ★

"We are trying to get as many parents as we can to attend," said Mrs. Mullins.

"We hope to have at least 20. We will meet at the Village Green Inn Wednesday morning at 9:15."

Straits Get Boost

PORT ALBERNI—Federal Fisheries Minister Jack Davis has again expressed enthusiasm over making the Strait of Georgia a marine park.

The support came in a letter of M. J. Corbeil, secretary-treasurer of Port Alberni Labor Council.

Corbeil wrote to Davis saying the labor council "has wholeheartedly endorsed your suggestion that the total Strait of Georgia should be declared a marine park to avoid any possibility of oil or mineral explorations in the strait.

"It is also our opinion that such a marine park would not allow any oil tankers or any ships, carrying large amounts of explosives or poisonous gas to travel the waterways of the Strait of Georgia."

★ ★ ★

Davis replied that he had discussed the proposal with Prime Minister Trudeau and the minister for national parks, Jean Chretien "and they both agree this is an excellent idea.

"Also, because the bottom of the strait already belongs to the people of Canada, it will be a simple administrative act to designate it as Canada's 20th national park.

Rose Planting

I have been spending quite a bit of time and column space on roses this spring — why you should plant them, when to plant, where to plant and what kind to plant. After all this theorizing, it is about time we got down to the essential business of how to plant a rose.

The first instruction I ever had on rose planting came from an old Scottish professional gardener, who insisted that I take out a circular hole some 15 inches across and eight inches deep. In the middle of this flat-bottomed hole, I was taught to build a mound of beaten earth. The idea was to sit the rose bush on this mound with the roots spread out evenly, radiating outward and gently downward from the centre, then fill in the hole and make very firm.

When I first started writing about gardening, I passed this information along conscientiously until, a few years ago, I realized that rose bushes had changed since my younger days. The packaged bushes we buy nowadays don't have roots radiating outward in all directions from the centre — they are growing more or less in a bunch and pointing only one way, and no matter how you fiddle with them, you just can't make them spread out evenly like the spokes of a wheel.

I don't know what the modern commercial rose grower does to his plants to get the roots bunched up and sloping off in one direction only — I suppose it is to make packaging easier.

I was still puzzling over this when I ran across a magazine article by Percy Wright of Saskatoon advocating the planting of roses on the slant, in a squarish hole with a sloping bottom. Later, while browsing through the Royal Horticultural Society's excellent handbook on roses, I found the same on-the-slant method described by F. F. Fairbrother, President of Britain's National Rose Society.

★ ★ ★

When two such eminent rosarians as Mr. Wright and Mr. Fairbrother hit upon the same planting technique, while working independently half a world apart, the method must have merit, and in fact I find it much more effective than the older upright planting.

The idea is to take out a rectangular hole 18 inches long by about a foot wide, and with a sloping bottom, three inches deep at the shallow end to nine inches deep at the bottom. Any long or straggling roots on the rose are shortened and any damaged ones cut away.

The plant is held at the shallow end of the hole, with the graft union about an inch below soil level, and the roots are spread out evenly over the sloping floor of the hole. With everything in position, filling in can commence.

Generally speaking, the soil excavated from the planting hole is seldom good enough to put back in "as is." I like to mix my fill-in soil with damp peat moss, about one part peat to three parts soil, plus a good slug of bone meal, about 1½ cupfuls for each rose.

Put a little of this mixture on the floor of the slant-bottomed hole, then arrange the rose in the proper position and fill in with the prepared soil mix over the spread-out roots. When the filling-in is about two-thirds completed, stop and pour a couple of quarts of transplanting or "starter" solution in the hole.

Plain water would serve, actually, for the main purpose of pouring liquid in the hole is to bring the soil into close and intimate contact with the roots, which it does more effectively than any firming with the feet. A little mild stimulant added to the water, though, gets the roots off to a good start.

There are several preparations on the market which perform well as transplanting solutions. I particularly like Alginure, which is a liquid seaweed extract, mixed at the rate of four tablespoonfuls per gallon of water. Other good ones are Transplantone and Dixon's Vitamin B-1.

When the solution drains away, complete the filling in with loose, dry soil on top. No treading is necessary or desirable in this method of planting, as the solution will do all the firming required.

Computers Revolt

NEW YORK—There have been many repercussions over the mail strike. The most serious is that in a computer age, it's hard to explain to a computer what a mail strike is all about.

All large companies bill by computers and when the bills are paid, the computers check them off. For a week now it's been impossible for computers in New York to send out bills, or to receive money for outstanding debts.

★ ★ ★

Therefore, the computers who are not concerned with the postal workers' grievances have become more frustrated and have been venting their anger on the list of people stored in their machine.

I was in the office of one of the major credit card companies in New York last week and the manager was in the computer room trying to talk to the computers.

The teletype of one computer kept printing: WHERE IS THE MONEY?" MONEY? WHERE IS THE MONEY?"

Another computer was printing:

"JAMES IS A DEADBEAT, JINCKS IS A DEADBEAT, JIST IS A DEADBEAT, JOHNSON IS A DEADBEAT, JONES IS A DEADBEAT, JUNIPER IS A DEADBEAT."

A third computer was teleprinting, "ATTENTION! ATTENTION! THE CREDIT OF ALL PEOPLE WHOSE LAST NAMES BEGIN WITH 'A' THROUGH 'L' HAS BEEN CANCELLED."

The manager kept running from computer to computer teleprinting, "RESCIND THAT ORDER", but the computers were working much faster than the manager.

I watched him feed into one machine, "THERE IS A POSTAL STRIKE! DO NOT DO ANYTHING DRASTIC UNTIL IT IS OVER."

The machine immediately responded, "I AM NOT CONCERNED WITH POSTAL STRIKE. IF PEOPLE DON'T PAY THEIR DEBTS, THEY MUST BE PUNISHED."

★ ★ ★

The machine printed back "I DO NOT BELIEVE IN GOD. LACHMAN IS A DEADBEAT, LENGEL IS A DEADBEAT, LONGWORTH IS A DEADBEAT."

★ ★ ★

"PLEASE," the manager teletyped, "DON'T COME TO ANY CONCLUSIONS WHILE THE MAILS ARE NOT WORKING."

"YOU'RE GOING SOFT," the machine teletyped back. "IF YOU'RE NOT CAREFUL, YOU'LL BE A DEADBEAT TOO."

The manager was in tears. "I can't stop them," he said. "We've trained them to be so efficient that they won't accept any excuses. At this rate they're going to mark every one who has a credit card lousy. We'll be out of business."

"Why don't you pull the electric plug on the computers?" I suggested.

The manager was white. "I have no choice. To save the company, I'll have to push the self-destruct button."

"You're going to blow up the computers."

"It's either them or us." He broke the glass on the wall, and pushed the red button.

★ ★ ★

There was a thunderous explosion followed by smoke. When the smoke cleared, I looked around. All the computers seemed to be working. One started teleprinting, "AS I WAS SAYING BEFORE I WAS INTERRUPTED, MAYFIELD IS A DEADBEAT, MORGAN IS A DEADBEAT, MINTON IS A DEADBEAT, MULLINS IS A DEADBEAT.

Thinks Aloud

Competition in "relief" is as fierce as competition in anything else; advocates of different forms of treatment for narcotic addicts spend more time and energy attacking each other's modality of treatment than they do in extending their own programs, as though there weren't enough junkies for everybody.

The whole difficulty in "separating fact from opinion" is that we tend to choose only those facts that will bolster our opinion, rejecting divergent or contrary facts as "irrelevant" or "unsupported."

★ ★ ★

"I'll think it over and let you know" means "Please wait until I find a mutually acceptable way of refusing."

★ ★ ★

Most public speakers imagine they can escape being boring by being brief; but a true bore only amazes us with the vast amount of ennui he can compress into a few minutes, which would take other men an hour.

Capitalism owes an unacknowledged debt to matrimony — if wives didn't spend more than their husband makes, the whole "incentive system" would fall to pieces.

★ ★ ★

The vanity of men is far more self-delusive than that of women: it is easy for a woman to make a man feel he is being witty and entertaining, just by staring raptly into his face while he talks; but a woman who babbles on in the same way usually has the nagging feeling that she is not being very interesting.

Doesn't it seem peculiar the U.S., which is incessantly engaged in the production of hydrogen bombs should have laws banning fireworks?

Trudeau, left, Chartrand provide lively dialogue in Commons corridor —CP

'Liar' . . . 'Fanatic' . . . 'Prostitutes'

Trudeau, Labor Chief Stop at Brink of War

OTTAWA (CP) — A confrontation between Prime Minister Trudeau and labor leader Michel Chartrand of Montreal appeared to stop just short of blows Monday in a parliamentary corridor.

Trudeau was moving away after a heated conversation when Chartrand shouted that the prime minister was leaving with his "goons."

Trudeau wheeled and said:

"I don't need anyone to protect myself against you."

A crowd was in the corridor and men stepped between the two.

* * *

The exchange followed a meeting of Trudeau with Chartrand and other members of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions.

The confrontation, almost all of it in French, came after an acrid meeting between the Quebec labor leaders and the government in a room off the corridor.

During the meeting, Chartrand said Postmaster-General Eric Kierans should be jailed. Kierans just grinned.

As the meeting ended and participants left the room, Chartrand said a youth was imprisoned because he insulted Trudeau. He did not elaborate.

Trudeau denied this and said Chartrand was inventing things. Chartrand replied with a fusillade of accusation.

* * *

"You are raping the population," he said.

"I don't lie. You, you are a Christ of a liar.

"You are a slave of the United States . . . too slack to discuss your true problems.

Chartrand evidently referred to the Montreal postal dispute.

"There are 500,000 men out of work," he went on.

"You are a gang of prostitutes. The prostitutes are more respectable than you."

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Trudeau and Canadian Labor Congress president Donald MacDonald Monday had a two-hour, face-to-face confrontation on inflation. It was a standoff.

Neither convinced the other nor did either seem to budge from dug-in positions.

In three times now rejecting the government's national appeal for voluntary wage and salary curbs, organized labor was "doing nothing" to help beat inflation, Trudeau charged.

MacDonald fired back that as far as labor was concerned with the call for wage restraints, "we couldn't do it if we wanted to and we wouldn't do it anyway."

* * *

In the overheated railway committee room of the Centre Block, packed to its doors with the crowd overflowing back into the hallways, there was irritation on both sides, with the prime minister and the congress president agreeing only on the broad proposition that somehow somebody had to halt inflation.

They parted over who was to do it and how.

The prime minister was "disappointed," as he put it, that labor for the third time was rejecting wage restraint.

TOT FALLS TO DEATH FROM SKY

BEAVER, Utah (UPI) — A 2-year-old boy playing in the back of a small airplane fell 2,000 feet to his death when the baggage compartment door opened.

The body of Jeffery Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Myers of Beaver, was found Saturday night south of town. He had plunged from a small plane during the afternoon while flying with his father.

U.S. Soldiers Tackle Mountain of Letters

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon declared the five-day-old United States postal strike a national emergency Monday and sent the first of 2,500 unarmed federal troops heading into New York City to help move a mountain of mail.

Even though troops are being sent now only to New York City, Nixon said he will not hesitate to use them elsewhere if necessary.

The crucial issue in the illegal strike, he said, is "the survival of government based on law."

In addition to ordering the 2,500 air force and army troops into New York City, the Pentagon called 15,000 members of the New York National Guard to standby status. They were ordered to report to their armories this morning for possible roles helping non-striking postal employees.

* * *

It was also understood the Pentagon planned to call up a large number of individual army, navy and air force reservists to strengthen the postal staffs.

It was not immediately clear whether these would be postal specialists.

The government emphasized that the troops would be used in supplemental services only — sorting and hauling.

* * *

So the return to normal service in the areas worst affected still hinged on the return to work of regular employees — under strong pressure from Nixon and their own leaders to abandon the strike so negotiations for a pay raise can start.

Postmaster-General Winton Blount stressed that "we're not talking about delivering mail in New York City —now or in the near future."

As Nixon took his unprece-

'Sick-Out' Air Threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization Monday warned that a massive "sick-out" may shut down U.S. airways Wednesday.

In a letter to Defence Secretary Melvin Laird, the 7,500-man union said the slowdown would go into effect at 8 a.m. Wednesday in a protest over working conditions.

Robert Sturgill, spokesman for the union, said the controllers will report sick or ask for leave on the grounds of fatigue.

The controllers' new threat follows suspension of three controllers by the Federal Aviation Administration at Baton Rouge, La. The controllers have also made repeated requests to the FAA for better equipment and less overtime work.

Trinidad Takes Over Part-Canadian Bank

PORT OF SPAIN (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eric Williams announced Monday night the Trinidad government would take over the Bank of London and Montreal Ltd. here and use it as the headquarters of the country's proposed National Bank of Trinidad and Tobago.

* * *

In a countrywide television and radio broadcast apparently designed to answer Black Power demands for more economic independence in this Caribbean country, Williams announced a number of measures which observers interpreted as a step toward placating the extremists.

He anonunced a special 5-per-cent employment tax to begin from Jan. 1 this year and said all companies paying corporation tax and all banks and insurance companies, which are mainly foreign, would pay the special 5-per-cent levy.

Williams

Pioneer companies and partnerships which paid no corporation tax would also pay the levy on their tax-exempt profits, Williams said.

* * *

Williams said the fundamental feature of the demonstrations was the insistence on black dignity, the manifestation of black consciousness and the demand for black economic power."

He added:

"The entire population must understand those demands are perfectly legitimate and are entirely in the interest of the community as a whole. If this is Black Power, then I am for Black Power."

However, he added: "Let there be no misunderstandings about this. It is a horse of a different color if what is involved is arson and Molotov cocktails.

"In that case the law will have to take its course."

In Montreal, Leonard Walker, president of the Bank of Montreal, said the takeover is not unexpected."

Too Much for MPs—Knowles

Sweetened Pensions Pass

Those benefitting include former members of Parliament. Their maximum increases of up to 100 per cent outstrip other retired former public servants who receive increases ranging from two to 42 per cent.

Stanley Knowles (NDP-Winnipeg North Centre) in a final dissent said Parliament went too far on MPs' pensions in the bill, which later received a voice-vote third readig. It must get Senate aprpoval.

* * *

The government now is obligated to open up for review all other federal pension legislation, including the Public Service Superannuation Act, he said. Parliament had opened up its own pension act. The same treatment should be accorded the others.

The current legislation amounts to a guaranteed annual income for any MP who wins two elections, Knowles said. The time had come to look at the old-age pension and to obtain a similar guarantee for others.

Also in need of review was the War Veterans Allowances Act and the Pension Benefits Standards Act. The latter, which lays down standards for many pensioners outside direct government service, needs a cost-of-living escalation clause, Knowles said.

Under the approved legislation, MPs with two or more terms would be eligible for pensions ranging from $6,300 to $13,500, depending on length of office, compared with the existing range of $3,000 to $9,000.

* * *

To receive benefits, MPs will contribute 7½ per cent of their annual $18,000 income. However, M. T. McCutcheon (PC-Lambton-Kent) said the figure really is 12 per cent of a real salary of $12,000. The other $6,000 is tax-free expense money.

Few people outside Parliament "will be called upon to make such a fantastic deposit" on a pension as the MPs, he said. The average MP would have 'a' helluva hard time" making it.

At the same time, McCutcheon supported the idea of withholding MPs'

Israel 'Disappointed'

● Jets not needed now. Page 13

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban expressed "disappointment and concern" Monday at Washington's decision to withhold for the time being further supplies of warplanes to Israel.

But he stated Israel "attaches importance" to U.S. State Secretary William Rogers' comment that his government is carefully examining the Middle East conflict and the arms buildup in this region.

Eban's statement was broadcast throughout Israel after Rogers ended a news conference in Washington.

The foreign minister warned that the American decision to hold in abeyance the decision on further arms supplies to Isreal might "increase the belligerence" of Egypt.

But he thanked the state secretary for his promise that the United States would give Israel about $100,000,000 in financial aid.

Trudeau, left, Chartrand provide lively dialogue in Commons corridor

'Liar' . . . 'Fanatic' . . . 'Prostitutes'

Trudeau, Labor Chief Stop at Brink of War

OTTAWA (CP) — A confrontation between Prime Minister Trudeau and labor leader Michel Chartrand of Montreal appeared to stop just short of blows Monday in a parliamentary corridor.

Trudeau was moving away after a heated conversation when Chartrand shouted that the prime minister was leaving with his "goons."

Trudeau wheeled and said:

"I don't need anyone to protect myself against you."

A crowd was in the corridor and men stepped between the two.

★ ★ ★

The exchange followed a meeting of Trudeau with Chartrand and other members of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions.

The confrontation, almost all of it in French, came after an acrid meeting between the Quebec labor leaders and the government in a room off the corridor.

During the meeting, Chartrand said Postmaster-General Eric Kierans should be jailed. Kierans just grinned.

As the meeting ended and participants left the room, Chartrand said a youth was imprisoned because he insulted Trudeau. He did not elaborate.

Trudeau denied this and said Chartrand was inventing things. Chartrand replied with a fusillade of accusation.

★ ★ ★

"You are raping the population," he said.

"I don't lie. You, you are a Christ of a liar.

"You are a slave of the United States . . . too slack to discuss your true problems.

Chartrand evidently referred to the Montreal postal dispute.

"There are 500,000 men out of work," he went on.

"You are a gang of prostitutes. The prostitutes are more respectable than you."

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Trudeau and Canadian Labor Congress president Donald MacDonald Monday had a two-hour, face-to-face confrontation on inflation. It was a standoff.

Neither convinced the other nor did either seem to budge from dug-in positions.

In three times now rejecting the government's national appeal for voluntary wage and salary curbs, organized labor was "doing nothing" to help beat inflation, Trudeau charged.

MacDonald fired back that as far as labor was concerned with the call for wage restraints, "we couldn't do it if we wanted to and we wouldn't do it anyway."

★ ★ ★

In the overheated railway committee room of the Centre Block, packed to its doors with the crowd overflowing back into the hallways, there was irritation on both sides, with the prime minister and the congress president agreeing only on the broad proposition that somehow somebody had to halt inflation.

They parted over who was to do it and how.

The prime minister was "disappointed," as he put it, that labor for the third time was rejecting wage restraint.

TOT FALLS TO DEATH FROM SKY

BEAVER, Utah (UPI) — A 2-year-old boy playing in the back of a small airplane fell 2,000 feet to his death when the baggage compartment door opened.

The body of Jeffery Myers, son ofMr. and Mrs. Sherman Myers of Beaver, was found Saturday night south of town. He had plunged from a small plane during the afternoon while flying with his father.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon declared the five-day-old United States postal strike a national emergency Monday and sent the first of 2,500 unarmed federal troops heading into New York City to help move a mountain of mail.

Even though troops are being sent now only to New York City, Nixon said he will not hesitate to use them elsewhere if necessary.

The crucial issue in the illegal strike, he said, is "the survival of government based on law."

In addition to ordering the 2,500 air force and army troops into New York City, the Pentagon called 15,000 members of the New York National Guard to standby status. They were ordered to report to their armories this morning for possible roles helping non-striking postal employees.

★ ★ ★

It was also understood the Pentagon planned to call up a large number of individual army, navy and air force reservists to strengthen the postal staffs.

It was not immediately clear whether these would be postal specialists.

The government emphasized that the troops would be used in supplemental services only — sorting and hauling.

★ ★ ★

So the return to normal service in the areas worst affected still hinged on the return to work of regular employees — under strong pressure from Nixon and their own leaders to abandon the strike so negotiations for a pay raise can start.

Postmaster-General Winton Blount stressed that "we're not talking about delivering mail in New York City —now or in the near future."

As Nixon took his unprece-

LONDON (UPI) — Cambodian Premier Lon Nol said Monday he would not return the U.S. munitions ship which mutineers hijacked to Cambodia March 14.

Gen. Nol told Fred Emery, the Times of London correspondent in Phnom Penh, that although the Americans had asked to be allowed to recover the ship, the Columbia Eagle, there was "a risk of misunderstanding."

"We are just going to leave it there," he said, chuckling.

A Socred MLA who is a physician said Monday night he is "uneasy" about a bill before the Legislature which would allow the government to take over all B.C. hospitals.

Dr. Scott Wallace of Oak Bay said he is concerned the government "might well use (this power) in a subtle way over a period of time to take over ever hospital in the province."

NDP and Liberal members condemned a proposed amendment to the Hospital Act which would allow the government to appoint a public administrator to run

'Sick-Out' Air Threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization Monday warned that a massive "sick-out" may shut down U.S. airways Wednesday.

In a letter to Defence Secretary Melvin Laird, the 7,500-man union said the slowdown would go into effect at 8 a.m. Wednesday in a protest over working conditions.

Robert Sturgill, spokesman for the union, said the controllers will report sick or ask for leave on the grounds of fatigue.

The controllers' new threat follows suspension of three controllers by the Federal Aviation Administration at Baton Rouge, La. The controllers have also made repeated requests to the FAA for better equipment and less overtime work.

Trinidad Takes Over Part-Canadian Bank

PORT OF SPAIN (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eric Williams announced Monday night the Trinidad government would take over the Bank of London and Montreal Ltd. here and use it as the headquarters of the country's proposed National Bank of Trinidad and Tobago.

★ ★ ★

In a countrywide television and radio broadcast apparently designed to answer Black Power demands for more economic independence in this Caribbean country, Williams announced a number of measures which observers interpreted as a step toward placating the extremists.

He anonunced a special 5-per-cent employment tax to begin from Jan. 1 this year and said all companies paying corporation tax and all banks and insurance companies, which are mainly foreign, would pay the special 5-per-cent levy.

Williams

Pioneer companies and partnerships which paid no corporation tax would also pay the levy on their tax-exempt profits, Williams said.

Williams said the fundamental feature of the demonstrations "was the insistence on black dignity, the manifestation of black consciousness and the demand for black economic power."

He added:

"The entire population must understand those demands are perfectly legitimate and are entirely in the interest of the community as a whole. If this is Black Power, then I am for Black Power."

However, he added: "Let there be no misunderstandings about this. It is a horse of a different color if what is involved is arson and Molotov cocktails.

"In that case the law will have to take its course."

In Montreal, Leonard Walker, president of the Bank of Montreal, said the takeover is "not unexpected."

Too Much for MPs—Knowles

Sweetened Pensions Pass

Those benefitting include former members of Parliament. Their maximum increases of up to 100 per cent outstrip other retired former public servants who receive increases ranging from two to 42 per cent.

Stanley Knowles (NDP-Winnipeg North Centre) in a final dissent said Parliament went too far on MPs' pensions in the bill, which later received a voice-vote third readig. It must get Senate aprpoval.

★ ★ ★

The government now is obligated to open up for review all other federal pension legislation, including the Public Service Superannuation Act, he said. Parliament had opened up its own pension act. The same treatment should be accorded the others.

The current legislation amounts to a guaranteed annual income for any MP who wins two elections, Knowles said. The time had come to look at the old-age pension and to obtain a similar guarantee for others.

Also in need of review was the War Veterans Allowances Act and the Pension Benefits Standards Act. The latter, which lays down standards for many pensioners outside direct government service, needs a cost-of-living escalation clause, Knowles said.

Under the approved legislation, MPs with two or more terms would be eligible for pensions ranging from $6,300 to $13,500, depending on length of office, compared with the existing range of $3,000 to $9,000.

To receive benefits, MPs will contribute 7½ per cent of their annual $18,000 income. However, M. T. McCutcheon (PC-Lambton-Kent) said the figure really is 12 per cent of a real salary of $12,000. The other $6,000 is tax-free expense money.

Few people outside Parliament "will be called upon to make such a fantastic deposit" on a pension as the MPs, he said. The average MP would have 'a' helluva hard time" making it.

At the same time, McCutcheon supported the idea of withholding MPs'

Israel 'Disappointed'

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban expressed "disappointment and concern" Monday at Washington's decision to withhold for the time being further supplies of warplanes to Israel.

But he stated Israel "attaches importance" to U.S. State Secretary William Rogers' comment that his government is carefully examining the Middle East conflict and the arms buildup in this region.

Eban's statement was broadcast throughout Israel after Rogers ended a news conference in Washington.

The foreign minister warned that the American decision to hold in abeyance the decision on further arms supplies to Isreal might "increase the belligerence" of Egypt.

But he thanked the state secretary for his promise that the United States would give Israel about $100,000,000 in financial aid.

Maple Bay Sea Cadets to Rebuild

Fire Razes Barracks

DUNCAN — Approximately $20,000 damage resulted from an early Monday morning fire which gutted part of the headquarters of the Admiral Mainguy Sea Cadet Corps at Maple Bay.

Maple Bay volunteer Fire Chief Arthur Lequesne said the alarm was sounded at 4:55 a.m. and four and a half minutes later the first firefighters arrived at the scene with equipment.

* * *

Lequesne said the fire had already burned through the roof and the entire front part of the building was ablaze.

The chief said his men were able to contain the fire but half an hour later one truck from the North Cowichan, Southend, volunteer fire brigade was called for assistance under the mutual aid program.

Capt. Ken Spencer, commanding officer of the Maple Bay sea cadet unit, stated the loss was covered by insurance. Some of the equipment was saved but some was damaged by smoke.

* * *

A former Mainguy Sea Cadet Corps commanding officer, Doug Barker, who until a week ago was president of the Cowichan Branch, Navy League of Canada, was able to save a set of drums which had been donated to the corps' band a few years ago.

His wife said, "Although my husband was sick he went down to the barracks as soon as he heard about the fire at 5 a.m. and I and our son went along. It was heartbreaking to see it go up in flames."

* * *

The Maple Bay fire chief stated the barracks originally came from Sooke, Lequesne, in the late forties, had helped to dismantle the building for the transport to Maple Bay where, for a number of years, it was used by a boat building firm.

In 1958 the building was given to the local branch of the Navy League which sponsors the sea cadet corps. Since then many parents and corps members put in countless hours to improve the building and a small bore indoor rifle range was added.

The commanding officer stated the headquarters will be rebuilt and Mrs. Barker said, "A number of sea cadets have already indicated they wanted to help rebuild it." There are about 50 youngsters in the corps.

* * *

One of the neighbors said she noticed a smoldering smell when she went to bed at 11 p.m. Sunday but paid no further attention to it because of several fires people had lit at Maple Bay to clean up their gardens Sunday afternoon. The cause of the fire has not yet been determined.

10 Children Motherless

Sisters Found Dead At Tribal Ceremony

Modern civilization and Indian tradition combined early Sunday to cause the deaths of two sisters in a van parked on the East Saanich Indian reserve, and thereby leave 10 children motherless.

The victims were Mrs. Alex Johnny, 28, of Khenipsen Road near Duncan, the mother of seven children, and her sister Mrs. Joseph Wise, 24, of 1101 Robin Road in Nanaimo, the mother of three children.

They were awaiting their turn to take part in a ceremonial designed to ease the spirit of a tribe member when they apparently decided to get some sleep in the van, with the heater on, and were overcome by carbon monoxide poisoning.

* * *

Sidney Coroner D. G. Ashby is expected to hold an inquiry today into the deaths of the two women, members of the Rice family of Crofton.

Sidney RCMP and Indian sources in the area told this story:

A woman member of the tribe asked for a ceremonial in honor of her husband, who died about two years ago from a heart attack. The event was to be held in the reserve's big community centre, often called the Smoke House, from 6 p.m. Saturday to 9 a.m. Sunday.

* * *

A picture of the dead man, who had been a dancer at tribal events, was placed in the middle of a blanket and the blanket was placed between two fires. The man's spirit is supposed to "stand" where the picture is on such occasions while chosen people dance and sing before the picture.

Mrs. Johnny, born Muriel Rice, had been dancing at such events for about four years while Mrs. Wise, born Patricia Rice and known as Patsy, had just earned her dancer's hat.

Wise

While awaiting their part, they apparently decided to rest in the van, one in the front seat and the other in the back, with the engine and heater on. They were found at about 3:30 a.m. by Lena Pelkey, daughter of tribal leader Harold Pelkey, after she went to call them to the ceremonial.

An unidentified girl at the ceremonial, who had taken a first-aid course, tried artificial respiration and a doctor at Rest Haven Hospital worked on the sisters for more than an hour — but to no avail.

The ceremonial was called off at about 6 a.m., shortly after the doctor confirmed the dancing sisters were dead.

B.C. Festival Blamed

Bathtub Officials Say Race Stolen

NANAIMO — There will be strong letters of protest sent to Mayor Frank Ney, Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce, Associated Chambers od Commerce of Vancouver Island, British Columbia Chamber of Commerce, B.C. Festival of Sports committee, the Chamber of Commerce of Sicamoose to protest what the Nanaimo Loyal Order of the Bathtub Society alleges is theft of the bathtub race.

When society officers met, Monday to discuss plans for the 1970 race, Glen Galloway, rules committee chairman and originator of the idea, presented two scrolls advertising Moose-Mouse Days from May 16 to 18. At the top of the scrolls, which depicted a treasure map, was the claim "World championship and B.C. champion" in connection with a bathtub race to be held over an approximately 15-mile long route to be run on a round trip.

The claim was made on the scroll that the race was "sanctioned by the B.C. Festival of Sports."

* * *

In that the Nanaimo race across Georgia Strait to Vancouver was the first organized race and was the promotional stunt for the 1967 Canadian centennial celebrations, and drew international interest, bathtub society members were immediately angered.

They called for a "letter in the strongest terms possible" to be drafted by legal adviser William Currie and copies sent out to the above mentioned groups.

Also protested during discussion was the advertisement of first, second and third prizes of $100, $50 and $25 respectively.

The members felt cash prizes degraded the original intention of bathtub racing as originated — for the heck of it, an award to have one's name inscribed upon, and the honor of wearing the Golden Bathtub plug.

Later, when delegates of the Greater Vancouver Sea Festival joined the Nanaimo group, those delegates agreed that the action was a presumption on the Nanaimo race.

North Cowichan

Parents Launching Crosswalk Protest

NORTH COWICHAN—Mrs. Patrick Mullins, Mrs. Arthur Roberts, and a North Cowichan council member will meet with the deputy minister of highways, H. T. Miard, at 10:30 Wednesday morning in Victoria to press the necessity of an underpass for the Trans Canada Highway, approximately three miles north of Duncan.

The Sprott Road crossing is used by at least 85 children on a school day and local authorities have admitted it is a hazard.

The women said that over a five-day period they took a tally between 2:45 p.m. and 3 p.m. of the cars that passed the crossing at a posted rate of 60 miles an hour. The traffic averaged 195 vehicles.

* * *

"A serious accident is inevitable," Mrs. Mullins said. "The Junior Chamber of Commerce had written to the minister of highways," she said, and had been told that the signs posted there provided adequate protection.

As letters from parents brought no replies the parents are determined to rally mass support for the meeting in Victoria and to press for an underpass as the only solution.

* * *

"We are trying to get as many parents as we can to attend," said Mrs. Mullins.

"We hope to have at least 20. We will meet at the Village Green Inn Wednesday morning at 9:15."

Nanaimo Parents On Picket Line

NANAIMO — A group of concerned parents of School District 68 organized themselves into a Nanaimo Parents Association to fight limited bus pickup service for school children, imposed by Nanaimo School Board as an economy measure.

Approximately 75 parents joined the group, and formed picket lines at the school board office in an attempt to stop the buses. They were warned by board officials to disband, they stayed, but let the buses through.

Parents complained that at least 60 bus stops have been eliminated, in some cases making children walk as much as five miles to school.

Many elementary school students who used to ride buses to school, went to the normal stops, but the buses didn't come and many children headed back home.

Both parents and school board officials described the first day of the new school transportation system as one of complete confusion.

* * *

Executive members of the NPA, Joe Fisher, chairman; Mrs. Mary Doubt and Mrs. Doreen Lassan, said that a delegation from the new association will go to Victoria today in an attempt to see Education Minister Donald Brothers.

The delegation plans to ask that the education department investigate Nanaimo School Board finances, and also seek advice on the possibility of cutting down on board staff in order to maintain the old bus pickup system.

Straits Get Boost

PORT ALBERNI—Federal Fisheries Minister Jack Davis has again expressed enthusiasm over making the Strait of Georgia a marine park.

The support came in a letter of M. J. Corbeil, secretary-treasurer of Port Alberni Labor Council.

Corbeil wrote to Davis saying the labor council "has wholeheartedly endorsed your suggestion that the total Strait of Georgia should be declared a marine park to avoid any possibility of oil or mineral explorations in the strait.

* * *

"It is also our opinion that such a marine park would not allow any oil tankers or any ships, carrying large amounts of explosives or poisonous gas to travel the waterways of the Strait of Georgia."

Davis replied that he had discussed the proposal with Prime Minister Trudeau and the minister for national parks, Jean Chretien "and they both agree this is an excellent idea.

"Also, because the bottom of the strait already belongs to the people of Canada, it will be a simple administrative act to designate it as Canada's 20th national park.

* * *

"If you know anyone else who is interested in supporting this idea I would certainly appreciate it if you would suggest to them that they write to the prime minister and urge that the entire strait be dedicated as a national park at as early a date as possible.

Nanaimo's Carousel Opens April 1

Musical Group in High Gear

NANAIMO — Opening night for the second musical by Nanaimo Theatre Group is fast approaching and rehearsals of Carousel are going far into the night.

With music direction by Mrs. Isabelle Highet, choreography and dance sequences by Michael Sears and acting direction by Gordon Kirby, there is an almost insurmountable amount of rehearsing — at least as far as directors are concerned.

* * *

With work on the play started just after the new year, rehearsals were relatively few to begin with. As curtain time approached, the directors found themselves out all but Friday and Saturday nights.

* * *

The cast has not all had to go five nights a week, but the principals have had to be at most rehearsals. Principal actors and actresses are Mrs. Judy Bilton and Don Shore supported by almost equally difficult roles held by Mrs. Joan Woodcock and Roy Plater.

With NTG in its ninth year, second generations of founding members are showing up in casts. Roger Desprez is playing drums for the orchestra while his son Ross and daughter Lisa have parts in the cast.

Mrs. Barbara Desprez will be helping out front during actual productions. The Deprez's were two of the original three who gathered together the Nanaimo area actors for the first production in 1961.

* * *

Mrs. Jan Plater has her hands full, making "stiches in time" to save the club from having to rent costumes.

Kirby said, "Last year, when we put on My Fair Lady, we only ran for three days and we had people sitting on the floor. This year we decided we'd better run an extra day, so we'll be going April 1 to 4 in Woodland's junior high auditorium."

* * *

In that the auditorium is the closest thing to a theatre, and then only affording a few patrons proper viewing or listening vantage points, there will be the usual rush for the best seats. People in the cast who have been selling tickets say there are still a few not spoken for.

Employees Honored

Long-time postal employees, Mrs. Hilda McNichol, 174 Price Place, and former postmaster of Koksilah William Hill, were presented with scrolls by Duncan postmaster Bob Corney. The scrolls were signed by the postmaster general and his deputy minister. Mrs. McNichol also received a personal letter from the district director of postal service. Mrs. McNichol had served with the Duncan post office for 28 years until her retirement las November, and Hill had been postmaster at Koksilah for 23 years. —(Klaus Muenter)

Kiwanis Ambulance

Service Vital To Citizens

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—Often their skill may decide between life and death and despite screaming sirens, the men behind the wheels of two Duncan ambulances provide a silent service for a large community.

The 18 voluntary drivers of the Duncan Kiwanis Ambulance Society, led by their captain Ron le Roy are always prepared to meet emergencies 24 hours every day throughout tht year. Five wives provide an important dispatch service. There are two drivers on 24-hour duty, alternating every week.

One quarter of all calls, averaging to about 40 a month, are highway accidents when quick and skilled action is required to comfort injured people or to save lives. Now in adequate new quarters provided last year by Cowichan Valley Regional Board, the ambulance drivers battled for many years for better accommodation.

In July 1955, the ambulance society was formed and the ambulance service was taken over from a Duncan firm, Kyle Taxi. The first ambulance was a converttd taxi and, in 1957, a second machine was added to meet the increasing demand. In 1966, the society bought a streamlined modern machine which was damaged in an an emergency call.

The vehicle was repaired and now the society is contemplating replacing its second, older ambulance with another modern machine, also with four beds which will cost about $8,000 fully equipped.

One of the veteran drivers, John Diron, who has been the department since 1958, would like to see the regional district take over the ambulance service.

The Duncan mea cover the area between the Malahat and the Chemainus River, including the district between Duncan and Paldi and the Port Renfrew district. Capt. Le Roy said there was a mutual aid agreement with the Chemainus and Lake Cowichan ambulance men who pool resources in extreme emergencies.

Dirom said that uncooperative drivers on highways were still the biggest problem when ambulances have to speed to accident scenes. In some cases drivers even attempted to pass an ambulance on an emergency run, he said.

All the drivers agreed that they did not drive for money—they are paid only a token amount for the time they spend on calls. The drivers include sawmill workers, loggers, pulp mill workers, mechanics, truck drivers and even a gardener — Ano Wiersma who is the brigade's lieutenant.

All drivers have St. Johns first aid certificates and most hold an industrial first aid ticket as well. Since 1955, a total of 79 men have served in Duncan's ambulance service but none of the original drivers are still active.

Dirom said: "Some passed on, others retired and perhaps some just could not take it any longer."

He said that dodging traffic and scenes of most accidents were nerve-wracking although drivers were generally too absorbed in their work to comprehend at that moment the full impact of a highway tragedy.

Man Jailed

LAKE COWICHAN — Ronald Murray Mason, 34, of Honeymoon Bay, was sentenced Wednesday to 18 months in Oakalla prison farm for possession of stolen property. Mason appeared in Duncan county court after being arrested on January 20 for having tools and a radio stolen from a truck in his possession.

Cancer Drive Soars

COURTENAY—The 1969 provincial Conquer Cancer campaign was a success, raising more money than asked for, thereby putting the provincial body on a good footing for 1970, board member Mrs. Myrtle Vickberg, Courtenay, reported.

She was in attendance at the annual meeting of the B.C. and Yukon division, held in Vancouver recently.

Mrs. Vickberg was re-elected to the provincial board along with Victoria residents W. Stanley Moore and Dr. Murray Anderson.

The 1969 fund raising objective was $475,000, an increase of $25,000 over the 1968 objective. The final result was $567,641.

Mrs. Vickberg reported that campaign expenses were a low 5.12 per cent of the total proceeds.

In the annual reports given to members it was noted that the National Cancer Institute provided a total of $471,276 for research and fellowships in B.C.

Bequests, legacies and in memorium tributes netted the society a total of $98,206 including interest, the report of the finance committee indicated.

Education continues to be a major item in the work of the society and this year will adopt the theme Cancer Can be Beaten, Give Hope a Boost. It was reported that at least 30 per cent are being saved from cancer by education.

The most important news to come from the meeting was the announcement of a significant advance in the radiation treatment of cancer. It is part of the TRIUMF project at UBC and involves radiation much stronger than previously has been possible.

The name TRIUMF stands for Tri-University Meson Facility and involves the universities of B.C., Victoria and Simon Fraser and more lately the University of Alberta.

The new equipment is a cyclotron-type of nuclear accelerator of 500 million volts and will be the only facility of its kind in Canada, a report noted. Only two other groups in the world, Zurich, Switzerland and Los Alamos, New Mexico are working in the same field.

★ ★ ★

Dr. A. Maxwell Evans, medical director of the B.C. Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation told the meeting that because of the exciting potential in the treatment of cancer, the foundation has undertaken to build a special laboratory and treatment area at the TRIUMF at UBC.

★ ★ ★

It is estimated that it will be 1975 before the treatment of human tumors will begin.

Miss Nanaimo Contest

Lottery Fairest, Officials Claim

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO — The first discouraging word in the 1970 Miss Nanaimo contest was not heard — it was printed.

Lottery.

The word lottery, to describe the way this year's contestants and sponsors were matched, seems to some, a common word to use in connection with 18 girls of uncommon characteristics.

The trouble is, officials said, no one can think of a word to better describe the action of pulling a name, written on a piece of paper, from a bowl containing pieces of paper with names on them.

But whatever the word, the action has already proven successful.

The last man to have a name drawn from the bowl, Norm McNabb, of Sun Glo Lumber said, "As a newcomer, I'm very pleased with the results. It was the fairest and most legitimate way of doing it.

"I know I'm very happy with the girl I got, and I really had no choice, being the last sponsor to be called."

McNabb said, "I think we have an extremely good chance of winning, in spite of being the last to be paired off." Barbara Brandle is the 18-year-old Miss Sun Glo.

The day after the introduction of sponsors to the girls they would sponsor was one of curiosity. When reporters met each other after having the girls in their photographs identified, they compared their "shots." In short order, as if from hiding, sponsors appeared to peek over shoulders and point with pride.

★ ★ ★

"That's my girl! Isn't she a beauty? We've got it this year," were a few of the remarks.

Dick Smith of R and A Smith Plumbing and Heating sponsor of 17-year-old Yvonne Simpson echoed the same sentiments.

He added, "I think our girl has a good chance of winning." Smith's daughter, Barbara was a Miss Nanaimo contestant one year.

Mrs. Mega McDougal of McDougal's Florists, sponsor of Karon Sturton, 17, said, "This was the nicest and best atmosphere ever. We each took our chances with the next guy."

She said that in the four years her company had been a sponsor, the new method seemed the best one and resulted in a better feeling of community effort between sponsors willing to stand behind the young people in the community.

★ ★ ★

The girls, all 18 of them, are scheduled to meet the public in person April 23 in Harbor Park mall.

They meet their three judges during a pre-social April 24 and the following Saturday afternoon will be individually interviewed.

Then for one of the girls, Christmas comes the evening of April 25 when she is chosen Miss Nanaimo and has two princesses to attend her during the Miss Nanaimo dance.

Career Show a Hit

COURTENAY—Career Expo '70, sponsored by Courtenay Kiwanis Club in cooperation with Canada Manpower, was "an outstanding success" according to one official who also reported that more than 4,000 people attended.

The gymnasium of G. P. Vanier senior high school was manned by representatives from 63 fields of trade, industry and professions. Red-coated RCMP officers, showed color slides of life in training, other people, in the white of a nurse or green of a nurse's aide brightened the scene.

Sidney Launches Sewer Project

Quietly — and without referendum — Sidney council has embarked on a sewer construction program, expected to cost the taxpayers $50,000 a year or five mills per year for each ratepayer.

Mayor Stanley Dear said Saturday that plans presented to council last year by engineers Willis, Cunliffe, Tait and Company, pointed out the urgency of improvements and extensions to the present system, which has reached capacity.

"Council approved in January a proposal to borrow $500,000 for a major trunk line and sewage treatment plant," said Dear.

"We have many, many problems here, and it is essential that something be done right away."

Dear said there was no necessity for a referendum where an addition was being made to existing systems. General feeling in the town, he added, was in favor of the additions.

★ ★ ★

He said that every year during winter storms the sewers back up into basements and overflow at pumping stations and manholes in the town.

During high tides sewage backs up in the outfalls and overflows over beaches.

"We have been ordered by the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Health Board to eliminate all storm water from the sanitary sewers to try to alleviate this situation," he said. "Obviously we can't do it just like that, but we are also starting on a storm drain program which we hope to finance out of general revenue."

Dear said a sewage treatment plant will cost the municipality $100,000.

The plant, to be built in the northwest corner of Tulista Park, will serve a population of 6,000 to 8,000, he said. Current population estimates put 4,600 people in Sidney, up from 3,100 in the 1966 census.

He said the plant under consideration by the town could be added to by building more units as population grows.

"This will enable us to keep costs to a minimum so that this population doesn't have to pay for the people expected here in another 20 years," he said.

He said it is expected that Sidney will have to repay between $40,000 and $50,000 a year on its $500,000 loan.

"Two mills for us is about $19,000, so that will be about five mills," he said.

The town has asked the Capital Regional Board to arrange financing, and also to apply to the provincial and federal governments for any grants available for sewage trunks and treatment plants.

"The provincial government will pay three-quarters of any costs above two mills," he said, "But that, I understand is for sewage treatment only.

"I don't know how much help this will be to us, although we shall hope for the best."

The mayor said the engineers have been authorized to go ahead with the design work for the new trunks and it is expected that plans will be ready this summer.

★ ★ ★

"I can't really hazard a guess when we shall be able to start building, let alone a date for completion," he said. "I do hope we shall be finished before the end of 1972."

He said laterals are already in use throughout the town, connected to the overcharged system, and that only main trunks and pumping stations are needed.

Dear said storm drains are being built along Resthaven Drive, where a $130,000 project is nearing completion.

★ ★ ★

"The town's been growing at a tremendous rate, and building applications keep coming in," he said. "We simply have to make sure we have services available, and this is something that has been neglected."

Wins Election

Cable television operator Kenneth Stanlake was elected Saturday to fill vacancy on Central Saanich council. Term expires December, 1971. New alderman polled 438 of 822 votes cast with 30 per cent of those eligible voting in municipality's first byelection since 1951 incorporation. Other candidates were Patricia Grove, 307 votes, and Ronald Drayton, 72 votes. — (Jeffrey Pinniger)

Camper Crash Kills Girl

An 18-year-old girl died Saturday morning in Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital, minutes after a camper truck in which she was a passenger hit a telephone pole on Rockland near St. Charles.

Dead is Barbara Thomas of 2065 Oak Bay Avenue.

Victoria city police said the girl was riding in the back of the camper when the crash occurred, at 1:45 a.m. With her was Stephen Oare, 20, of 1530 Bank. He suffered back injuries and is reported in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

The dead girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thomas of Cherry Creek, near Port Alberni.

The driver of the truck, Stuart Alan Bridgeman, 20, of 3880 Cedar Hill, was not injured. Three more passengers riding in the truck's passenger compartment also escaped injuries, police said.

The impact of the collision lifted the camper off the truck, hurling it more than 100 feet through the air. The telephone pole was broken in two places, and wreckage was spread for more than 150 feet from the point of impact.

It was the third traffic fatality in Victoria last week.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said an inquest will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Sands Mortuary.

They've Lived Altogether 3,000 Years

By DON GAIN

These men have lived about 3,000 years—altogether.

The oldest present was August De Clark of Ladysmith, 94.

The youngest was Chief Justice J. O. Wilson of the B.C. Supreme Court, who came from Vancouver for the reunion.

He sailed away from Victoria to the First World War 54 years ago Tuesday at the age of 16.

"It was the greatest experience of my life," he said Saturday.

Not only were the veterans there but so, in spirit, were many who could not attend but sent letters from Vancouver, Duncan, Port Alberni, Chilliwack, Los Angeles, Cal., and the Ontario cities of London and Hamilton.

One wrote that he noted the number of his buddies who had died in the past year. "We are getting close to the time when the Last Post will be sounded for us, too," he wrote.

"Not a damned bit of it," said Major George Nicholson of Victoria, who was reading the letters.

Sam Young wrote from Los Angeles that his health was good and asked his friends to drink to it. "I think I'll outlast you all," he joked.

Mrs. R. A. Douglas of Victoria, daughter of Paddy Slavin, a professional prizefighter who had fought John L. Sullivan bare-fisted in Australia and enlisted at the age of 52, wrote recalling the day her father marched to the CPR dock with his battalion that day 54 years ago.

"Heads held high, rifles across the shoulders, so proud they looked," she wrote, "and it was a proud day for Victoria."

"So have a grand reunion and I'm sure all the old soldiers who have gone on before will be with you all in spirit tonight as I know old soldiers never die."

Mr. Justice Wilson recalled Joe Dakers, a trapper who came down from Northern B.C. with two grizzly bears, Romeo and Juliet, who became the mascots of the battalion.

Red Brown, who, as a groom, taught the men to ride, said he recalled "one of my sidekicks."

"I used to push him up one side of a horse and he'd fall off the other."

He had been in the Yukon as a youth and he recited some of Robert Service's poetry.

He spoke of his life "out on that Western Front." He spoke of Amiens, The Somme and Vimy.

"God bless your souls," he said. "I love you all, every one of you and I'll be here next year if . . . if . . ."

Touring XV Loses Again

EPSOM, England (Reuters) — The touring University School rugby team from Victoria, B.C., was beaten, 24-8, Monday by Epsom College.

The Canadians were strong in the first half and led 8-5 at halftime, but Epsom came back to take a hard-earned victory.

University School has now won only one out of four matches, concluding the British portion of their overseas tour Wednesday against Atlantic School.

Reps Bombed

TOKYO (Reuters) — A British Columbia rugby team was routed, 32-3, by an All-Japan side in an exhibition match here Sunday. All-Japan led 21-0 at half time.

Trudeau, left, Chartrand provide lively dialogue in Commons corridor

OTTAWA (CP) — A confrontation between Prime Minister Trudeau and labor leader Michel Chartrand of Montreal appeared to stop just short of blows Monday in a parliamentary corridor.

Trudeau was moving away after a heated conversation when Chartrand shouted that the prime minister was leaving with his "goons."

Trudeau wheeled and said:

"I don't need anyone to protect myself against you."

A crowd was in the corridor and men stepped between the two.

★ ★ ★

The exchange followed a meeting of Trudeau with Chartrand and other members of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions.

The confrontation, almost all of it in French, came after an acrid meeting between the Quebec labor leaders and the government in a room off the corridor.

During the meeting, Chartrand said Postmaster-General Eric Kierans should be jailed. Kierans just grinned.

As the meeting ended and participants left the room, Chartrand said a youth was imprisoned because he insulted Trudeau. He did not elaborate.

Trudeau denied this and said Chartrand was inventing things. Chartrand replied with a fusillade of accusation.

★ ★ ★

"You are raping the population," he said.

"I don't lie. You, you are a Christ of a liar.

"You are a slave of the United States . . . too slack to discuss your true problems.

Chartrand evidently referred to the Montreal postal dispute.

"There are 500,000 men out of work," he went on.

"You are a gang of prostitutes. The prostitutes are more respectable than you."

Scoreless Tie Over Inflation

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Trudeau and Canadian Labor Congress president Donald MacDonald Monday had a two-hour, face-to-face confrontation on inflation. It was a standoff.

Neither convinced the other nor did either seem to budge from dug-in positions.

In three times now rejecting the government's national appeal for voluntary wage and salary curbs, organized labor was "doing nothing" to help beat inflation, Trudeau charged.

MacDonald fired back that as far as labor was concerned with the call for wage restraints, "we couldn't do it if we wanted to and we wouldn't do it anyway."

★ ★ ★

In the overheated railway committee room of the Centre Block, packed to its doors with the crowd overflowing back into the hallways, there was irritation on both sides, with the prime minister and the congress president agreeing only on the broad proposition that somehow somebody had to halt inflation.

They parted over who was to do it and how.

The prime minister was "disappointed," as he put it, that labor for the third time was rejecting wage restraint.

The labor leader told him that if the congress was "naive enough" to go for wage restraint, "we know at

LONDON (UPI) — Cambodian Premier Lon Nol said Monday he would not return the U.S. munitions ship which mutineers hijacked to Cambodia March 14.

Gen. Nol told Fred Emery, the Times of London correspondent in Phnom Penh, that although the Americans had asked to be allowed to recover the ship, the Columbia Eagle, there was "a risk of misunderstanding."

"We are just going to leave it there," he said, chuckling.

TOT FALLS TO DEATH FROM SKY

BEAVER, Utah (UPI) — A 2-year-old boy playing in the back of a small airplane fell 2,000 feet to his death when the baggage compartment door opened.

The body of Jeffery Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Myers of Beaver, was found Saturday night south of town. He had plunged from a small plane during the afternoon while flying with his father.

U.S. Soldiers Tackle Mountain of Letters

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon declared the five-day-old United States postal strike a national emergency Monday and sent the first of 2,500 unarmed federal troops heading into New York City to help move a mountain of mail.

Even though troops are being sent now only to New York City, Nixon said he will not hesitate to use them elsewhere if necessary.

The crucial issue in the illegal strike, he said, is "the survival of government based on law."

In addition to ordering the 2,500 air force and army troops into New York City, the Pentagon called 15,000 members of the New York National Guard to standby status. They were ordered to report to their armories this morning for possible roles helping non-striking postal employees.

★ ★ ★

It was also understood the Pentagon planned to call up a large number of individual army, navy and air force reservists to strengthen the postal staffs.

It was not immediately clear whether these would be postal specialists.

★ ★ ★

So the return to normal service in the areas worst affected still hinged on the return to work of regular employees — under strong pressure from Nixon and their own leaders to abandon the strike so negotiations for a pay raise can start.

Postmaster-General Winton Blount stressed that "we're not talking about delivering mail in New York City —now or in the near future."

As Nixon took his unprece-

A Socred MLA who is a physician said Monday night he is "uneasy" about a bill before the Legislature which would allow the government to take over all B.C. hospitals.

Dr. Scott Wallace of Oak Bay said he is concerned the government "might well use (this power) in a subtle way over a period of time to take over every hospital in the province."

NDP and Liberal members condemned a proposed amendment to the Hospital Act which would allow the government to appoint a public administrator to run

'Sick-Out' Air Threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization Monday warned that a massive "sick-out" may shut down U.S. airways Wednesday.

In a letter to Defence Secretary Melvin Laird, the 7,500-man union said the slowdown would go into effect at 8 a.m. Wednesday in a protest over working conditions.

Robert Sturgill, spokesman for the union, said the controllers will report sick or ask for leave on the grounds of fatigue.

The controllers' new threat follows suspension of three controllers by the Federal Aviation Administration at Baton Rouge, La. The controllers have also made repeated requests to the FAA for better equipment and less overtime work.

Trinidad Takes Over Part-Canadian Bank

PORT OF SPAIN (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eric Williams announced Monday night the Trinidad government would take over the Bank of London and Montreal Ltd. here and use it as the headquarters of the country's proposed National Bank of Trinidad and Tobago.

★ ★ ★

In a countrywide television and radio broadcast apparently designed to answer Black Power demands for more economic independence in this Caribbean country, Williams announced a number of measures which observers interpreted as a step toward placating the extremists.

He announced a special 5-per-cent employment tax to begin from Jan. 1 this year and said all companies paying corporation tax and all banks and insurance companies, which are mainly foreign, would pay the special 5-percent levy.

Williams

Pioneer companies and partnerships which paid no corporation tax would also pay the levy on their tax-exempt profits, Williams said.

Williams said the fundamental feature of the demonstrations "was the insistence on black dignity, the manifestation of black consciousness and the demand for black economic power."

He added:

"The entire population must understand those demands are perfectly legitimate and are entirely in the interest of the community as a whole. If this is Black Power, then I am for Black Power."

However, he added: "Let there be no misunderstandings about this. It is a horse of a different color if what is involved is arson and Molotov cocktails.

"In that case the law will have to take its course."

In Montreal, Leonard Walker, president of the Bank of Montreal, said the takeover is "not unexpected."

Too Much for MPs—Knowles

Sweetened Pensions Pass

Those benefitting include former members of Parliament. Their maximum increases of up to 100 per cent outstrip other retired former public servants who receive increases ranging from two to 42 per cent.

Stanley Knowles (NDP-Winnipeg North Centre) in a final dissent said Parliament went too far on MPs' pensions in the bill, which later received a voice-vote third reading. It must get Senate approval.

★ ★ ★

The government now is obligated to open up for review all other federal pension legislation, including the Public Service Superannuation Act, he said. Parliament had opened up its own pension act. The same treatment should be accorded the others.

The current legislation amounts to a guaranteed annual income for any MP who wins two elections, Knowles said. The time had come to look at the old-age pension and to obtain a similar guarantee for others.

Also in need of review was the War Veterans Allowances Act and the Pension Benefits Standards Act. The latter, which lays down standards for many pensioners outside direct government service, needs a cost-of-living escalation clause, Knowles said.

Under the approved legislation, MPs with two or more terms would be eligible for pensions ranging from $6,300 to $13,500, depending on length of office, compared with the existing range of $3,000 to $9,000.

To receive benefits, MPs will contribute 7½ per cent of their annual $18,000 income. However, M. T. McCutcheon (PC-Lambton-Kent) said the figure really is 12 per cent of a real salary of $12,000. The other $6,000 is tax-free expense money.

Few people outside Parliament "will be called upon to make such a fantastic deposit" on a pension as the MPs, he said. The average MP would have "a helluva hard time" making it.

At the same time, McCutcheon supported the idea of withholding MPs'

Israel 'Disappointed'

● Jets not needed now. Page 13

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban expressed "disappointment and concern" Monday at Washington's decision to withhold for the time being further supplies of warplanes to Israel.

But he stated Israel "attaches importance" to U.S. State Secretary William Rogers' comment that his government is carefully examining the Middle East conflict and the arms buildup in this region.

Eban's statement was broadcast throughout Israel after Rogers ended a news conference in Washington.

The foreign minister warned that the American decision to hold in abeyance the decision on further arms supplies to Isreal might "increase the belligerence" of Egypt.

But he thanked the state secretary for his promise that the United States would give Israel about $100,000,000 in financial aid.

Committal Attempt Failed Before Death

By NANCY BROWN

An unsuccessful attempt was made to get a man admitted to the Eric Martin Institute five days before he was killed by a three-ton truck, a coroner's jury was told Monday night.

It would have been necessary to have set up a bed in the corridor in the Eric Martin Institute of Psychiatry if Bela William Dallos, 42, 1317 Gladstone had been admitted there on March 14, said psychiatrist Dr. Pierre d'Estrube.

He said he had been called out to Royal Jubilee Hospital that day to see Dallos who had been taken to the emergency ward there.

★ ★ ★

"I gather he had made an attempt to leap from the window in the cafeteria where he was having coffee before I got there," said Dr. d'Estrube.

He said Dallos was suffering from schizophrenia of a paranoid type.

★ ★ ★

"I felt he was ill enough to be admitted," said Dr. d'Estrube.

"I phoned the Eric Martin Institute and found it was over-filled and overbrimming.

"To compound matters and troubles a window had been broken and it diminished the bed capacity by yet another bed."

He said he decided that the best way to cope with the emergency situation was to put Dallos, who was already responding to an intramuscular tranquilizer shot, onto a drug program and commit him to the care of his family.

★ ★ ★

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said he was surprised at the bed shortage. "It seems like a huge monolithic structure," he said.

"It's a matter of trying to make the best use of an extremely poorly — designed building for the job," replied Dr. d'Estrube.

"We fly by the seat of our pants as psychiatrists because there are a tremendous number of people who are disturbed and not admitted," he said. "We have to do the best we can to make arrangements such as I have described in committing a patient to the care of his family."

★ ★ ★

"It is possible to keep these people operating outside of a mental hospital but this is always a gamble," said the psychiatrist.

Dallos' physician, Dr. Andrew Ross said Dallos had been admitted to Riverview mental hospital in New Westminster twice and discharged on both occasions.

He first entered the hospital in December 1968, staying about six weeks, and in that time had tried to take his own life.

Dallos' brother, Sandor Dallos, 1317 Gladstone, said his brother had tried many times to kill himself. He had appeared quite normal on the day of his death, but had disappeared for a time when the two were out together.

Truck driver William Hodgson, 3781 Saanich Road, said he was driving east on Bay Street between 10 and 10:30 a.m. March 19, nearing Government Street.

"I didn't notice Mr. Dallos standing on the sidewalk.

"It seemed all at once I had a man more or less dive under the front of my truck. I had a look at him diving. I immediately hit my brakes and came to a stop."

He said the man was pinned under the dual rear wheels of the truck.

Dallos was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

The inquest will continue at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Victoria Law Courts.

Construction Cartridges Disappear

By BRUCE LOWTHER

An estimated 400 explosive-type construction cartridges, which could kill if used improperly, were stolen from the partly-built Arbutus high school during the weekend, Saanich police disclosed Monday.

Also stolen were 200 packages of Jet Line, used as a projectile in construction, but police said these were not considered dangerous.

Deputy Chief R. A. Peterson issued a special appeal to parents and other citizens to report any information on the stolen items at once to Saanich police at 388-4321.

★ ★ ★

Prime contractor for the school is W. Campbell Ltd. and the building is rising in the area bounded by Finnerty, Arbutus, Edgelow and Gordon Head. Police said the cartridges, in an unknown number of boxes, and the Jet Line packages disappeared from a storage centre in the building.

Builders use the cartridges in a "gun" to drive nails into concrete. The cartridges look like .22 calibre short blanks and have an exterior shell of brass with the ends colored yellow and red, and possibly brown and blue. The color indicates the explosive charge.

—William A. Boucher

Mates of stolen cartridges, Star boxes

Most of the cartridges are believed to be in cardboard boxes about two and one-quarter inches square and one and one-half inches deep. The boxes are blue and red and some may be marked A-4. Some smaller boxes, marked Star, are two inches square and one and one-quarter inches deep.

Peterson said the danger might be small in using a cartridge as a blank, but was large if children pound cartridges with a rock as is sometimes done with blasting caps.

He emphasized police aren't positive the thieves were children but said parents should be warned the possibility exists. Anyone who finds the cartridges should leave them alone and lead police to them for safety's sake, he said.

The Jet Lines are shaped like firecrackers and are shot through conduits so wires can be dragged through. Their detonation requires projectiles which were not stolen and police said the Jet Lines are in packages that are colored red, yellow and white.

Back to Drawing Board

By JOHN MATTERS

Mayor Courtney Haddock asked the city engineering department Monday to have another look at the need for an underpass-overpass road system at the doorstep of St. Joseph's Hospital.

Until it ran into provincial government objections, the city planned to extend Belleville through the existing St. Ann's Academy property to divert James Bay traffic from Douglas and Government Streets.

However, St. Joseph's hospital wants to use the academy property for hospital expansion and B.C. Health Minister Loffmark will not allow such a street through a hospital site.

As a result, the city has said that an overpass-underpass system would be required to handle heavy traffic around the academy grounds. Last estimates are about $2,000,000.

"We can't accept that additional $2,000,000 that would have to be paid by the people of Victoria," said Haddock. "There has been enough of that in the past."

The mayor said that in addition to bothering St. Joseph's, such a road system might injure other unique features of that part of the city.

★ ★ ★

"We have a very lovely church (The Church of Our Lord) near there, too, and I hope our engineers can find some other way around this problem."

St. Joseph's extended care centre — a 150-bed unit — would be south of an extended Belleville while the acute-care portion of the hospital would be north of the street.

Haddock said city engineer James Garnett is out of town this week but as soon as he returns the mayor will see if "there is some other compromise."

At a meeting with capital region hospital authorities Friday, Loffmark reiterated his stand that a major traffic artery could not bisect a hospital site and he made it clear that, in his terms, other alternative would have to be found for the traffic problem.

"He (Loffmark) doesn't want to be at all flexible," said Haddock.

After the meeting, Mayor Hugh Curtis of Saanich, who is chairman of the Capital Regional Board, said he would recommend that the plans for the 150-bed extended care centre at St. Joseph's be shelved for the time being.

He said he wanted the regional district to execute, as fast as possible, the plans for the other 450 extended-care beds that were approved by Greater Victoria ratepayers 17 months ago.

★ ★ ★

Curtis wanted the extension put aside only for the time being — he did not want the proposal abandoned.

Mayor Haddock was asked if it is possible that Loffmark wants the regional board to conform to the recommendations of the Agnew, Peckham report on Greater Victoria's medical needs.

Units of 150-bed extended care centres for both Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's now planned by the regional district — were not in the Agnew, Peckham priorities.

"I'm not used to this fast political footwork," said Haddock. "I can see only what seems to be a simple solution but our engineering department has been asked to see if there could be a compromise on the street problem."

Planning On Agenda

Planning in the Highlands will be discussed at a meeting of the Highland District Ratepayers' Association at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Millstream elementary school.

Feelings, Rules Conflict

Saanich council Monday night reluctantly rejected a rezoning application from a man who wanted to provide a residence for his elderly mother and a sister.

Manfred Liedtke wanted to put them in a second home on his 6.5-acre property at 5843 Old West Saanich Road. However, council decided this would be the equivalent of subdividing the site, which is contrary to municipal bylaw.

Mayor Hugh Curtis subsequently asked municipal planner Tom Loney to help Liedtke resolve the problem. The alternatives are to convert the home to a duplex or make an addition to it.

★ ★ ★

Curtis pointed out that it was a classic case of council having to choose between humanitarian and planning principles.

The mayor added that if Liedtke sold the property with two dwellings on it, the new owner could challenge municipal bylaws.

Sitting as a rezoning hearing, council also approved an application that would allow for expansion of the Cock Pheasant restaurant at 5285 West Saanich Road.

After hearing two other rezoning applications, Ald. Alan Newberry said they appeared to be cases where developers bought mass-produced building plans only to expedite the rezoning applications.

Parking Fines Still Same

Fines for parking meter violations in Victoria, which were supposed to double March 16, still haven't taken the jump and no one seemed sure Monday when they will.

Victoria city council approved a resolution March 12 authorizing Mayor Courtney Haddock to "consult with" Judge William Ostler of Victoria Provincial Court "to provide for the increasing of parking meter violation fines."

The proposed increase was to $2 from $1 and the penalty for late payment of the fines was to go to $5 from $2.50, with both increases effective March 16.

Council acted after the mayor said he had already consulted with the judge and the latter had indicated approval.

★ ★ ★

But Provincial Court sources indicated Monday there had been no Haddock-Ostler meeting since and no directive had been received from city hall.

Haddock said the delay was probably due to the fact that notice of city council's decision hadn't reached Ostler.

"I understand the letter reached the clerk of the court today and as soon as the mechanics of the switchover are completed the new fines will be in effect," he said.

Meanwhile, he said, motorists getting parking tickets would be charged the usual fine of $1.

"They made a buck," he said.

Sisters Asphyxiated

Dancing Pair Dies

Modern civilization and Indian tradition combined early Sunday to cause the deaths of two sisters in a van, parked on the East Saanich Indian reserve, and thereby leaving 10 children motherless.

The victims were Mrs. Alex Johnny, 28, of Khenipsen Road near Duncan, the mother of seven children, and her sister Mrs. Joseph Wise, 24, of 1101 Robin Road in Nanaimo, the mother of three children.

★ ★ ★

They were awaiting their turn to take part in a ceremonial designed to ease the spirit of a tribe member when they apparently decided to get some sleep in the van, with the heater on, and were overcome by carbon monoxide poisoning.

Sidney Coroner D. G. Ashby is expected to hold an inquiry today into the deaths of the two women, members of the Rice family of Crofton.

★ ★ ★

Sidney RCMP and Indian sources in the area told this story:

A woman member of the tribe asked for a ceremonial in honor of her husband, who died about two years ago from a heart attack. The event was to be held in the reserve's big community centre, often called the Smoke House, from 6 p.m. Saturday to 9 a.m. Sunday.

Wise

Mrs. Johnny, born Muriel Rice, had been dancing at such events for about four years while Mrs. Wise, born Patricia Rice and known as Patsy, had just earned her dancer's hat.

While awaiting their part, they apparently decided to rest in the van, one in the front seat and the other in the back, with the engine and heater on. They were found at about 3:30 a.m. by Lena Pelkey, daughter of tribal leader Harold Pelkey, after she went to call them to the ceremonial.

An unidentified girl at the ceremonial, who had taken a first-aid course, tried artificial respiration and a doctor at Rest Haven Hospital worked on the sisters for more than an hour — but to no avail.

The ceremonial was called off at about 6 a.m., shortly after the doctor confirmed the dancing sisters were dead.

Libraries 'Lacking' In Saanich District

Saanich school district has good teachers and good buildings but is lagging badly in the matter of libraries, members of the district board were told monday.

District superintendent Mort Thorsell said the district did not measure up to a requirement survey conducted by the provincial government back in 1961 and 1962, let alone today when needs were far higher and more imperative.

The book count per pupil varies in different schools in the district, Thorsell said, but approaches the standard requirement of 10 books per pupil in only a few cases.

Furthermore, he said, the assessment and book count in the district as submitted included paperbacks and encyclopedias.

Trustee Zachary Hamilton agreed the library situation was far from good and said a policy of improvement would have to be embarked upon.

Sign War: Chapter Two

By HUBERT BEYER

"At times, it's sure difficult to be an alderman," Victoria Ald. Peter Pollen said Monday afternoon and slammed his office door behind him.

The cause of his anger was the lettering on a small sign mounted below a large billboard opposite Town and Country shopping centre which proclaimed: "Peter Pollen advertised here for over four years."

Pollen said he had given the Pacific Neon Sign Company until 5 p.m. to remove the lettering, which he said was put up Monday morning.

"This is the kind of reaction I get for advocating a better and more comprehensive sign bylaw," he said.

Last week, Pollen told Victoria's finance committee that Douglas Street had become "a wasteland of signs and billboards," making the entrance to the city "a disgrace."

He said the city's sign bylaw should be more effective to discourage the multitude of signs on Douglas blocking building entrances and hotel facades.

"The moment someone tries to do something about it, you get this almost primitive response," Pollen said Monday.

"There are a lot of pressure groups in this city which aren't interested in the general public's welfare. They join associations which protect their vested interests, and you can't resolve anything," he said.

"I would like to see an intelligent approach taken to to the establishment of a sign bylaw that protects not only the general public and the city's beauty, but also the sign industry."

Unless such an objective was established, the public would eventually demand complete removal of all signs. That, he said, would be as bad as too many signs.

Now you see it . . .

"I also don't criticize the sign industry. They just play the game according to the rules we (politicians) make."

Pacific Neon's president, C. S. Vickery, said he had ordered the removal of the lettering to which Pollen objected.

"I guess I made a mistake, so I didn't want to call his (Pollen's) bluff," he said.

"But I still feel that anybody who has made use of a service shouldn't try to deprive anybody else of the same service and that's what Mr. Pollen is doing."
